RAIN RUNOFF — A storm that dropped half an inch of rain on much of Marin added its weight of water to create a miniature Niagara where the Corte Madera Creek project ends near the Ross Post Office. Catching the attention of an unidentified youngster was the beaver-like dam of debris just above the manmade cofferdam. The extra water in the creek was an echo of what many hope may be a generous addition to Marin's low reservoirs.

Planners Seek More Improvement Outlay

County Tax Rate Hike Said Possible Solution

The Marin County Planning Commission, reviewing the county's long-range capital improvement program, recommended yesterday that more money be pumped into the program — now estimated at $37.5 million. (Other planning commission stories, page 7.)

"We contend that a growing, active community cannot adequately provide for its capital improvement needs with the restraints and assumptions of the proposed program," the commission said.

It said the 5-per-cent annual increase in the six-year budget forecast would probably not cover the increases in construction and land costs.

While not setting a figure, the commission said the board of supervisors should consider increasing the county tax rate to provide for a more ambitious program divided into road projects and other major expenditures such as parks.

"A bond issue for special purposes could raise more funds in less time," it added. "It would be a test to see if the ambitious plans for the future will actually be supported by the residents of Marin County."

The proposed six-year budget is broken into two sections: The road improvement fund at $17.9 million and the general improvement fund at $19.6 million.

Under the road improvement fund, about $2.9 million is proposed to be spend during fiscal 1972-73. About half that amount is for major road projects and the remainder for maintenance and administration.

The general improvements projects proposed for the coming year total about $2 million, of which $300,000 is slated for an open space acquisition fund.

In its review of the improvements program, proposed by County Administrator John F. Barrows, the commission made three major proposals.

The first calls on the county to increase the proposed allocation for open space from $300,000 to "at least double."

"Considering the importance of this program for the land use planning in the entire county, and the strong public support which appears to be forming, we recommend that the annual allocation be at least double," it said.

Its second proposal deals with $1.4 million slated for Civic Center landscaping and parking during the last three years (1975-1975) of the program.

Under Barrows's recommendation, a proposed 500-car parking building may be constructed as well as tightening up of existing parking spaces and use of shuttle buses.

The planning commission recommended, however, that the county investigate a "parking district" at the civic center to finance construction of the parking building.

"The financing of the parking building should be partly or entirely financed through parking fees," it said. "Employees should be charged for parking their cars ... This would be a fair solution if an efficient intra-county transit system is in existence at that time."

The commission's final major proposal calls for supervisors to reconsider earlier plans to route the Miller Avenue extension near Mill Valley through a vacant marsh.

The extension, bogged down for years, is currently being considered for routing along the existing right-of-way through Dolan's Corner.

Another Hit At Dry Spell

Following by less than a week a rainstorm that broke Marin and Southern Sonoma County's spring dry spell, another storm dumped varying amounts up to more than a half an inch of rain last night and this morning on the area.

The forecast calls for 30 per cent chance of rain tonight and 60 per cent tomorrow.

It is too early to tell what effect this second storm will have on Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs, said J. Detrich Stroeh, district engineer.

"The reservoirs today are at the same level as yesterday, but during rainfall, the consumption drops. We should be able to tell how much runoff we get from this storm by tomorrow and I hope it will be a good report," he said.

The North Marin County Water District also reported that the rain had no appreciable effect on raising the level of water in Stafford Dam. The district, however, will not face a water shortage because it has an adequate supply from the Russian River.

At noon today, San Rafael reported .84 inches of rainfall, making the year's total 17.93 or approximately half the normal rainfall.

At least eight cars were involved in three separate accidents during a heavy squall at 9 a.m. in the northbound lanes of Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill.

Northbound traffic was not slowed by the rear-front end accidents as they pulled off to the side of the road. However, southbound lanes became clogged as drivers slowed down to look at the accidents.

Rainfall reported elsewhere in the county was .31 inch at Belvedere at 7 a.m. Other amounts at 8 a.m. were: Tamalpais Valley, .60; Tiburon, .58; Mill Valley, .57; Novato, .45; and Bolinas, .41 and Woodacre .52.

Major U.S. Fire Base Near Hue Under Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—Fresh North Vietnamese troops moving in from the A Shau Valley have launched five assaults on Fire Base Bastogne 10 miles southwest of Hue in a threat to the city and the northernmost American base in South Vietnam, field dispatches said today.

The five attacks carried out under heavy mortar fire were repulsed with the loss of 126 Communists left hanging on the barbed wire defenses. But the United States rushed 400 American combat troops and artillery battery to Phu Cai, 10 miles east of Bastogne, the reports said.

Phu Bai, itself only 10 miles south of Hue and 50 miles north of Da Nang, is the most northern American base left in South Vietnam. UPI Correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from Phu Bai today that there were 1,800 American in troops there now and that they would begin what the army called a "dynamic defense"—aggressive patrols.

South Vietnam reported a series of major victories in Quang Tri Province to the north with the death of nearly 500 Communists in a series of sharp firefights and heavy bombings by B52s and American fighter-bombers, but the major threat now appeared to be toward Hue, the old imperial capital.

Field reports said the North Vietnamese had thrown 2,500 troops into the assault on Bastogne Tuesday night and today, that there were a total of 7,500 Communist troops in the area and that Bastogne was ringed with Communist antiaircraft batteries, making resupply difficult.

The North Vietnamese overran Fire Base Anne, 18 miles southwest of Hue, last week and only two bases stand between them and Hue— Bastogne and Birmingham, a few miles to the east.

UPI Correspondent Kim Willenson reported from Da Nang that officers there said a full wing of three squadrons of Marine jet fighters was expected from California to join other squadrons flown in from Tokyo, building up the air strength at Da Nang to the highest point in many months.

The buildup coincided with field reports from the Central Highlands 280 miles north of Saigon telling of shelling attacks during the night against virtually every Allied base in Kontum Province and speculation by officers in the field that the Communists may launch a long-expected offensive there at any time. So far ground fighting has been sporadic.

U.S. Maj. Gen. James F. Hollingsworth, senior military adviser in the 11 province area surrounding Saigon, reported the Communist thrust down Highway 13 toward Saigon had been halted. He said the North Vietnamese were on the run and that his objective was to kill them before they can escape to Cambodia.

Despite Hollingsworth's optimistic statements, a force of 500 Communists hit an airborne government spearhead inching up Highway 13 about 20 miles below An Loc, and the troops dug in at the side of the road for the night, the advance at a halt for the time being.

New and heavy fighting was reported in the Central Highlands.

REGISTERING DEADLINE IS THURSDAY

Deadline for those who must register in order to vote June 6 in the primary election is 9 p.m. Thursday, the Marin County elections office reminded would-be voters today.

Those who have changed their address or name and those who failed to vote in the last general election must register to be eligible.

The elections office in the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center will be open till 5 p.m. tomorrow and Thursday to accept registration. In addition, a registration desk will be set up in the lobby of the Civic Center's administration wing and will be open till 9 o'clock both evenings.

Balloting Starts Out Light

Approximately 10 per cent of the 48,246 eligible voters in Marin had ventured out into the rain by 11 a.m. today to cast their ballots in the county's municipal elections.

In Southern Sonoma, voting was reported as generally slow in both Cotati and Rohnert Park.

At the two polling places in Cotati, 53 of the 500 possible voters had cast ballots at Cotati School and 51 out of 600 at the Cotati Veterans Memorial Building.

In Rohnert Park's three polling places, 83 out of 950 had cast ballots at Rohnert Park Junior High School; 90 out of 850 at John Reed School; and 79 out of 800 at Waldo Rohnert School

Polling sites, however, remain open until 7 p.m. and a rush of voters was anticipated when voters return from work.

A survey of sample precincts throughout Marin County revealed:

City Hall in Fairfax reported 115 voters out of 921 eligible.

San Anselmo City Hall recorded only 49 voters out of 719.

Greenbrae School reported 78 voters out of 700.

Mill Valley City Hall reported 92 out of 952.

Peter Meyer, Marin County elections officer, said, "The rains will put a slight damper

Narcotics Case Pair Found Dead

The bodies of a young man and woman, due to testify in court today in a narcotics case, were found yesterday in their San Rafael motel room, victims of what police speculate may have been an overdose of drugs.

The bodies of Shirley Jean Fabian, 27, and her common-law husband, Stephen Michael Weeks, 24, were discovered yesterday by Donald Midyett, a district attorney's investigator who had gone to the motel at 1600 Lincoln Avenue to advise the pair to be in court that day as witnesses in a case.

An autopsy had not been completed this morning, but it was thought death was due to an overdose of narcotics, police said.

Mrs. Fabian was to testify on an assault charge stemming from a case about a year ago in

Adm. Moorer Reportedly Says North Viet Thrust Contained

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reported today that the North Vietnamese thrust into South Vietnam has been contained, according to congressmen who attended a closed hearing.

As fresh North Vietnamese troops moved into the battle, posing a threat to Hue and the northernmost U.S. firebase at Phu Bai, there was no elaboration either from congressmen who heard him or from the Pentagon on Moorer's assessment of the situation.

"He told us that the invasion had been contained," said one representative following a two-hour meeting. "I would say he was guardedly optimistic."

The admiral briefed members of the House Armed Services Committee on the military options still open to the United States in the event the current level of U.S. support for the South Vietnamese did not prove adequate.

Those alternatives, according to one lawmaker present, would include bombing deeper into North Vietnam and hitting at targets such as Haiphong Harbor.

Another possibility mentioned by the congressmen, who declined to say whether Moorer brought it up, was a South Vietnamese commando raid on the North.

Finally, it was said that the United States could step up in intensity and quantity the air and firepower support it was now providing.

Moorer apparently left the clear impression that one option not being considered was reintroducing U.S. combat ground combat troops to South Vietnam, sources said.

The Pentagon described as "obviously in error" reports that American ground troops were being readied for movement from U.S. bases to Vietnam.

Defense Department Spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim made the denial yesterday after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had described the dispatch of additional U.S. air and naval forces to Southeast Asia as "insurance"

Hanoi Warns U.S. On Any New Troop Plans

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam said today that if American ground troops were ordered into the South Vietnamese fighting again, the move would be met with determined resistance by Hanoi.

Nguyen Minh Vy, Hanoi's deputy peace negotiator, told a news conference, "If U.S. ground troops are again engaged in fighting it will be a new step in American aggression and we are determined to crush it."

Vy called on the Nixon administration to reopen the suspended Paris peace conference in spite of the fighting and U.S. bombing. It was the fifth Communist demand to reopen the talks.

He indicated Hanoi's readiness to resume the talks even if the U.S. air raids on his country go on.

"We demand that the United States stop its bombing and resume the regular Paris peace talks sessions," Vy said.

A South Vietnamese delegation spokesman immediately brushed aside the call for resumption of the talks while the Communist offensive is under way.

"As long as the Hanoi leaders continue to seek a military victory as a solution to the conflict and to put pressure on the Paris talks to win compliance with their absurd and unreasonable demands, it's the South Vietnamese people's sacred duty to defend their country by all means," the spokesman said.

Carrier Leaves

More Tremors In Iran During Rescue Efforts

TEHERAN (UPI)—Army rescue teams worked around the clock Tuesday, digging victims of Monday's devastating earthquake from the rubble of their homes, as another 1,000 minor tremors rocked southern Iran.

The official news agency Pars said 4,000 persons died in the quake in the province of Fars, 610 miles south of the capital. However, Pars added, "This report still is not officially confirmed."

One thousand tremors of varying intensity have been recorded in Fars Province since the major shock reduced most of the villages in the area to heaps of debris, a spokesman for the University of Teheran Geographics Department said.

The initial shock razed 45 of the 60 villages and measured 7.0 on the 10-point Richter Scale. It was the most severe earthquake of the past decade, the university spokesman said.

In the village of Ghir alone, 963 persons were killed.

Rescue squads carefully probed the wreckage of adobe dwellings with hand shovels and picks, sometime guided by the cries of victims buried beneath.

Each new tremor brought the risk of fresh landslides and hampered the arrival of rescue equipment, medical supplies and teams of relief workers.

Premier Amir-Abbas Hoveida gave top priority to the clearing and repairing of roads approaching the disaster area.

Repeated earth shocks—an average one every 90 seconds—caused panic among survivors fleeing demolished villages. Most of them pitched tents on surrounding plains scarred by wide fissures.

FDA Accepts Food Maker Unque Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unprecedented food industry plea for more federal regulation has been accepted by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in an attempt to prevent incidents such as last summer's discovery of a botulism-causing toxin in canned soup.

"Had this program been in effect last summer there would have been no Bon Vivant incident," Dr. Ira L. Somers, president of the National Canners Association (NCA), told a news conference Monday.

One man died last summer after eating Bon Vivant Vichysoisse containing botulin —a deadly germ that can grow in foods improperly sterilized after canning.

A month later, botulin was discovered in a can of Campbell's soup, but no injuries resulted. Somers said the regulation probably would have prevented the Campbell's contamination too.

The NCA proposed the regulations to the FDA in November. FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said Monday that the rules would be formally adopted within two weeks. They require canners to clear their processing methods with the FDA, open processing files to FDA inspectors and train key personnel at FDA-approved schools.

The FDA could close any cannery failing to meet the standards. At present, FDA inspectors are rarely allowed to check cannery files and processors are not required to register with the FDA, much less clear their processing methods.

Referring to the Bon Vivant and Campbell's incidents, Edwards said the FDA learned last year that "neither the small nor the large food companies were free of problems in food safety."

Meat Profiteering Denied By Food Chain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A food chain spokesman today denied that retailers have profiteered at the expense of farmers and consumers by widening their meat profits.

Retail meat prices have already dropped and should be "very favorable" for consumers through July, said Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains. He was called to tell the retailers' side of the meat price story today at a House subcommittee investigation of beef prices.

Some farm spokesmen at the opening session of the inquiry Monday said retail prices — which turned down in many stores about April 1 —earlier had been boosted by more than was needed to keep pace with last winter's increase in cattle prices.

Adamy told UPI that when all figures are posted, the average gain in 1972 food prices compared to 1971 levels will be smaller than the gain in all consumer items, and smaller than last year's 2.7 per cent gain in food prices.

The Agriculture Department has predicted that 1972 retail food prices (excluding restaurant tabs) will be up 4 per cent over last year.

"They can be wrong. They've made mistakes every year for the past seven years," Adamy said.

Adamy conceded that food chains were slow in cutting retail beef prices after farm and wholesale prices began declining in February; but he contended this expansion of the farm-to-retail margin was only a partial catch-up for a squeeze food chains suffered because they were slow to raise retail prices last year when farm-wholesale prices began moving up.

"We took a beating on the up side," Adamy said. Overall, chains suffered a slight net loss in their margins from last fall through March, he added.

The retailer spokesman said he expected "very favorable" meat prices for consumers in coming months because increasing supplies of beef and poultry will more than offset smaller pork supplies.

The increase in beef prices earlier this year was a "supply situation", Adamy added.

The House subcommittee hearing Adamy and other farm and industry witnesses opened its sessions Monday but will suspend them Wednesday when the Price Commission opens its hearings on the same subject. On Thursday, the House panel headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., will hear administration and consumer witnesses including Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser.

Musk Oxen In Peking Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Milton and Matilda are safely ensconced in their new home in Peking.

That was the word received Monday by San Francisco Zoo Director Ronald Reuther.

Milton and Matilda are musk oxen given by President Nixon to the Chinese in a goodwill exchange for two giant pandas. The oxen had been residents of the zoo here.

Reuther said he received a cablegram from Dr. Theodore Reed of the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., who accompanied the oxen to China.

The oxen were flown out of Travis Air Force Base last waek, and the two pandas will go to the National Zoo.

Arbor Day Observed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Richard Nixon observed the 100th anniversary of Arbor Day by planting a 12-foot fern leaf beech tree from Nebraska City, Neb., on the White House lawn.

Soldiers Die Herding Irish From Bombs

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Two British soldiers trying to herd rock-throwing youngsters away from a suspected bomb site were killed Monday night when the explosives went off, the army said. The Irish Republican Army (IRA) promptly claimed responsibility for the killings.

Right-wing Protestants, angered by the soldiers' deaths, criticized British government efforts toqconciliate Roman Catholics and demanded the army invade areas held by the outlawed IRA.

ASKS REMOVAL

The militant Protestant Ulster Vanguard, led by former Home Affairs Minister William Craig, urged Secretary of State for Northern Ireland William Whitelaw to remove the barricades erected by the IRA around certain areas off-limits to British troops. The so-called "no go" areas are avoided by troops for fear of prompting street-fighting that would lead to more deaths in the violence-wracked province.

CLAIMS CREDIT

The IRA claimed credit for the bombing deaths of the two soldiers, which raised to 301 the number of persons killed in almost three years of escalating violence in Northern Ireland.

The victims of Monday night's Londonderry blast were Lance Bombardier Eric Blackburn, 24, and Bombardier Brian Thomasson, 21, commander and second-in-command of a patrol rushed to the Bowling Green Pavilion in the Roman Catholic Rosemount district after an anonymous telephone caller warned that a bomb had been planted there.

BOMB FOUND

The patrol found the bomb and, while waiting for explosives experts to arrive to attempt dismantling it, dispersed gangs of rock-throwing "young hooligans," an army spokesman said.

"They got rid of the youths once and moved behind safe cover," the army spokesman said. "But the youths started throwing rocks again. Blackburn and Thomasson moved out into the open to warn them off. The blast caught them before they could regain cover. They gave their lives saving those young hooligans."

The blast deaths raised to 304 the number of persons killed in almost three years of escalating violence in Northern Ireland.

The Londonderry command of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) official wing claimed responsibility for the bombing.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Fire On Gypsies

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — Unidentified gunmen opened fire with shotguns and rifles on a gypsy camp near Kent late Monday night, but none of the 30 men, women and children seated around a campfire was injured.

"The shots were falling like rain," said one of the migrants, who had been camping about three miles south of Kent since last week.

The gypsies told Portage County sheriff's deputies they were sitting around a campfire when the shooting started. "We put out the lights and yelled to everyone to get under the trailer," one of the group said.

To Run Again

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Rev. Andrew Young, onetime key aide to the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., announced Monday night that he will again be a candidate to represent Atlanta in Congress.

His election would mark the first time the deep South has had a black congressman since reconstruction.

Young, who won the Democratic nomination to Congress two years ago only to barely lose to incumbent Republican Fletcher Thompson in the general election, appears to have a better chance this time.

Culture Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union signed a two-year cultural agreement today that calls for more exchanges of musical dance groups despite protests against Soviet performers in America.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Bean and A. A. Smirnov, a deputy foreign minister, signed the agreement in a ceremony in Moscow's ornate Spiridonovsky Palace.

Beam praised the "long and distinguished record" of Soviet-American cultural agreements, which have existed since 1958.

Dogs Kill Woman

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Three pedigreed boxers worth thousands of dollars, apparently roused by the smell of blood from a cut, attacked a woman yesterday, killing and partially eating her as she fought back in a bloody struggle.

The dogs were docile again when police arrived, and allowed the officers to pet them.

The dead woman was identified by police as Mrs. Josefine N. Waters, 63, whose body was found in the backyard of her home, where she kept eight pedigreed show dogs. Police said they were told by dog handlers the boxer pack was worth about $40,000

Apollo Physicals

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Doctors give Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke and Thomas K. Mattingly their final major physical examination today — with the emphasis on their hearts — before their Sunday launch toward the moon.

A team of physicians led by Dr. Charles K. Lapinta planned to spend the entire morning giving the astronauts a thorough checkup to make sure they are in perfect health for the 12-day mission to explore a highlands area of the moon.

The last time Mattingly went through the big "minus five-day" exam — for Apollo 13 in April, 1970 — he passed with flying colors only to learn two days later he had a potential case of German measles and had to give up his seat.

LBJ Improves

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, continuing to improve from his second heart attack, sat up in bed Monday and read telegrams from well-wishers.

Dr. Richard S. Crampton, chief of the coronary care unit at the University of Virginia hospital, said Johnson, 63, spent some time with his wife, Lady Bird, and his daughter, Linda, and "continues to show improvement."

SALT Session

HELSINKI (UPI) — Negotiators for the United States and the Soviet Union met for 80 minutes at the Soviet Embassy today for the 118th session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

The U.S. delegation led by Chief negotiator Gerard C. Smith came as scheduled to the meeting with his Soviet counterpart, Vladimir S. Semenov at 11 a.m. local time. The session lasting until 12:20 p.m. was the shortest SALT meeting so far in Helsinki.

Podgorny In Ankara

ANKARA (UPI) — Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny arrived in Ankara today for a six-day state visit to emphasize the new friendly links between Moscow and Turkey which fought each other for centuries.

Connally Warns Tax Preparers

CHICAGO (UPI)—Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said Monday a spot check of income tax returns prepared for taxpayers by tax services showed 97 per cent were fradulently prepared.

Connally told the 50th annual National Association of Broadcasters Convention that a check of 400 returns in the Southeast prepared by persons other than the taxpayers showed an "incredible performance...a rather amazing statistic."

"We will check hundreds, thousands, perhaps even millions of tax returns that we had not anticipated checking on the basis of this survey," Connally said.

"Is this symtomatic of what is happening in this country?" he asked. "Obviously this requires action and we are going to take it."

Connally said most of the fraud turned up was on "very minor" items. For example, Connally said one woman who gave birth to a child Jan. 3 moved the date back to December to obtain a deduction for the previous year.

"Forty indictments have been handed down as a result of the investigation we made (in the Southeast)," he said.

Connally also said it was an "oversimplification" to attribute the Wisconsin primary showings last week of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Alabama Gov. George Wallace to voter dissatisfaction with taxes.

Connally, a Democrat, told the broadcasters that he "had no tricks that will solve the nation's economic problems," but promised that President Nixon's economic program is going to work "because there is no alternative to it."

Although meat prices hit a 20-year high in February, Connally said "it would be a mistake" for the federal government to try to control food prices. Raw foods were exempted from the President's wage and price freeze.

Connally said meat prices would fall because the price of corn about to be fed to cattle is down. He did not say how much meat prices would fall.

Nixon Says Information Is Keystone

CHICAGO (UPI)—President Nixon has urged broadcasters to be mindful that the keystone of the American broadcasting system is the public's right to be informed.

In a message read at a session of the first full day of the National Association of Broadcasters convention Monday, Nixon said that in the United States "broadcasting combines private enterprise wth public interest" and that the government had a 'real but limited" role in the regulation of broadcasting.

Though some quarters "have expressed wonder at the differences of opinion between the media and the government," Nixon said, "such interplay is part of our American system" and indicates "that radio and television, as well as government are robust."

The President said the profit factor and public service go hand in hand in broadcasting. The better a station performs its public function, he said, the better chance it stands to improve profits and profits enable stations to better perform their public function by enabling them to absorb the costs of expensive public affairs programming and in depth news analysis.

Pacifist Ship Phoenix Readies For Convention

By JAY GOODWIN

The Phoenix — a pacifist ship that has sailed the globe since 1958 — is being readied for another voyage for peace.

This time, the 50-foot ketch will spend the summer leapfrogging from port to port along the Pacific coast on its way to the Republican National Convention in San Diego. There, crew members hope to deliver a Quaker message of concern to President Nixon.

As in the past, the Phoenix will be skippered by Dr. Earle Reynolds, a pacifist Quaker whose worldwide travels rival those of Marco Polo.

Along with a 10-man crew, Reynolds will sail up to Sacramento, turn around and head south for the Bay Area.

For the first two weeks of July, the Phoenix will pull in at ports at Sausalito, San Rafael, Berkeley, Alameda, Redwood City, and San Francisco. At each, the Phoenix will serve as a focal point for local speeches, demonstrations and films against continuing American involvement in Southeast Asia.

"The purpose of our voyage is quite simple," said Reynolds. "But that doesn't mean it isn't important. We want to present the concerns of all Quakers to President Nixon and remind Americans that the war is still going on."

From the Bay Area, the ship will sail to Santa Cruz, Monterey, Morro Bay and Santa Barbara. After two weeks in the Los Angeles area, it's on to San Diego.

According to Reynolds, several peace groups, including the San Diego Convention Coalition, an umbrella organization for groups planning to demonstrate in San Diego, already have expressed interest in the voyage of the Phoenix.

He has not spoken to the White House about his plans and is uncertain about the reception his group is likely to receive.

"I'll keep an open mind until I hear from the president," said the 62-year-old skipper, a former Ohioan.

Coordinating the activities surrounding the Phoenix while it docks in the Bay Area will be Phillip Drath, a San Rafael building contractor who ran for Congress unsuccessfully as a "peace" candidate in 1966 and 1968.

Drath and Reynolds took out a few moments recently to explain their commitment to Quaker pacifism.

"I often ask myself, 'If we don't do this, what else can we do?'" said Drath. "Anything that may have a small effect in changing people's minds is worth doing."

Reynolds agreed that peace is a difficult goal to strive for, but added, "It's one grain of sand that starts a landslide. If everyone said that their small contribution didn't matter, where would we be?"

PEACE VOYAGER — Dr. Earle Reynolds, skipper of the Phoenix, a ketch that wanders the globe for peace, examines a memento obtained on a 1967 voyage to North Vietnam — a straw "helmet" worn by citizens during bombing raids. Reynolds was in Marin to publicize a new mission — to the Republican National Convention in San Diego.

Reynolds has engaged in symbolic gestures since 1958. In that year he steered his boat into the hydrogen bomb test zone in Eniwetok to protest the U.S. policy toward nuclear testing.

Three years later he was barred from docking in the Soviet Union when he showed up to protest the nuclear testing of that country.

In 1967, Reynolds, his wife, Auie Drath and a small crew sailed into Haiphong harbor in North Vietnam to deliver $10,000 worth of medical supplies to the people of North Vietnam.

The following year he made the first of two unsuccessful attempts to enter mainland China. Sailing from a Japanese port, he was arrested by the Japanese in international waters because his wife had not been granted permission to enter China.

Reynolds, charging he was arrested illegally, brought suit against the Japanese government for violation of international law. After a lengthy trial in Japan, his wife was acquitted and the court admitted that the arrest had been made illegally, said Reynolds.

Reynolds became convinced that the U.S. government was not particularly concerned with his welfare.

"The United States' interest in ships siezed on the high seas depends on which vessels we're talking about," he said bitterly. "If it's the Pueblo, that's one thing; if it's the Phoenix, that's another thing."

One year after the Japanese had stopped him, the irrepressible skipper was headed for China again.

This time, the Chinese naval patrol halted the Phoenix. For four days he was moored in Shanghai harbor with a Chinese patrol boat tied up alongside.

He was finally told that no Americans, despite their motives, would be allowed into China at that time.

Of course, that has all changed. President Nixon journeyed to China in February.

The irony has not been lost on Reynolds. "I spend two years on trial for trying to get into China to make a symbolic gesture for peace. Then along comes resident Nixon, the enemy of mainland China, and he goes to China. Sure it's a personal thing, but I think Nixon is a xxxxxxx."

My point was not to actually get into China and report back to the American people about communes or anything. It was to go as an individual American saying, 'There are many American like myself who disagree with our government's policy.'"

Venice Man Faces Jail For Drugs

John Felix Mantele, 36, of Venice was sentenced yesterday7by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in Marin Superior Court to six months in the county jail and given five years probation for sale of Cocaine.

The jail sentence will be served in Santa Clara County where he faces a stiffer sentence on a related drug charge, according to his attorney, Anthony Serra of San Francisco.

Santa Clara agents arranged to meet Mantele in San Rafael, where they negotiated to buy four ounces of the drug. Oct. 15.

Probation officers said Mantele, a designer, was apparently new at selling drugs because the sale showed a great lack of sophistication.

Gardiner said that Mantele can serve his jail sentence concurrently with the jail sentence expected in Santa Clara County.

Open Gangland War In New York's Underworld Admitted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy admitted today that open gangland warfare has erupted in New York City, where "six or seven—or more" underworld figures have been executed in the past two weeks.

Appearing with Mayor John V. Lindsay at a news conference, Murphy said there was "strong evidence" that the rash of gangland-style killings were connected with a war in the underworld.

He reported "a distinct possibility" that the killings were the result of a feud between the "families" of Joseph (Crazy Joe) Gallo—the victim of a gangland execution last week—and Joseph Colombo Sr., reputed head of the Brooklyn underworld who was critically wounded in an assassination attempt last June.

Gallo, who engaged in open warfare with a rival gang in Brooklyn during the early 1960s was gunned down in an Italian restaurant last Friday.

Besides the Gallo slaying, Murphy said there have been "six or seven—or more—" gangland type murders during the past two weeks, excluding the shooting of Richard R. Grossman, whose mutilated body was found stuffed in a car trunk in Brooklyn early this morning.

Murphy said some of the "hundreds" of detectives working on the rash of gangland killings were attempting to determine if Grossman had underworld connections.

Grossman, 36, who had a previous arrest record for disorderly conduct, rape, burglary and grand larceny, was the third man whose body was found in New York in a 20-hour period following the slaying of Gallo.

Police said Monday morning's two victims had gangland connections and the method used in killing Grossman led them to believe this too was a gangland murder.

The medical examiner's office said after a preliminary check that the man appeared to have been dead about four or five days. If that proves to be the case, his death would have come before Gallo's, who was killed three days and 17 hours before the body was discovered.

It was the 16th underworld-style killing since the critical wounding of Joseph Colombo Sr., a rival of Gallo's, at an American-Italian parade last June 28.

A few hours before Gallo's funeral, Gennaro Ciprio, 30, a Brooklyn restaurant owner who police said was a bodyguard of Colombo's, was gunned down as he left his restaurant. He was carrying a loaded pistol and $1,300 in cash.

"If this isn't a gang war, I don't know what is," a high police source said when the body was found.

Soon after, Frank Ferriano, 41, of Lawrence Harbor, N.J., was killed with shots to the head and shoulder in a lower Manhattan parking lot. He was wearing a watch and had more than $100 in cash.

Cashbox Stolen

A cashbox containing $50, several canceled checks and credit cards was taken from the Dotto Glass Inc. office, 74 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael, sometime between 6:45 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday, police reported today. Entry may have been through an unlocked door, police said.

RAIN SOAKED ACCIDENTS

This dented sedan awaited a tow-truck today, northbound on rainslick Highway 101, following one of three accidents that eventually involved eight cars, several of which can be seen ahead of it. No one was injured in the 9 a.m. pileups. (For a story on the weather see page 1.) Traffic in northbound lanes was moving smoothly, although curious motorists virtually stopped progress southbound, where no accidents took place.

Balcony Witness To Shoot-Out Begins Testimony In San Jose

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN JOSE — Testimony about the long-unanswered question of who shot first in the Marin Civic Center shoot-out in August of 1970 was begun yesterday by an assistant coroner who watched the tragedy from a balcony.

Eugene R. Fontaine related how he heard what sounded like a pistol shot, then saw a San Quentin guard flinch and finally watched the guard raise his rifle and fire at a yellow van full of kidnappers and their hostages.

Fontaine was testifying at the trial of Angela Davis, who is accused of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out. The prosecution is seeking to prove she provided the guns and helped plan an abortive escape attempt in order to free Soledad Brother George Jackson, with whom she was reportedly in love.

Fontaine, a balding, rotund man who was once a policeman, told yesterday how he left his office in the Civic Center and from the balcony, watched a yellow van come out from under an arch.

Nearby, kneeling behind the trunk of a parked car, was a San Quentin officer named John Matthews, Fontaine said. "The van slowed down. . . the officer appeared to start to shout something. . . " he said, adding that next he heard what "sounded like a pistol shot. . . "

In answer to a question by Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., Fontaine said, "I surmised it (the shot) came from the van."

His answer was ordered stricken from the record by Judge Richard E. Arnason after a protest by defense attorney Howard Moore Jr. that it was speculation.

Fontaine then went on to relate how Matthews "appeared to flinch after the first shot, then he leaned forward, pulled his rifle up and fired possibly three times at the van."

About the time of the second shot, Fontaine said, the van lurched to a halt as if it had stalled.

"There was a lot of firing going off," Fontaine said. During the brief episode he saw a red flash and heard a loud noise in the van. "There was no question that it was a shot gun," he said.

(The prosecution contends Judge Harold J. Haley died from the blast of a shotgun held by convict Ruchell Magee.)

After the shooting stopped, Fontaine said he went outside the Hall of Justice and helped other law officers take three women jurors out of the van. He also took Gary W.Thomas, the assistant district attorney who was wounded and paralyzed in the gun battle, out of the front of the van, Fontaine said.

In the back of the van, he related, he "could see Judge Haley lying down. There was so much destruction to the lower part of his face. . . I could tell he was probably dead."

In the judge's lap, Fontaine said, was a shotgun with both the barrel and the stock sawed off that "looked like a large pistol."

"I saw a hand moving toward the gun," Fontaine said.

"A person, later identified as Magee, looked as though he was trying to grab the gun. So I entered the van, grabbed the gun, put his hand aside and held him," Fontaine said.

After he handed the sawed-off shotgun to another officer, Fontaine said he helped take Magee out of the van and put him on a stretcher and later into an ambulance. (Magee suffered a chest wound but recovered and is due to be tried later.)

From inside the van, Fontaine said, he also removed a heavy briefcase, which he "feared was a bomb." The briefcase, later opened "a considerable distance" away, contained only ammunition.

Throughout yesterday's session, as in all the court sessions since the trial opened, large blowups of pictures taken by Independent-Journal photographers Jim Kean and Roger Bockrath, illustrated testimony about perhaps the most photographed crime in history.

Prior to Fontaine's testimony, a San Rafael policeman, Harold Pennington, described how he raced to the van after the shooting, which caused the van to rock back and forth, he said.

From inside the van came "some female cries for help, and also male cries," Pennington said. When he opened the doors, Pennington said there was still movement inside and he took a Colt revolver from one man's pocket as "the subject seemed to be going for the gun in his pocket."

Yesterday's testimony was delayed while Judge Arnason, prosecution and defense attorneys discussed what one termed "matters of serious proportions."

One of the matters of concern was revealed by the Judge when court finally resumed. He queried the jurors about their knowledge of the death of James Carr, former convict gunned down last week in San Jose.

Some newspaper accounts had linked Carr to Miss Davis.

After all jurors agreed they had no knowledge of any connection with the death of Carr and Miss Davis and gave assurances they could be impartial to her, Judge Arnason ordered the trial resumed. He instructed the jurors, however, not to read any further accounts of Carr's death.

Speeding Stop Brings Arrests

Two youths arrested Sunday on suspicion of drug violations have been charged only with misdemeanors in Marin Municipal Court.

Lawrence H. St. Clair, 19, of no known address and John Duane Benge, 19, of Pacifica were charged with possession of marijuana. Benge was also charged with speeding and St. Clair was also charged with having drug paraphernalia.

The two were arrested by the Caliornia Highway Patrol after their speeding car was stopped.

Agnew Hits Ideological Conformity

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today that "some intellectuals are attempting to impose ideological conformity on American education."

The vice president compared his criticism of what he called "anti-intellectual Yahooism" in importance with his attack on the press two years ago in Des Moines, Iowa.

"There can be no more dangerous form of anti-intellectualism than that kind practiced by highly educated, selfrighteous intellectuals who consider themselves superior to the point of infallibility," Agnew said in a prepared speech for a Republican luncheon at the new Capitol Hill Club.

"This threat of dogmatism and intolerance of diverse opinion in the academic community is a matter of concern to every American," he said.

The vice president foresaw that his speech would stir up some of the same kind of adverse comment that his blast at the news media generated and that he would be accused of attempting to impose a "chilling effect" on academic freedom.

He denied in advance that his intention was censorship.

"What I have urged," Agnew said, "... is not book-burning but more books, covering every point of view and not just propaganda of the view favored by the professor."

Agnew cited as a "notorious example of these academic Yahoos" (a Yahoo is a mythical brute in human form from Swift's Gulliver's Travels) disruptions by dissidents at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Philadelphia a few months ago.

He accused the association's officers of trying "to appease the incipient totalitarianism in their midst."

"Death of free speech and inquiry," Agnew said "... comes in two parts. First, there are those vicious members of a community who would kill freedom; second there are those fatuous leaders of a community who, by their acquiescence and lack of intellectual fortitude, stand by and permit the murder to occur."

In recent years, he said, there has been a movement toward the "interpretative rather than the objective" in a number of research publications and textbooks which he said parallels a trend in the press.

"Unless checked," Agnew said, "such opinion imbalance, similar to which affects our national news media, holds ominous implications."

Burglary Suspect Court Date Set

Christopher J. Wooton, 18, of San Rafael, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property. He was ordered to appear April 19.

Wooton was arrested Feb. 24 by San Rafael police ater he and a companion were reported at a San Rafael store with stolen property.

The property reportedly in Wooton's possession was stolen Feb. 22 from the residence of Jerome Draper on Point San Pedro Road. Stereo equipment and silverware worth thousands of dollars were taken in the burglary.

Sausalito Nursery School at 625 Main Street will hold open house Sunday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. to acquaint Southern Marin residents with its co-operative operation, according to Bonnie Holl, secretary to the school's board.

CASE

which she and another woman were assaulted. Preliminary hearing in that case was set for tomorrow, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

She also was in San Rafael for a hearing on revocation of probation today before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner and sentencing on three counts of forging checks passed at the Roger Wilco market in Novato. A co-defendant, Robert Lee Smith, 38, had died of a heart attack about three weeks ago, so charges were shelved, but not dismissed.

Weeks was in town to testify for the defense in case of Walter Sidney Boatwright, 22, of Concord, who was charged with burglary. Today he pleaded guilty to burglary and a charge of concealing stolen property was dismissed. Sentencing was set for May 8.

The bodies were discovered by Midyett at about 8:30 a.m. when he went to the Villa Rafael Motel to question Weeks about what he would say in the Boatwright case.

Mrs. Fabian had been living in a secluded area of Northern California called Washigton, with Weeks, according to a probation report by Lowell J. Fouch, deputy probation officer.

"The subject is currently involved in what I feel is a very volatile and potentially dangerous dependency relationship with Stephen Weeks," his report stated.

She was a Drake High School dropout. Fouch said she had used methedrine, marijuana and heroin "extensively, but probably not in a way that created any serious addiction problems."

Surviving are her parents in San Francisco, two children, Scott E. Fabian, 8, and Brian, 6, plus an unnamed child aged 2 or 3.

Five counts of forgery against her and Smith were for $260 worth of checks. Smith was living with her and Weeks at the time of arrest.

In court Fabian probation was called first. Her attorney, R. Della Valle, came forward and said, "Your honor, I have just been informed in this matter that my client is dead."

Next called was the Smith and Fabian matter, when Virginai DiSerba announced, "Your honor, Robert L. Smith is also dead. He died of a heart attack."

Weeks had been a witness for the prosecution in a number of narcotics cases. Most recently, he testified at the trial of Donald Gilliam, 27, of San Rafael, and Toi Ann Weindel, who were convicted of a heroin sale.

Mrs. Fabian was also the alleged victim in a case still pending in municipal court. According to an affidavit filed by a Novato police officer, she told him that Donald Duane Smith and Charlisse Joy Brant (unknown ages and addresses) came to her house in Novato and in October 1970 and Smith beat her and another woman in connection with an unpaid narcotics debt.

He then forced the two women onto a bed and told Fabian, "I am going to fill you both with enough heroin to O.D. you and take your bodies to the Santa Cruz mountains where no one will ever find you."

The other woman said that as he bent over Mrs. Fabian with a hypodermic needle, two relatives arrived and rescued them.

Two Injured In Two-Car Collision

Two Petaluma women were injured in a two-car accident at 7:45 a.m. today on South McDowell Boulevard at McKenzie Drive, Petaluma.

Jean Payton, 21, of 307 Balama Lane, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a neck injury, and Carol Maddalena, 18, of 2952 Middle Two Rock Road, was treated for head cuts. Police had no details of the accident.

New Vaccine For Cancer Is Possible

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Two University of Chicago pathologists said today they have made a discovery which could lead to effective cancer vaccines.

Doctors John Coon and Robert Hunter said they are trying to get the body to reject cancer much as it rejects foreign substances such as kidney or heart grafts.

In experiments on guinea pigs, Coon said, he and Roberts made the body respond to foreign substances "which it usually rejects by manufacturing antibodies through a cellular type of immunity that can effectively reject cancers."

What the pathologists actually discovered was not how to produce an immunity to cancer, but how to get to the area where cellular immunity comes from—the paracortex region of the lymph node.

They chemically joined several materials and produced a protein, which, when injected into a guinea pig, produced a strong cellular immunity.

The body usually repels foreign substances by manufacturing antibodies, a complicated molecule which circulates in the blood, but which has not been effective against cancer.

With cellular immunity, however, a living cell repels the invading materials and doctors believe this immunity can be used to reject some cancers.

"Many human and animal cancers can be rejected by cellular immunity in much the same way the heart or kidney grafts are rejected," Coon said. "These experiments provide the first rationale for the production of semi-synthetic cancer vaccines.

"Many workers have identified and isolated cancer antigens (foreign substances which cause antibodies to be produced)," he said. "But attempts to use these antigens to treat tumors have usually resulted in the production of antibodies which make the tumors grow faster.

"We hope that our work can be extended to tumor antigens in such a way as to make them effective in treating cancer."

Coon presented the research in a paper he was scheduled to read at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Coon, a resident trainee in pathology at the university, and Hunter, an instructor in the school's department of pathology, did most of the research at the Argonne Cancer Research Hospital in Chicago.

Sentence Date In Drugs Case

Jeffrey George Kingry, 25, of Whitehorn, Humboldt County, pleaded guilty yesterday to a felony charge of having barbiturates and amphetamines, and sentencing was set for May 30 in Marin Superior court.

Following the plea, charges of possessing marijuana and cocaine and driving under the influence of both drugs were dropped.

He was arrested Aug. 23 on the Richmond-San Rafael bridge where California Highway Patrolmen reported his car was weaving from one side of the road to the other.

on voter turnout, but I predict between 40 and 50 per cent."

Voters will decide the fate of candidates in 33 nonpartisan contests in 12 cities. Bond issues in Mill Valley and Rohnert Park, a Sausalito park plan referendum and a Fairfax zoning question will also be on the various ballots.

Also reporting voter turnouts between 10 and 15 per cent were precincts in Mill Valley, Belvedere and Sausalito. Corte Madera, Novato, and Tiburon.

Particularly heavy voting by 11 a.m. was taking place at the Larkspur fire department, where about 20 per cent of the eligible voters had turned out, and the Ross School, where voter turnout was more than 25 per cent.

Man Held In Skyjack Try

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—A middle-aged man dressed in a business suit and demanding $500,000 in ransom was arrested by the FBI Tuesday trying to hijack a Continental Airlines 707 jetliner at the Portland Airport.

The 63 passengers aboard the Boeing 707 were transferred from Continental Airlines flight 781 to a Pan-American flight before the FBI closed in on the suspect.

Vincent E. Ruehl, assistant special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, identified the man as Major Burton Davenport, 56, of Vancouver, Wash. He was charged with threatening to destroy an aircraft.

Sheep Reported Killed And Eaten

Three sheep were killed and eaten Sunday on a ranch near Tomales, it was reported today by John Gill, director of the Marin County Humane Society.

The attacks took place one mile from the site of an earlier mass slaughter of 53 baby lambs late in March.

Speculation that the same animal was responsible for both incidents was ended when the killer's method of operation were compared.

All 53 baby lambs killed last month were bitten behind the neck, presumably by a neighborhood dog. None of the carcasses were eaten.

The predator Sunday ate the hearts, livers and tongues of all three of its victims. Gill suspects that Sunday's killer is a coyote.

Minister Asks Mercy For Killer Of His Wife

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A minister says the killer of his wife needs "help and understanding" instead of the death penalty or being imprisoned.

Rev. Rev. Donald E. Waldo, director of admissions at California Concordia College, asked mercy for the unknown man who strangled his wife, Sharon, 30, in the couple's apartment last week.

"I feel—and I'm sure my wife would concur—in saying that the man who committed the dreadful act of strangulation should be found...but not for the purpose of hurting him, taking his life, or putting him behind bars and keeping him in cold isolation, but rather for the purpose of helping him understand what real life is all about," said the 31-year-old minister in a statement to newsmen Monday.

WALDO WIDENING WORK

A member of a contractor's survey crew locates grading levels for new shoulders and drainage systems being built on Highway 101 south of the Waldo Tunnels. Under a contract for nearly $900,000, McGuire and Hester of Oakland last week began adding a fourth northbound lane from Rodeo Avenue north of the tunnels to Richardso Bay Bridge, and rebuilding the shoulders over much of the stretch from the Golden Gate Bridge to Richardson Bay. The work is being done mostly between morning and evening commute hours. (Independent-Journal photo)

Oscar Race Wins Round In Fairfax

Fairfax Mayor Cornelis Van Vliet won the vote of every city council watcher who wanted to see the Academy Awards last night by adjourning the meeting after 20 minutes.

Ending what may have been its shortest council meeting on record, Van Vliet simply told his two companions on the governing body he wasn't going to vote for anything else the night before an election, and went home at 8:20 p.m.

Two of the five councilmen were absent, Francis J. O'Connell and Lee Nelder, both because they had to work. When Van Vliet decided to call it quits, the council no longer had a quorum.

Before it adjourned, the council heard a plea for low-density housing from a group of about 40 youngsters, ranging in age from sixth graders to senior high school students.

THE SPOKESMEN

Alan R. Wolford, 18, acting as spokesman for the group, is a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School. Cofounder is Stephen A. Bernes, an eighth grader at Whitehill Junior High School. They represented Prevention Against Apartments, Condominiums and Townhouses — PAACT.

Wolford spoke in opposition to the proposed Canon Village and Tennis Club, which is planned near Whitehill Junior High School, on what is now unincorporated land. Annexation of the area was one of the agenda items killed when Van Vliet refused to go further.

Wolford closed by saying, "We feel we should be listened to as citizens, we'll be living here in the future." He urged the council to build on empty lots in the city before spreading development into the open land beyond.

Van Vliet, noting that the planning commission "and this council" had voted for the Canon Village and Tennis Club, suggested that Wolford's group bring their complaints to the council which will be elected today.

Before the meeticg, Wolford said the group had been in existence about two months, and had been formed as a direct result of the Canon Village project.

SENIOR CITIZEN

The council also selected Fairfax's choice for senior citizen of the year before adjourning — Marguerite Geary, 79, of 53 Sequoia Road. She has been a resident of Fairfax for the past 58 years.

Mrs. Geary will now compete for the "Outstanding Senior Citizen of Marin" award, sponsored by the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

The Fairfax council also made the final $1,100 payment on the Bridge Court pedestrian bridge and accepted it as complete. Costing $10,887, the project was started about three months ago and completed about a month ago, according to City Mgr. Robert E. Crowe.

Crowe said the final month's wait was a guarantee on the workmanship and to insure that any legal encumbrances were clear.

The council adjourned to April 18 at 8 p.m.

Olema Valley's Inclusion Urged

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday recommended inclusion of the Olema Valley in the proposed Golden Gate National Recreational Area.

Commissioners agreed it would be a mistake to exclude the picturesque valley which stretches from Bolinas Lagoon along Shoreline Highway to the quiet community of Olema.

The southern section of the valley is in the Bolinas Lagoon watershed and the northern section in the Tomales Bay watershed. Both bodies of water are being fiercely protected by environmentalists, who see the recreational area as a means of blocking development.

The proposed recreational area, supported by President Richard M. Nixon, calls for about 24,000 acres in Marin and San Francisco counties to be acquired for park use.

As proposed by Nixon, the recreational area would include the northern waterfront of San Francisco — primarily the Presidio — and up Marin's coastline to Bolinas. It would also include Angel Island.

The planning commission agreed yesterday that by including the Olema Valley, Marin's other public holdings — such as the Point Reyes National Seashore, Samuel P. Taylor and Tamalpais state parks — would be connected.

Besides the Olema Valley, the commission urged the county board of supervisors to recommend to officials in Washington D. C. that portions of Tamalpais Valley be included as well as the Net Depot on the Tiburon Peninsula.

The planning commission's recommendation will be sent to the county park and recreation commission for concurrence before being forwarded to supervisors.

Planners Approve 12-Unit Cooperative

A group calling itself the "Housing Cooperative" won approval yesterday from the Marin County Planning Commission to construct a 12-home community in Homestead Valley.

The cooperative, made up of 12 families seeking to "establish a community based on mutual sharing," requested rezoning and master plan approval for about 10 acres between Ridgewood Avenue and Homestead Boulevard.

While final plans must still be approved, the group's proposal calls for 12 separate homes to be built around a large central lodge designed for recreational, social and educational purposes.

The lodge would contain the community's communal laundry, workshop, sewing and hobby rooms, thus eliminating the need for separate facilities in each home.

The homes are proposed to be scattered on the hillside and connected by footpaths with auto parking confined to three or four peripheral parking areas.

Several residents of Homestead Valley voiced support for the proposal but urged that special care be taken to insure adequate drainage control.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

BASALT — Approved a use permit for the Basalt Rock Co. to continue quarry operations on the old McNear Ranch property at Point San Pedro near San Rafael. The commission also approved a dredging permit to allow the firm to redredge a barge-loading channel in San Pablo Bay.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved an 18-unit townhouse development proposed by David J. Rosenberg for a two-acre parcel located near the intersection of North San Pedro Road and East Meriam Drive in Santa Venetia.

SUBDIVISION — Approved a 14-lot subdivision of property near the intersection of Trumbull Avenue and Mill Road in Indian Valley.

EXCAVATION — Denied a request from Joseph and Rina Fernandez for an excavation use permit to excavate 730,000 cubic yards of earth from their property at 200 Atherton Avenue, near Novato. The commission ruled that leveling the top of the ridgeline would not be a proper use of the land.

Tiburon Votes To Extend Building Ban

By MARC NURRE

The Tiburon City Council last night extended a moratorium on open space building for eight months to allow for creation of new building controls and city acquisition of some of the property.

The council voted 4-0 to extend the ban, with Councilman M. Carlisle Becker, a landscape architect, abstaining because he said he was once employed by a developer included in the ban and wished to remove all possible grounds for suspicion.

The decision came after two hours of discussion among council members, petitions from attorneys representing developers wishing to have their land exempted, and comments from others interested.

Having started the moratorium process, said Mayor Denis T. Rice, "To me it seems only logical to come to grips with whether there should be an extension of the moratorium. There's no question in my mind but that there has to be an extension." Rice is not a candidate for reelection.

In answer to Allan N. Littman, a candidate for a council seat who said the extension should be left up to the incoming council to decide, Rice said, "If we were to stop right now and turn it over to another council. . . we would be abrogating our responsibilities."

The council modified the previous 90-day moratorium which expires April 30. It exempted from the moratorium a parcel of land located near Sugarloaf Drive and owned by Irving Moulin of Tiburon. The parcel was approved for development before the ban was imposed, and Moulin has already installed some streets and other improvements.

It also directed City Atty. Robert I. Conn to draw up a separate ordinance which would add to the moratorium a parcel of land not mentioned in the original ban. The parcel, about 19 acres, is near Hacienda Drive.

Joseph Sheeks, an attorney and former Mill Valley mayor, appeared in behalf of Henry Eavey, a property owner seeking exemption from the moratorium. Sheeks offered the strongest objection to the extension.

He said none of City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer's original criteria for the establishment of open space fit Eavey's land and, in fact, relevent criteria for the selection of open space have not yet been established.

The council, Sheeks said, should give up trying to find an "ultimate solution" to problems. "You're not legislating for the year 2000. You're legislating for 1973-74," he said. Beyond that, the situation is so unpredictable that it is impossible to legislate to control it, he argued.

Pointing to his own years on public agencies, he criticized the council for what he said was a tendency to wait too long for all the facts on a situation to be researched, thus delaying action. "You can't stop the world and sit back and analyze it," he said.

Littman, in addition to his request that the matter be left for the incoming council, also told council members they should not use emergency ordinance adoption procedures to make the moratorium extension. It is unwarranted in this case, he said.

A second candidate for the two council seats, Albert Aramburu, endorsed the extension, as did former mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge.

Councilman Albert H. Sennett pointed out that a provision existed in the moratorium for appeal by property owners. The ordinance, he said, permits development if the council issues a conditional use permit. "We're not preventing all building in these areas without recourse to the property owners," he said.

Sheeks, however, called the conditional use permit clause "window dressing" because to apply for it a developer would have to risk the preparation of costly site plans, he said.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

GRANT APPLICATION — Endorsed the Golden Gate Bridge District's application to the federal government for money with which to buy more buses and ferry boats. The district will hold a public hearing April 19 on the question.

BLACKIE'S PASTURE — Heard a report by Balmer that the legal steps necessary for the city to acquire the land in Blackie's Pasture are taking place now, and that a meeting will be scheduled soon with the state Division of Highways to arrange for right-of-way for a realignment of the street.

POLICE IMPROVEMENTS — Voted to accept a low bid of $11,558 by Joseph Redmond, San Rafael building contractor, for improvements in the new Tiburon Police Department building, but also authorized the city manager to negotiate with the contractor for a reduction in the estimated cost by cutting back the number of improvements made.

STONE TOWER — Authorized the mayor to write a letter to A. L. Caceres, a dentist who owns the stone tower built originally as part of a toll road in early Tiburon, seeking to acquire the tower on behalf of the city so that it can be restored.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS — Tabled a motion for installation of traffic signals on Avenida Miraflores, Rock Hill Drive, Lyford Drive and San Rafael Avenue.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to the next scheduled meeting, April 24.

Glenwood Bookmobile Halt Is Hit

Eliminating a Glenwood stop of the county library bookmobile this week would violate a seven-year-old agreement between city and county, the San Rafael Library board declared last night.

Anne Nelson of Glenwood and Tina Ferris of Peacock Gap told the board that residents had been informed the bookmobile will make its last Glenwood stop on Thursday, when books may be returned but none taken.

Librarian Vivian M. Smith said she was first informed of plans to discontinue the service by County Supervisor John F. McInnis. She said she had discussed it with County Librarian Bruce Bajema, who had indicated it was a budgetary matter.

Under a cooperative agreement entered into by city and county libraries in 1965, the bookmobile service to Glenwood is provided by the county on an annually renewable basis. Board members pointed out the agreement remains in effect until end of the fiscal year on June 30. Mrs. Smith was instructed to inform the county librarian of this interpretation, and board member Bryce W. Anderson was appointed to bring it to the attention of McInnis.

Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Ferris said petitions protesting the service cut had gathered more than 60 names during the bookmobile's last two-hour stop, for presentation to McInnis.

Organizational meeting of the San Rafael Friends of the Library wll be held May 4 at 8 p.m. in the city council chamber at city hall, Mrs. Smith reported. R. N. Mertz, a member of the steering committee for the organization, will preside.

Board member James H. Mayer proposed that the city file suit to condemn the reversionary rights to the library site, in order to gain clear title. The property was deeded to the city for a library in 1906, with provisions that it would revert to the heirs of the sellers if put to any other use or if alcoholic beverage was ever served there. The board asked Mayer to prepare a resume of his proposal for submission to the city council.

Board member Richard H. Bradshaw III was absent.

Another 20,000 Acres In Preserve

Over the repeated protests of developers, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved rezoning another major section of the county's sprawling 210,000-acre agricultural preserve.

Under consideration yesterday were some 20,000 acres located northwest and adjacent to Novato. It was the second mass section to be approved for new A-60 zoning (which means one home per 60 acres).

Last month, the board of supervisors ratified commission rezoning of 60,000 acres along Tomales Bay in the northwestern part of the county.

The four-hour hearing yesterday, before an audience of about 70 persons, found little new in the way of testimony. Developers branded it an unfair confiscation of property while conservationists praised it as a long overdue act to preserve the agricultural industry and open space.

The rezoning is required under the state's Williamson Act, which says agricultural preserve lands must be zoned in a manner "compatible" with the agricultural industry.

The county planning department and commission claim the lowest possible density is the most compatible zoning for Marin's agricultural operations which are mostly grazing and dairying.

Yesterday's 6-to-1 vote for rezoning found only Commissioner George P. Leonard dissenting. Leonard said the action was unnecessary and that the present two-acre zoning is adequate to protect agriculture.

Leading opposition to the action was Larkspur developer Niels J. Schultz Jr., a member of the Marin Property Owners Association.

Schultz, who has indicated in the past that the rezoning will go to court, charged that no one has ever shown that A-60 zoning was more compatible that the existing two-acre zoning.

Quoting county tax officials, Schultz predicted the value of his property will be cut in half. Such action is unfair, he continued, since he has paid taxes on his land during the past years based on that higher value. For instance, he said, a parcel he owns in Nicasio has quadrupled in taxes during the last six years — from $2,150 in 1966 to $9,203 this year.

Claiming development posed no threat to agriculture, Schultz said the real villian is taxation. Even with the rezoning, agriculture will not produce enough to pay the taxes, he said.

"This (rezoning) will increase the cost, value, and price of housing in eastern Marin," he concluded.

Speaking out in support of the rezoning were about six persons including Jerry Friedman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin and Harold Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League.

Both urged its adoption as a means of halting land speculation and "discontiguous urban growth."

While the bulk of the area was rezoned A-60, several small areas were excluded for further study and rezoning at a future date.

One area excluded was the Jack West Jr. property located north of Hamilton Air Force Base. It is part of the Bel Marin Keys expansion area.

Areas excluded also included several thousand acres south and east of Mount Burdell and in the Bowman Canyon area. Some will be reconsidered May 8.

The only other variation was 10-acre lot zoning granted to a small area of Hicks Valley and 20-acre lot zoning near the Sonoma County line.

Middle-Aged Marriages Are Topic Of Films

The Lewis Marshall Lloyd Education Center in San Anselmo is offering two program series, dealing with problems of middle-aged married couples and "expanding human awareness".

The center, at Kensington Road and Austin Avenue, is operated by the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

Dr. Robert Lee will lead a series of three sessions on identifying and dealing with problems of middle-aged married couples from 8 to 10 p.m. May 2, 9, and 16. He is professor of social ethics and director of the Institute of Ethics and Society at the seminary.

Carlyle Rispoli will lead a workshop "Expanding Human Awareness through Gestalt Art Experiences" Wednesday nights from 7 to 10 p.m., April 26 through May 31. The seminary said Rispoli is a professional painter with experience in Gestalt art therapy.

Park Restroom Arson Try Fails

Vandals attempted to burn down restrooms at Stinson Beach State Park during the weekend, but failed, park personnel reported yesterday.

Eight small fires were set in restrooms at the north end of the park, but all were doused by beachgoers who discovered the, according to Harley C. Ellis, state park maintenence man.

He said that on Thursday vandals had damaged the restrooms at the south end of the beach by throwing rocks through vents and denting the roof with them. Park officials are not sure whether the same persons are responsible for both incidents.

Damage from the fires Saturday at about 8 p.m.. was $35 to $40, and from Thursday's incident about $250, Ellis said.

Two Burglaries In San Rafael

Two San Rafael businesses were burglarized during the weekend, San Rafael police reproted yesterday.

La Casa Restaurant at 903 Lincoln Avenue, was entered by prying open the rear door sometime between 1:30 and 7:30 a.m. yesterday and $1,081 in cash taken, owner Amadeo Lipari reported to police.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. business office at 1800 Second Street was entered between 6 p.m. Friday and 1:30 p.m. yesterday and an undetermined amount of cigarettes and cash taken from the cigarette machine, Franklin G. Rudolph, an employee, reported to police. Entry was gained by breaking a window, police reported.

Woman To Answer Drug Charge Today

Lisa La Forest, 28, of Los Angeles, was arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a charge of attempting to secure narcotics with a forged prescription.

Visiting Judge Joseph Weber of Covelo, Mendocino County, set bail at $625 and scheduled Miss La Forest to enter a plea tomorrow. She was arrested Saturday when police said she tried to have a false prescription filled at Walgreen's Drug Store at the Petaluma Plaza.

Girl, 7, Victim Of Indecent Exposure

A 7-year-old Novato girl was the victim of indecent exposure at 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Novato High School, Novato police reported yesterday.

The man was described as 18 to 20 years old, about six feet tall, weighing 190 pounds and having dark hair. He was wearing dark pants, a light sweater and brown coat, and dark rimmed glasses.

Attitudes On Government To be Voiced

A total of 1,700 residents of the upper Ross Valley will get a chance to voice their opinions of city, county and district government as part of a study of the so-called San Anselmo Governmental Structures Survey.

The residents will be chosen by a random look at county voter rolls. The intent is to determine public attitudes on possible changes in governmental organization, services and taxes, according to Charles R. Leitzell, San Anselmo city coordinator for the study.

San Anselmo is the primary sponsor of the study, working with Fairfax, Ross and the county.

According to Leitzell, results will be made public as soon as the questionnaires are mailed back to West Coast Community Services, the firm conducting the poll.

Appeals Court Rules For Right To Know

The language of court decisions is sometimes convoluted. And often, points are drawn so finely that even judges of other courts misread the ruling's intent.

Such is not the case with the ruling of the California First District Court of Appeal last week which held that payroll records of North Marin County Water District are public. In a decision running just over two pages, the appellate court went straight to the heart of the matter, cited the legal precedents, and stated its decision in unmistakable language.

THE ISSUE AROSE in 1970. The Independent Journal had been publishing lists of employees of public agencies in Marin County, with their job titles and annual pay. The North Marin Water District board refused to make the information available.

The I-J sued for a writ of mandate to require the water district to open its books and disclose the information. In September, 1970, Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court issued the writ. But the water district appealed.

The appellate court last week got around to ruling in the matter. And the decision's language indicated that the delay had been due to no indecision or complexity.

It marshalled the facts simply:

"THE NORTH MARIN County Water District is organized pursuant to the County Water District Law . . . As such, it is a 'local agency' as defined in . . . section 6252 of the Government Code, and its payroll records are 'public records' as defined in" (the same section).

It noted that the water district board took the position that it would disclose job qualifications and the salary for each position, but contended the names of the employees were exempt from disclosure under another Government Code section which provides for secrecy of "personnel, medical, or similar files . . . which would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy."

No, said the court, "a record of a public employee's current salary is not exclusively a part of his personnel file."

The water district board also contended that the public interest would be better served by keeping payroll records secret. Ruled the court:

"WE DISAGREE . . . Salaries paid to officers, managers, directors, and other employees of a governmental agency, such as a county water district, clearly concern 'the conduct of the people's business.' The right of persons to inspect public payroll records is . . . essential to protecting the people's interest in the proper use of public funds and to avoid abuses in the administration of government."

In this clear, unequivocal ruling, the First District Court of Appeal has struck a telling blow in behalf of the people's right to know.

Thank You, Mr. Bird

Marin's abundent bird life sometimes draws groans or worse from local gardeners. Sparrows and finches are often singled out as bad guys because they have been known to wipe out newly sprouted winter and spring gardens. But remember these same fellows eat many insects. Weed seeds, too. Sparrows are particularly fond of pig parsley or purslane seed, a very troublesome weed in Marin gardens. On balance, even sparrows and finches are useful to our gardeners.

Is There No Longer Need For 2-House Legislature?

By EARL G. WATERS

Should the California Legislature be unicameral? This idea has been put forth by Assemblyman Ken Cory, D-Anaheim, who has authored a constitutional amendment providing for a single-house legislature.

Until the U.S. Supreme Court interjected itself, the California Legislature was based upon the federal plan. Like Congress it had two houses, one with districts based upon population while the other was based upon counties. The U.S. Senate is composed of two senators from each state. California has no more voting power in the U.S. Senate than the sparsely settled state of Nevada. Los Angeles had no more in the state Senate than the vast deserts of Inyo-Mono.

The system was designed to prevent the populous urban areas from running roughshod over areas of different interests which lacked population. By establishing two houses, one strictly on population while the other was more upon area, a check and balance was created.

THE PLAN HAS WORKED well for Congress for two centuries. It worked well in California until the court forced the state to remap its Senate in accordance with the "one-man, one-vote" doctrine. Now rural Californians are experiencing that which they feared, domination of the Legislature by the urban centers.

Small states, particularly those in the South, confronted with the same situation in the house, found a method of equalizing their voice. They simply elected young representatives and kept them in Washington where they gained seniority and, along with it, power.

The Legislature, especially the Assembly, has no seniority system. And while the Senate once worked under the seniority rule it has been pretty much abandoned since the influx of new senators under the remapping to balance district populations.

Now both houses of the Legislature represent districts equal in population. Although Assembly districts are half the size in population of Senate districts, since the Assembly has twice the membership, a Senate district is often almost the same territory as two Assembly districts.

IT IS NO DOUBT because of this that Cory feels a two-house Legislature is no longer needed. It no longer provides the checks and balances between urban and rural areas originally intended.

He points to Nebraska, which is the only state operating with a single house. Perhaps, before anyone gets too serious about Cory's proposal, a real study should be made of the Nebraska system. Not only is it alone among the 50 states, it is out of step with most of the world's nations governed by legislative bodies.

Regardless of the method of selection of membership in the two houses, the system still provides worthwhile checks and balances. This is evidenced by the number of bills which, although approved in one house, fail in the other.

Lawmaking is a serious business. There needs to be time and opportunity to permit all points of view. The public must be protected against hasty legislation.

Spiritual Lift From Wild Flowers

In these times of signs and symbols of the permanence of change, I wish to share with you a scene which is available to all who would use their eyes and hearts as they pass the future site of the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

The sign tells of the coming church. The symbol, to be and might to you, is the white mustard plants proudly blooming in the soil.

The yellow flowers are so named because their seeds are white. Never before have I observed this plant in the church garden. Wonder how it got there? Wonder if Jesus Christ knew when he told of the parable of the mustard seed that it was a member of the Cruciferae family?

That sight can truly give one a spiritual lift. Let's dance for April showers, so we may have lots of happy May flowers.

Make Names Public, But Don't Publish

A bouquet to the I-J for its valiant and successful attempt in keeping all government agency records completely open to the press and public. A brickbat to the I-J for the unreasoned and indiscriminate way it has used some of this information.

Now that you have vauntingly published the entire names, job titles and actual salaries of North Marin Water District employees, you have completed the harmful cycle (a second time) of exposing the names and annual income of thousands of Marin families for no reasonable purpose. Interest in this personal income data could only be instilled in idly curious readers, vindictive neighbors, pseudo-friends, jealous coworkers and ambitious hucksters of insurance, risk investment funds, etc.

The I-J's most prominent format deals with public agencies in Marin and has been editorially critical of their poor management, inefficiency and extravagance with the taxpayer dollar. What good does it do to purposely embarrass and demoralize public employees with a practice that will drive good workers away and decrease efficiency of others? This will cost all taxpayers more.

Cannot County Policy Bear Examination?

The emotional protest by Planning Commissioner Jack Nixon and the majority of Marin Board of Supervisors to the effort of the Human Rights Commission to study sex and race discrimination in selecting county commission appointees (Independent-Journal, Apr. 4) speaks to the heart of many a woman, a black and/or other persons of smaller ethnic groups in our society.

True, the Human Rights Commission questionnaire directed to county appointees should not have asked for names. However, methinks the Nixon and the board of supervisors doth protest too much by their demand that the survey be "burned." I would suggest that a new survey be done leaving out the request for names.

Could it be that county government commission appointments (and hiring and promotion as well) cannot bear scrutiny? Could it be that those who do the appointing prefer white men over the rest of humanity no matter how eligible the rest of humanity may be for the appointments?

We are undergoing a vigorous resifting of social values and change. In keeping with this evolutionary process we cannot afford to continue tolerating biased practices which disenfranchise so many citizens for the aggrandizement of the few.

Rock Concert Linked To Drug Problems

The rock concert which was held at the Marin Memorial Auditorium on Nov. 24, 1971, has given rise to much controversy and misunderstanding, and has resulted in a resolution by the Marin County Board of Supervisors which would bar use of the auditorium for similar events in the future. As co-sponsor of this event I have the wish as well as the obligation to see that some key issues surrounding this concert are brought to the public's attention in proper perspective.

First, it should be recalled that the theme of the concert, as well as the whole impetus behind its planning, was prevention of drug abuse in Marin County. Judging from recent statistics, this is an issue which should be of critical concern to every Marin County resident. Proceeds from this concert were to provide much-needed funds to support the "reach-out" program being carried on by Marin Open House, the only drug abuse prevention agency financed by this county. Equally as important as its fund-raising purpose, the concert was to provide a structured and supervised recreational outlet for the youth of Marin County who have become oriented to the atmosphere of hard rock music . . .

The most, if not the only, serious charge relating to misconduct of the concert audience is the infliction of damage to the auditorium. No amount of damage — however small — is excusible, but there is a perspective to this too . . .

By degree of the supervisors, we are now to be denied use of the auditorium for such benefits in the future, for fear of damages and the use of obscene language and gestures. This seems petty and illogical when one considers the lives and dollars which go down the drain in drug abuse. It also seems unjust, in the sense that the youth of Marin County are being denied use of a facility which owes its existence to Marin tax dollars. Would it be any less logical or just to refuse the use of Kezar Stadium, or Candlestick Park at present, for 49er-Rams football games, an event which has been replete with drunken brawls and associated obnoxious behavior and financial loss? The important question we must ask ourselves is, how much are we willing to pay to make some headway into the terrible problem of drug abuse!

Death Penalty, Not Busing, Seen As Top California Issue

SAN FRANCISCO — In this polyglot state, busing raises the political temperature little if at all. A subterranean current deeply emotional stirs the Californian blood to the boiling point. That is the death penalty and whether the action of the California State Supreme Court holding it unconstitutional should be nullified.

A statewide drive is now on to get the required 520,000 signatures to put the question on the ballot in November. This is a large order since an estimated 800,000 signers are needed to insure sufficient valid names. The effort is being directed, not by professional petition specialists but by correctional officers, which means for the most part prison guards. The deadline is June 9.

Feeling is inflamed by the sensational criminals awaiting execution on San Quentin's "Death Row." Sirhan Sirhan, convicted of the murder of Robert F. Kennedy, and Charles Manson of the "Manson Family" murders are among the 105 who have been sentenced to death. Because the state Supreme Court abolished the death penalty, Angela Davis, on trial in San Jose for murder in the San Rafael courthouse hostage slayings, was admitted to bail. Juan Corona, the alleged killer of 25 persons, is also entitled to bail since there is now no capital offense for which bail was automatically denied.

BEHIND THE DRIVE is the ambitious, hard-pushing state attorney general, Evelle J. Younger. He was asked at a press conference the other day whether his strong stand on the death penalty was the start of his campaign for governor. Not at all, he replied, he simply wanted to undo what he insists was the action of the court in legislating on the death penalty rather than merely passing on the law as contained in the state constitution.

Such a tangle of politics, law and deepseated passions centering around "law and order" could only happen in this state. Chief Justice Donald R. Wright was appointed to that office by Gov. Ronald Reagan. When the court by a vote of six to one held that the death penalty was "cruel per se" under the language of the constitution covering "cruel or unusual punishment," the fat was in the political fire. Justice Wright had written a singularly humane and civilized opinion in which he said:

"Penologists and medical experts agree that the process of carrying out the verdict is often so degrading and brutalizing to the human spirit as to constitute psychological torture."

Reagan promptly criticized the court's opinion, stating his belief that the death penalty was necessary as a deterrent to crime. This has never been proved statistically. In fact where the penalty has been abolished the rate of crimes of violence has declined.

STATE SEN. George Deukmejian, who ran unsuccessfully against Younger in the Republican primary for attorney general two years ago, put in a resolution which would restore the death penalty. But this requires a two-thirds vote in each chamber of the Legislature and moreover it is unlikely that the resolution will ever reach the Senate floor.

Younger has asked the Supreme Court in Washington to nullify the action of the state court. But the highest court in the land has already been charged with the explosive issue of the death penalty. Already argued and waiting decision is whether the penalty constitutes "cruel and unusual punishment" under the Eighth Amendment. Nationwide perhaps as many as 701 death sentences turn on the court's decision.

The decision of the court will have loud repercussions in the "law and order" syndrome. Younger's staff expresses doubts about a decision by the United States Supreme Court against the death penalty and whether it would prevail in California.

Justice Wright was asked on television if Governor Reagan had sounded him on his opinion of the death penalty before naming him to the state court. Replying in the negative, he said that much of the mail he is receiving is violent in tone. The mail to Younger's office in Los Angeles is running 15 to 20 to one in favor of the death penalty.

If the United States Supreme Court has not passed on the issue by June 6, the date of the last presidential primary, the issue of the death penalty will loom large. It cannot easily be shrugged off.

California Welfare Board Brings Illegitimacy Into Focus

The California Social Welfare Board has raised for public debate one of the touchiest questions in contemporary American life.

Does a woman have a right to go on having one illegitimate child after another, allowing them to grow up in squalor and neglect, and counting on the government to support her and them?

Though seldom put quite so bluntly, this is the real emotional issue behind much discussion of welfare reform, particularly the "aid to dependent children" program.

UNFORTUNATELY, the discussion has tended hitherto to focus around the question of money. Critics argued, with varying degrees of circumlocution, that it was costing hard-working taxpayers too much to maintan a lot of lazy, promiscouous unwed mothers and their progeny.

The discussion was further complicated by racial overtones, stemming from the seldom-mentioned but universally recognized fact that illegitimacy and dependency are more commonplace among blacks than whites.

The California Social Welfare Board now has shifted the focus of this debate from what welfare is costing to what is best for the children who are born — unplanned and often unwanted — into fatherless households.

THE BOARD REACHED some drastic conclusions. It recommended legislation to empower the state to take away and place for adoption any illegitimate baby borne by a woman who already has had two or more children out of wedlock.

Mrs. Dorothy Natland, a member of the board, said years of sociologial study had convinced her women who are chronic repeaters in illegitimate pregnancy are very likely to be "unfit mothers" who provide wantonly indifferent care for their children.

"After several years of living in such a home, children have built-in emotional problems" that cannot easily be overcome by adoptive parents or by special schools or day-care centers, she said.

"When a child has the chance of a good home with adopted parents, that child has a right to have that home," contended Mrs. Natland.

THE BOARD'S CHAIRMAN, Robert Mitchell, conceded that the proposal is provocative and apt to cause controversy. He emphasized that any mother faced with loss of a child would have the right to a court hearing if she wanted to keep it and felt she could provide it a decent home.

People will react differently to the California board's proposal. But most Americans probably will agree with Mitchell that it's time to center the discussion, not on money, but on "the rights, physical well-being and social development of these youngsters."

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

April 11, 1962

Two out of four women candidates for city council positions in Marin won election. One of the losers was Sally Stanford in Sausalito.

Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy, Marin County medical director, was granted a permit by the San Rafael Planning Commission to build a 90-bed convalescent hospital between Nova Albion Way and Trellis Drive with which he planned to replace the condemned county hospital in Lucas Valley.

20 YEARS AGO

April 11, 1952

John Harrison, executive secretary of the Bay Region Water Pollution Control Board, said a county-wide sanitary system might be proposed for Marin.

Marin veterans' organizations agreed to investigate possibility of releasing $80,000 in the county's war memorial fund for purchase of a county fairgrounds site.

The Big Guy Has To Pay For Those Unkept Promises

WASHINGTON — There are two important people that all presidential candidates must deal with if they ever hope to get any votes.

There is the big man and the little man. The big man is the candidate's source of funds, and the little man is the candidate's source of discontent. Nobody, including Richard Nixon, can win in November unless he makes peace with both of them.

THE PRESIDENT of a large corporation called in his public relations vice president the other day and said in a fury: "What the heck is going on here? We gave this guy $50,000 and he's attacking big business."

"There's nothing to worry about, chief. He has to attack big business to placate the little guy who is fed up with high taxes, high prices and bureaucratic bungling. The little guy feels he has no control of his destiny."

"Well if our man feels that strongly about the little guy, why does he come to the big guy for political campaign contributions?"

"Because, chief, he needs the money to buy television time to attack us."

"THAT'S JUST dandy. But if he feels that way, why should we give him any contribution?"

"Because, chief, we have a lot to gain by it."

"Why do we have a lot to gain, damn it?"

"Because if the big guy doesn't give to the presidential candidate, the candidate won't be indebted to us if he wins the election. If he isn't indebted to us, he might well carry out the promises he made to the little guy."

"It sounds pretty complicated to me. Look at this in the newspaper. Our candidate says the first thing he will do, if elected, is close all the tax loopholes and make the big guys pay what they really should."

"Exactly. If he didn't say anything about tax reform, he wouldn't have a Chinaman's chance of winning the election. We don't want to give $50,000 to a guy who is a sure loser."

"Then he says he's going to make sure the large corporations are penalized for polluting the air and the water."

"The little guy digs that, chief. He likes to believe the big guy is destroying the country."

"WELL, WHY DON'T you have our candidate tell the little guy if we didn't pollute, he wouldn't have a job?"

"You don't bring that up during a presidential election campaign. Once our man is in, then he can say it.

"Chief, I know it's not much fun to see a candidate you gave $50,000 to take you over the coals, but this is politics. The little guy still has the votes, and in order for the big guy to stay in business you have to be the heavy. Now I spoke to our candidate the other day, and he says next week he's going to attack the conglomerates and propose they be broken up."

"But we're a conglomerate!"

"That's why he told me. He says he could use $25,000 more to make sure the attack gets the widest distribution."

"I'M NOT GOING to give $25,000 to someone who wants to break up my company."

"We have to, chief. The surveys show that the little guy fears conglomerates almost as much as busing. If our candidate's attack on conglomerates works, he could pick up 100 delegates. I think we ought to give him the $25,000 to protect our $50,000."

"And what if the little guy doesn't think breaking up conglomerates is enough?"

"Then our candidate is going to promise the little man that he'll confiscate all private property."

"Yoicks!"

Man Admits Mill Valley Home Theft

Walter Sidney Boatwright, 22, of Concord pleaded guilty yesterday in Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a Mill Valley residence last summer.

Following the change of plea, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, in accordance with agreement reached in pretrial conferences, dismissed a charge of concealing stolen property.

Boatwright was arrested in February on a warrant stemming from the burglary. He allegedly sold property taken in the burglary of a San Anselmo home where he had worked as a gardener.

Sentencing was set for May 8.

ABAG Asks To Add Members

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Association of Bay Area Government officials yesterday urged state legislation to give the association powers to force cities and counties to join ABAG and follow its plans.

The ABAG officials, testifying before the Senate Local Government Committee, also made a strong pitch for a regional tax to support such a strong regional government.

The committee, which met in the State Building, is drafting legislation for next year's session "to facilitate better planning," said chairman Milton Marks, R-San Francisco.

Association president Donald Dillon, a Fremont city councilman, conceded under questioning that the mandatory membership and planning powers would be "a displacement of local control." He argued, however, that such a powerful ABAG would be "an extension of local control."

Dillon testified that "had ABAG and the Bay Area waited for the state to act" on problems of the region, "the region would probably be classified as a disaster area instead of an urban area with problems."

The committee did not indicate how far it would go in tailoring its legislative proposals to suit the pleas by the ABAG officials. A sign of ABAG's growing repute in Sacramento, however, may be seen in the fact this is the first legislative session in several years without a bill to replace ABAG with a new regional agency run by directly elected officials.

The association, run by city councilmen and county supervisors, has opposed such past legislation. Membership in ABAG now is voluntary, and members are not bound by its plans.

Dillon acknowledged that ABAG's many plans now "are simply policy statements," lacking teeth because they are not backed by enforceable local zoning.

He noted that 85 cities in the region were members of ABAG, and that Solano was alone among the nine counties declining membership. Sonoma County citizens, he added, have voted to withdraw if a North Coast planning agency is created.

Mandatory powers, Dillon declared, "would take this albatross of voluntarism off the back of ABAG" and give ABAG the ability to resolve regional issues that otherwise cannot be solved.

He insisted that "ABAG is not looking for another layer of government. We want to extend local control to problems that go beyond our cities and counties."

Thursday Meeting

The Ross Town Concil , meeting Thursday at 8 p.m., will consider forming a recreation commission, discuss future town boundaries and sphere of influence and hear status reports on the legally-entangled Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Council Told Home Limit May Be Illegal

The Petaluma City council last night sifted through a proposed policy on limiting residential growth and was warned that it is treading on untested legal grounds.

The policy would limit growth to 500 new living units per year. Of that number, a maximum of 250 would be built on the eastside with the remainder on the westside. Applications received before the moratorium was declared more than a year ago already fill the 500-unit limit for the 1972-73 year.

If the resolution is approved at the council meeting next Monday, developers will have one month next fall in which to submit all proposed building plans for the 1973-74 year. The plans would be considered in October so that developers selected could have plans processed and ready for the start of the construction season in April or May. The council resolution would also call for an annual review of the growth policy every August.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert warned the council that although similar policies are being considered by other cities, the legality has not been tested and Petaluma could be headed for the courts.

"From their letters, the developers appear to be cooperative and willing to go along with it, but that may change and new developers may come along," he said.

Mayor Helen Putnam and the council agreed that the plan should at least be tried and could set a precedent that other larger California cities might want to follow.

The planning commission's recommendation to name an eight-member screening committee to select developments to send to the planning commission was raised by Councilman Robert E. Daly, but drew little support.

The resolution would permit a developer to sell land and development plans if the buyer agreed to follow the plan as approved by the city council. The council had originally considered making the building permits non-transferrable to prevent speculation.

The council said it would also consider ammending the policy to show that a developer can receive a committment for more than one year in a case where a large investment must be made in capital improvements.

TAXES TAKE MORE OUT OF YOUR DAY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average American spends about a quarter of his work week in the employ of government taxmen, according to Tax Foundation Inc., a nonprofit research organization.

The foundation reported Monday that two hours and 34 minutes of a normal eight-hour work day are needed to pay federal, state and local taxes. Five years ago it took only two hours and 26 minutes to satisfy tax requirements.

The working time required to pay all direct taxes, excluding hidden taxes, is greater than that required to meet the average worker's basic needs: food, clothing and shelter, items that require only two hours and 31 minutes of the work day, the foundation reported.

Private Firm Attacks Golden Gate District Ferry System

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Golden Gate Bridge District's planned ferry system will disrupt and damage the ecology of the bay and shoreline areas adjacent to terminals, according to consultants hired by a private ferry company.

Harbor Tug and Barge Co. of San Francisco, has been trying to block the district's pending application for almost $13 million in federal funds toward the $19 million ferry system.

The company had charged that ferry passengers require a far heavier subsidy from distirct revenues than bus passengers, but the district has retorted that the opposite is true.

Turning to environmental arguments, the company yestrday issued "review" of the environmental impact statement the bridge district filed with its application for federal funds. The statement was done for the district by Kaiser Engineers of Oakland, and reviewed for the company by Environmental Impact Planning Corp. of San Francisco.

To carry some 2,000 commuters a day, the consultants said, tha planned terminal at Larkspur will result in "the destruction of some marshlands and mudflats, a potential air and water pollution problem, traffic congestion, and imposition of noise and visual pollution upon a semi-rural setting."

The consultants recommended that the Central Varin terminal instead be on Paradise Drive in Corte Madera or San Quentin Point to avoid "massive filling and dredging."

In any event, they predicted in their report to Harbor Tug, "that this highly tenuous commuting scheme will get a substantial ridership is doubtful, to say the least."

The bridge district's statement, the company's consultants said, should provide far more detail about potential problems from disposing of dredged mud, which may be high in poisonous metals.

The consultants also objected that the system will interfere with recreational boating, and that a breakwater at its San Francisco terminal could cause current changes to undermine the Ferry Building.

Instead of a ferry system, the consultants concluded, the district could hike tolls for motorists commuting alone, provide separate freeway lanes for buses and use air cushion vehicles on the bay — which would not require dredging.

(District officials have rejected differential tolls, arguing collecting them would back up traffic because of the extra seconds needed to check each car. A freeway lane for buses will be reserved on the Waldo Grade by midsummer, according to state plans. No practical air cushion vehicles exists yet, district officials have decided.)

Four Month Strike Over At Airwest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The four-month strike by mechanics and aircraft cleaners against Hughes Airwest is over.

The 570 members of the Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association reported Monday that they have ratified a new contract worked out several weeks ago under the guidance of a federal mediator.

The walkout began Dec. 15, but supervisory personnel were used to maintain partial service.

Airwest said that next week it would add 303 weekly aircraft departures to the 2,130 which have been operating since March 13.

INVITATION TO LINGER, LOITER OR STROLL

Steps leading down from Seventh Street south of Novato Creek, are the beginning of the path that is being constructed along the creek behind Sambo's Restaurant, the Novato Branch of Marin County Library and the adjacent medical center. LeRoy M. Gerner of the Novato Civic Foundation has designed the landscaped pathway and guided its construction. When completed, the landscaped areas will have benches for resting. The curving path weaves in and out between the big trees in back of the library which barely can be seen in back of the big tree in the foreground. A specially designed footbridge leads from the pathway to the Novato Fair Shopping Center which is to the right. So far the pathway has cost $3,100 in materials with much of the materials and all the labor being donated.

Driver, 19 Not Burned In Accident

A 19-year-old Bel Marin Keys driver escaped from a burning truck today after it struck a tree along Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, south of Hamilton Drive, according to Novato police.

The driver, Rocky Gene Hawkins of 137 Caribe Isle told police sparks from under the dashboard ignited a can of gasoline with a rag stopper which was on the floorboard. He was distracted and the truck hit a tree at 3 a.m.

Hawkins was discovered unconscious near the burning truck. He told police he remembered getting out of the truck before losing consciousness. He was admitted to Novato General Hospital for observation.

Fire Chief Jack Kidder estimated the damage to the truck at $1,000.

Dixie Board Gears For Student Drop

With school enrollment dropping 200 pupils next year, the Dixie School District board last night combined two administrative posts and set a lottery to determine which teachers will be let go with elimination of 14 jobs next year.

The board also, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell, granted the request of William Cheney, principal of Miller Creek School, and Michael R. Glose, principal of Nova Albion School, to return to teaching jobs at their respective schools.

The board then assigned John D. King as principal of Nova Albion School. King, who has been director of personnel, will continue in that position also, thus eliminating one administrator from the district, Campbell said. The district must now recruit a new principal for Miller Creek School, he said.

The reduction in the administration personnel will save the district approximately $20,000 per year, Campbell said.

The board set 3:45 p.m., April 19 for a lottery in the administration building to select the teachers to be let go next school year.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

UNIFICATION — Approved a fact sheet prepared by the Dixie Citizens Advisory Group on unification with San Rafael school district at the June 6 primary election. The San Rafael Board of Education approved the same fact sheet on March 29, Campbell said. The committee will now prepare a supplementary sheet giving the pros and cons for the proposed unifcation.

SALARIES — The Dixie Teachers Association asked for a 3.6 per cent increase in salaries to cover cost of living increase. The board took it under advisement until it had all wage proposals at budget time, Campbell said.

DENTAL — Approved increasing the premium for California Dental Service from $6.12 to $7.52 per month per employee.

LEAVE POLICY — Changed the deadline for employees notifying the district that they will return to work from April 15 to Feb. 15 of each year. This is to conform to the new state law that requires the district to notify teachers by March 15 if they are to be kept in district, Campbell said.

LEAVES — Granted maternity leaves to Janet Wetheimer, and Holly Kaufman and study leaves to Sue Kramer and Douglas Perrin for next school year. It extended for another year, the leave of Janet Reamer, now working at Dominican College doing educational research.

APPLICATION — Approved a $35,915 application for Title III National Defense Education Act funds for reading and industrial arts equipment.

TRANSFER — Authorized the transfer of $23,000 from the teacher's salary budget to the classified salary budget.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Named two principals for the upper grades and eight teachers in charge of the eight elementary school summer school programs from June 26 through July 28. The principals will receive $1,400 and the teachers $800.

CAPITAL OUTLAY — Approved capital outlay of $900 for two softball backstops at Dixie and Oak View schools; $800 for fencing at Santa Margarita school; $5,000 for timber form playground equipment at Dixie schools with the parent group paying $2,700 of the amount.

INSURANCE — Authorized unemployment insurance for the classified employees, as now required by law, at a cost of $13,000 annually.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Bettie Lefkin who is retiring after 15 years teaching in the district; teacher Patricia Kimball now on leave and Charles Kline, foreman-mechanic in the transportation department.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. April 26.

Unidentified Man Found Shot Dead

The body of an unidentified man with a bullet wound in his chest was found near Washington Park Circle on the Panoramic Highway about 4:40 p.m. yesterday, according to the Marin County coroner.

The man, in his early 20s, had a typed suicide note in his pocket, the coroner said, but no identification. A .32 caliber pistol was found on the ground by his side. Coroner's officials said he had been seen earlier in the day in Mill Valley hitchhiking up Miller Avenue.

They said he had red hair, hazel eyes and a playboy bunny tatooed on his left forearm. His body was taken to Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley after he was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital.

Prison Inmate Reported Missing

A 23-year-old San Quentin inmate decamped Saturday night from the ranch outside the gate, according to John N. Apostol, officer of the day.

John Charles Hunt, who was due for parole on Aug. 6 of this year, was last seen at 10 p.m. and was missing from the 10:30 p.m. count, Apostol said. Hunt came to San Quentin on Feb. 23 this year sentenced in San Mateo County for receiving stolen property, Apostol said.

Jail, Probation In Auto Theft

Richard Lee Schmidt, 20, of Santa Rosa was sentenced yesterday to six months in the county jail and put on three years probation for car theft by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

Schmidt was arrested in December by Sonoma authorities on a warrant charging him with the theft of two vehicles.

He was accused of stealing a car in Sonoma County, then abandoning it in Nicasio where he allegedly stole another car, belonging to a local man.

Kentfield Board Takes Look At Tentative Budget

The Kentfield School District board reviewed a tentative budget of $1,593,095, but took no action on the proposed spending program, according to Supt. Anthony G. Bacich.

The budget, which does not include any salary schedule increases for district employees, is almost $45,000 less than last year's actual budget of $1,638,865.00, according to Bacich. It does include the annual step increases.

In addition, this year's budget includes 10 to 15 per cent increases in health and welfare benefits for all employees, according to Bacich.

If the assessed valuation of property in Kentfield goes up by 3 per cent as expected, said Bacich, the tax rate will drop from $3.115 per $100 assessed valuation to $3.085.

Bacich said the district would have to pay an additional $10,000 for every one per cent increase in salaries approved by the board.

The reduction of $45,000 in this year's budget was achieved through the elimination of four teaching positions and the termination of an outside landscape maintenance contract.

Because of reduced pupil enrollments, Bacich said, the district is not filling four positions vacated through retirements, saving about $40,000.

The district's regular staff will handle the landscape maintenance, according to Bacich, saving $4,600.

New expenses proposed include $2,000 to cover salaries for the district's ecology courses and $2,000 for staff development of a multi-ethnic curriculum.

The Kentfield School District board also:

RETIREMENT — Accepted retirement of Honor Brown, a kindergarden teacher at A. E. Kent Elementary School, who has worked for the district for 17 years.

COOPERATION — Authorized Bacich to meet with the Ross School District superintendent to plan for cooperation between districts on services, personnel and facilities.

GIFTS — Accepted a trumpet, a saxophone and two clarinets for the instrumental music program from Dr. and Mrs. Richard Marchand, of 85 Corte Baristo.

San Francisco Girl To Answer Charges

Laura Rennick, 23, of San Francisco has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing dangerous drugs and codeine.

She is to appear April 24 to face the charges stemming from her arrest by sheriff's deputies Dec. 21.

Highway Lane Will Be Closed

One northbound lane of Highway 101 between the Marin City offramp and the north end of Richardson Bay Bridge has been closed to traffic this week daily between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Two lanes will be kept open at all times, Dist. Engineer Thomas R. Lammers said.

The closing is necessary for restriping of lanes to narrow the width in order to provide working space adjacent to the old bridge railing which must be removed, Lammers uaid.

An art contest to draw the bulldog-symbol of the Marines has been announced for all high school students in Marin County by the Marine Corps.

Ross School Trustees Open Round On Budget

Ross School District trustees last night reviewed the first draft of the $555,520 budget for fiscal 1972-73 and teachers requests for a salary increase, but took no action on either item said Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

The preliminary budget for next year is $21,759 more than the current $533,761 budget. (The Independent-Journal errered yesterday in reporting that the preliminary budget was $635,000)

The increase in the proposed budget would not change the tax rate of $3.35 cents per $100 assessed valuation, Anderson said.

The trustees held a closed session to discuss the teachers request for a 5.5 per cent increase, medical insurance to cover the employee and dependents, medical insurance for retired teachers and increase in the pay for coaches, Anderson said.

These items could cost the district between $29,000 and $54,000 per year for the district's 26 teachers, he said.

Kidnaped Fiat Exec Found Dead

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)-An Argentine government spokesman said yesterday the body of kidnaped Fiat executive Oberdan Sallustro, 56, was found in a house in a southwestern suburb of Buenos Aires.

The Italian national general manager of the local Fiat complex was kidnaped from his car a block from his home on March 21 by the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), a Trotskyite commando group.

The government refused to negotiate with the kidnapers and forbade Fiat to meet any of the ransom demands— including the distribution of $1 million worth of school supplies to poor children and the publication of an ERP propaganda message.

Alas! Women's Work Still Never Done, Study Shows

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The saying that women's work is never done seems truer today than ever before.

Oh yes, there are all the labor savers and conveniences technology has thought up to ease our load. But consider that the number of women who work outside the home is an "explosion", as one source puts it. More than half of all women between the ages of 18 and 64 now hold jobs, a total of 31.5 million (U.S. Labor Department estimate). Most of them also run households—and just about run themselves ragged unless they can afford household help.

One of the big jobs of running a home is running the food department, and "by and large, the working woman either does not or can not delegate this job," reports the Bureau of Advertising.

THE BUREAU, seeking to determine the influence the working wives "explosion" was having on food buying patterns, hired Response Analysis, Inc., of Princeton, N.J., to do a national "probability sample" of 1,000 women.

Leo Bogart, executive vice president and general manager of the Bureau, reported on some of the findings.

The responsibility for food shopping seems most firmly established among women in the middle and upper income families. It is in the lower income households that men are most likely to share the food shopping chores.

But because she devotes less time to shopping, the working wife usually spends it in only one supermarket. The sampling also found:

—Some 77 per cent of working wives say they do most of the food shopping compared to 83 per cent of the women who stay home.

—About one out of three married shoppers (31 per cent of the working wives and 33 per cent of the fulltime housewives) say their husbands go along on the food buying trip most of the time.

—Nine out of 10 women shop mainly in supermarkets. The typical housewife has about three supermarkets located conveniently near her home.

—Seventy per cent of women who work do major shopping only one day a week.

—Among fulltime housewives, 41 per cent report that Friday is their usual food buying day and 21 per cent named Saturday.

—MORNING AND early afternoon food shopping is almost twice as common among housewives (64 per cent) as among fulltime working women (35 per cent). Conversely, those who work fulltime are much more likely to shop late afternoons or evenings.

—Two thirds of the women interviewed reported they go to the store with a shopping list. They make up their lists by checking their supplies on hand (86 per cent), checking advertising for specials (79 per cent) and asking the family (58 per cent).

—Among those who consult advertising when making up a list' 83 per cent look in newspapers (82 per cent of housewives, 85 of the working women).

BATTLE WITH ALCOHOLISM

Mercedes McCambridge — Back Up A Long, Long Road

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Alcohol for me can mean one of two things — insanity or death," Mercedes McCambridge, the actress, puts a growing national problem in those words as they apply to her, a recovered alcoholic.

The 54-year old actress, originally from Jolie, Ill., knowing what alcoholism did to her life, now is putting herself in the spotlight for the National Council on Alcoholism, spending part of each year speaking to groups on campus, at clubs, business firms, on television, anywhere to get across the message of alcohol's potential destructiveness.

Because of her one-woman campaign, the council at its annual meeting this week in Kansas City will honor her with its Gold Key award. Only one other woman, Marty Mann, who helped to pioneer the council, has been so cited.

"Alcoholism is the nation's number one drug problem," Miss McCambridge said in an interview in New York.

A RECENT study from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) reinforces her statement with ome statistics on the consequences of heavy drinking. It said that many persons who consider themselves merely social drinkers may be surprised to find that they are heavy drinkers, defined as those who take a drink nearly every day or consume five or more drinks at a time at intervals of about a week.

The HEW report places 12 per cent of all American adults in the heavy drinking category and maintains that nearly half of them have serious problems with liquor.

Miss McCambridge said the council estimates there are nine million alcoholics in the country —"and that's a rock bottom statistic. These are nine million desperately ill people."

Miss McCambridge abhors the effects alcohol is having on our teen-agers —"52 per cent of those in serious trouble (drugs, venereal disease, illegitimacy) come from alcoholic homes," she said. "If a child could just be brought up to know that this is a disease and he can get it..."

The auburn-haired actress, who won an Academy Award for her first movie, "All the King's Men" in 1950, said she had her first hard drink when a student at Mundelein College in Chicago.

"IT MADE me sick then," she said, "but I'm convinced I was born an alcoholic. My body chemistry was all set for it."

Miss McCambridge traced some of her gradual increase in the use of alcohol to her strict family upbringing. "I was told you are born guilty," she said. "My God was a vengeful God. You can't indoctrinate a girl for 16 years that her body is a temple for the holy spirit and not get some reaction. I drank to get to the other side of sin."

The breakup of her two marriages and the loss of two children stillborn didn't help. But she says the "very fine line" of slipping from social ingestion to "where the drug takes over" is hard to define.

Eight years ago, pneumonia put her in Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York and also helped start her on the road to sobriety. She cited specifically a conversation she had with Dr. Stanley Gitlow of the Sinai medical and teaching staff who's done a lot of work with problems of alcoholism.

He told her, "You have a treatable disease. No one here is judging you. They're treating you."

ONCE DETOXIFIED and also rid of her pneumonia, she came out of the hospital with the acceptance that alocholism was a disease—"not one that is curable... there is no cure. But it can be controlled.

"I just asked for the understanding of the people close to me as I worked my way back."

The alcoholic, she feels, is just one victim of the "essential loneliness that is responsible for much of the rage and frustration of our time.

"One third of this country is on something!"

Her Boy Friends Must Pass Dad's Inspection — Eight Times

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My father won't let me date unless he gets to know the guy. That means the boy has to come down to my house about 10 times (no less than eight) just to talk to my parents.

Then, if dad's "requirements" aren't met (in everything from length of hair to politics(I've gone through all that for nothing, because I can't go out with the guy.

Besides, what fella will visit a girl's parents eight times just for a date? I haven't dated yet. Guess this answers the question.

I'm a 16-year-old girl who tries to see my parents' side, but the truth is father doesn't always know best (even if mother says he's boss). — MIXED UP

DEAR M.U.:

You hit it right on the nose: parents aren't always right, just because they're "the bosses," or "have been through it."

Try for a calm talk with your father. Ask him why he thinks your judgment is so poor and when will he consider you old enough to know which boys are right and which aren't? Imply that he should have more faith in a daughter he's raised so well. Show him you can discuss without getting mad, but make it definite you believe 10 interviews are at least nine too many. Good luck. — SUE

DEAR MIXED UP:

You might also ask your mother about her dating days: If her parents (your grandparents) were as rigid as your dad, how did she ever break loose? Did your father pass the 10-inspection test?

I think he, like a lot of skittery parents, has laid down a law before investigating the facts. He'll soften — with your mom's help — once he starts meeting a few boys..... So don't scare them off by telling them about "the rule." — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I was in a car accident two months ago, and was left with a bad scar on my face. It's terribly ugly. Now that I am back in school, I find my friends are my enemies. They hate me because my scar makes me different and not pretty any more.

Even my parents treat me like I don't belong to them. Don't give me that stuff about a counselor — he'd hate my looks too. Socially conscious people can't stand to be embarrassed by being seen with me. Is there any hope? — THE OUTCAST

DEAR OUTCAST:

I think your scar is much bigger to you than to anyone else. No one will desert you because you've been hurt — but they'll leave you alone if you close them out. Are you sure the biggest scar isn't inside? — SUE

DEAR OUTCAST:

Learn to talk about your scar, naturally and without shame. Find makeup that will minimize it — and look forward to plastic surgery that, combined with cosmetics, does marvelous transformations these days. — HELEN

Author, Art Enthusiast To Speak

Richard Rush, art collector, author and columnist, will speak on "Antiques for Fun and Profit" as the final program in the A.M. series on Friday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The Family Service League of Marin is the sponsor for the 10:30 a.m. program. A coffee hour will precede the talk.

The economist, financier and former corporation president who, with his wife, began collecting old master paintings and antique furniture as a hobby on a little more than a shoestring in the 1950s, now has a collection valued at more than a million dollars. They have recently added to their collection the Villa Comaro, designed and built in the 16th Century by Andrea Palladio near Venice. Both husband and wife are now restoring this villa and plan to furnish it with Italian antiques of the period.

In his program Rush will describe which schools of art are increasing in value and discuss some of the painting "discoveries" he has made. He feels that the quest for an old master is one of the most thrilling sports in the world, but he adds that without knowing what you are doing it can be a waste of time and money. Collectors who are careful can enjoy their collection, decorate their homes, and make a sound investment at the same time, he said.

Rush's writings are almost equally divided between his business as a financier and his hobby as an art and antique collector. He has written "Art As An Investment," "Antiques as an Investment," "The Techniques of Becoming Wealthy" and "A Strategy of Investing for Higher Return." He writes a weekly column for the Wall Street Transcript and one for the Connoisseur's Corner, a publication for United Nations personnel.

The Richard H. Rush Collection of Old Master paintings has been exhibited in several museums and he and his wife have given a collection of paintings to Dartmouth College, the College of the City of New York and Finch College.

Bedroom Switch: Get Rid Of That Heavy Looking Furniture

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
(Distributed by General Features Corp.)

There's little reason to buy heavy furnishings for our sleep rooms, yet almost consistently the stores seem to advertise and display rather overpowering wood headboards, armoires and chests as well as showing heavy drapery treatments in bed settings.

Once in a while it's a nice change, even in a master bedroom, to eliminate all that heavy looking furniture and switch to a gleaming brass headboard or some of the lighter looking wicker styles.

It's easy to find wicker and woven rattan in lacy designs, but there also are some clean-lined wicker groups being offered now. Some manufacturers are using the Parsons-type outline with square corners; others are adding campaign-type brass trim.

The summery look of wicker encourages one to look for brighter florals and more cheerful solids colors in curtain, drapery and bedspread treatment. And if you find fabric in an easily washable weight, there may be a fun way to use it as wallcovering, too.

The idea is one you might consider for interim decorating. It's temporary solution, one that's used to conceal an old paint job or a wall in need or repair. A printed sheer fabric can be cut into lengths equal to the measure of the room's floor-to ceiling height (with extra yardage allowed for simple home). The panels of fabric can then be shirred onto curtain rods and the rods attached to the wall. You might use screw-in hooks to support the rods, instead of fancy hardware which takes longer and is more expensive.

The whole wall in back of the bed might be covered with this shirred fabric, or use only two panels at either side as a kind of frame.

Wicker also recalls the beds of the tropics swathed in their mosquito netting. While mosquitoes may not be your summer sleep problem, there are good uses for a canopy in many an older house.

Aside from the sheer prettiness, bed draperies can help keep drafts away. If your bed has to be positioned between the cross flow of air, you probably have some drafty nights, winter and summer.

You can correct that climate problem by creating a mock canopy above the head of your bed. Start by attaching vertical wood boards, floor-to-ceiling, at either side of your bed. Then nail boards to the ceiling in the shape of a miniature canopy. Boards 1 by 12 in. are about the right size. Cut them the full width of the bed, but about ⅓ of the length. That concentrates the canopy at the head of the bed.

The same sheer fabric used for curtains can be shirred onto rods and attached to the inside of the ceiling boards. Then a contrasting, solid-colored fabric can be cut and hemmed the shape of a cornice to cover the outside of the canopy.

Tiebacks can hold the sheer fabric back against the two vertical posts. Even the posts can be covered with fabric before they're installed or they can be painted white.

Most men will lie still for this kind of partial canopy, while they might bolt at the sight of a super frilly four-poster bed.

Crowe Says Orr 'Didn't Do Job'

By FRANK FARRARA

Fairfax City Administrator Robert E. Crowe testified yesterday that he never threatened former Police Chief James R. Orr with discipline or dismissal before he fired him last September.

His prefiring talks with Orr, however, carried the implication that "if a man at a professional level doesn't do his ob, you're going to find someone who can," Crowe said.

Crowe was the lone witness at the Fairfax Board of Review's 35th session on Orr's appeal of his firing; a hearing that began five months ago.

ILLNESS IN FAMILY

During the two-hour session, Chairman Freeman Blake quizzed Crowe to determine if Orr had been aware of the seriousness of the situation, if he had been given any guidelines or deadlines for improvement of the department or warned before his dismissal.

Orr was scheduled to answer the same questions, but Blake ended the session shortly after 5 p.m. because of illness in his family.

Crowe fired Orr, police chief for nine years, on Sept. 30 and the firing was upheld by the Fairfax City Council four days later by a 3-2 vote.

Crowe related the events leading up to the firing starting with a "friendly conservation" with Orr last April about problems in the department. He listed them as poor administration, lack of control, poor morale, poor enforcement of departure rules, favoratism and lack of community relations.

Blake asked Crowe is he had given Orr deadlines for making improvements, and Crowe said he hadn't but expected Orr to "start working" on changes immediately.

Orr failed to act on any of the deficiences and in July "I had just about had it," Crowe said. At that time Crowe said he issued a series of directives on operation of the department, "thinking it would prod him to get things done."

ITEM BY ITEM

Freeman questioned Crowe item by item, starting with the enforcement of rules in the department.

At one point, Orr's attorney, Robert Shaw, said that Crowe was "going far afield" and wasn't being responsive to Blake's questions.

City Atty. Wallace S. Myers agreed and told Crowe, "You ought to answer the questions directly."

Crowe said the police department rules were "out of date nd inadequate."

Blake asked, "Were any guidelines suggested?" and Crowe said he suggested Orr get information from other departments on rules. Two months later, Orr hadn't done anything about the rules and explained "he had been busy," Crowe testified.

"Did you suggest the consequences of failure?" Blake asked.

"No, when you are dealing with a supposed professional, I don't think you have to spell out . . . when you don't do your job, something will happen," Crowe said.

Crowe said he discussed "low morale" with Orr last April.

Blake asked if Crowe proposed any specific changes, and he said, "one was changing shifts. Some officers had been on the same shift year after year . . . I did give a deadline on that, but I don't remember it now."

Orr met the deadline for the changes, but didn't meet the deadline for submitting the shift list to him, Crowe said.

"What was the most serious aspect of low morale," Blake asked.

"The most serious from the point of view of officers was the relative position of the clerk (Marsha S. Kittleman) and her relationship to officers," Crowe said.

He charged that Orr showed favoritism toward Mrs. Kittleman and Blake asked: "Did you advise him what you expected in changes regarding to her?"

"I discussed more of what she should do and not do," Crowe said. "She should not be giving orders and directions to the deparmtent and should be doing clerical work."

CLAIMS TARDINESS

He said he discussed Mrs. Kittleman's "lack of punctuality." Crowe said he sometimes arrived at work early. "I would stand there and wait until she arrived," and she was tardy at least 15 times, he said.

When he mentioned it to Orr, "most of the time he had excuses before he talked to her," he said.

Crowe also said there was "lack of control" with "officers in the office for long periods" of time without reason, and a lack of proper equipment for the department.

He also said he returned the department budget to Orr four times because it wasn't suitable . . . "with items not explained or justified."

"What help did you offer?" Blake asked.

"I assumed in nine years he would have learned how," Crowe said. "My concern was he didn't seem to know why he would request certain amounts. He'd say, 'Well, it was there last year'."

The hearing was continued until 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Academy Honors Charlie Chaplin

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jane Fonda and Gene Hackman won Academy Awards Monday night and "The French Connection" was named best picture, but Hollywood's accolades and a standing ovation were saved for the return of Charlie Chaplin to the town he helped make famous more than a half a century ago.

"The French Connection," in addition to its Oscar for the best picture of 1971 in the 44th annual Academy Awards presentations, led all other films with a total of five awards.

But it was the frail, white-haired film pioneer who was the dramatic star of the night, weeping with emotion as he embraced a Hollywood that exiled him more than 20 years ago.

In the finale of the 2 1-2-hour awards presentations, Chaplin came on stage with his trademark cane and derby, mementoes of the Little Tramp which brought him fame.

He told 2,900 celebrities in the Los Angeles Music Center, and millions of television viewers, "Oh, thank you so much. This is an emotional moment for me. And words are so feeble and futile.

"Thank you for the honor of inviting me here. You are wonderful, sweet people."

Miss Fonda won her laurels portraying a call girl in "Klute." In a terse acceptance speech she said, "There is a great deal to say, and I'm not going to say it tonight."

Hackman won for his performance as the tough cop in "The French Connection." He thanked his first dramatic coach and his mother before he was overcome by emotion.

"The Last Picture Show," a story of a dying Texas town in the 1950s, provided both Oscars for supporting players.

Ben Johnson, an Oklahoma horse wrangler who came to Hollywood as a stunt man, was voted best supporting actor. Accepting the award, he cracked: "This couldn't have happpened o a nicer fella."

Cloris Leachman, who once played the mother on the "Lassie" TV show and currently is a regular on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show," won the Oscar for best supporting actress, portraying an aging, tragic housewife.

The Academy Award for best achievement in directing went to William Friedkin for "The French Connection."

Miss Fonda, a political activist, maintained her reserve backstage, telling newsmen she refrained from discussing her antiwar views "because it would have offended more people than anything else. I think everyone wants the war to end."

Friedkin said "The French Connection" had been an extremely difficult movie to film because "Gene Hackman's personality is as far as you can get from the role he played."

Hackman said "That's true. I'm a very sweet person, actually."

Hackman said he was so excited "I don't remember getting from my seat to the podium."

"The Garden of the Finzi Continis" was voted the best foreign language film of the year. Best song honors went to the theme from "Shaft."

The award show was hosted by former Academy Award winners Helen Hayes and Jack Lemmon, along with Alan King and Sammy Davis Jr.

Bob Hope, usually a fixture at Academy Award shows, was absent this year due to a conflict of television sponsors.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Fast Discarding Can Save Bid — Never Drag Your Feet

If your opponents always made their best opening lead, you would have to give up playing bridge; no partner would have you. In real life, fortunately, opponents often make "normal" but ineffective opening leads. This is good for you, but not enough to guarantee your success. You must still take advantage of your good fortune.

Opening lead — ◇ J

SOUTH MAKES

If West were the seventh son of a seventh son he would lead a heart. East would take the ace of hearts and shift to the queen of clubs. That would be the end of poor South.

Actually, West leads the jack of diamonds — just like any normal human being. This permits South to make his contract.

Mind you, South can't sit back and let the hand play itself. If South wins the first trick and leads a trump with some vague plan of drawing trumps, he will go down. West will take the ace of spades, lead a heart to East and get a club return to defeat the contract.

SPEEDY ACTION

Speedy action is called for. South must win the ace of diamonds and promptly cash dummy's king and queen of diamonds. This enables him to discard a club from his hand.

Having obtained this discard, South can afford to go after the trumps. The defenders can take only their three aces, and South scores his game.

DISCARD FIRST

The point is that in some hands you must take a discard before you give up the lead. If you can draw trumps without giving up the lead, do so before you take your discard. If the opponents have the ace of trumps (or perhaps even the king), take your discard before drawing trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade and the next player doubles.

You hold:
♠ - J 9 7 5
♥ - 10 9 2
♦ - K Q 5 3
♣ - 7 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades.

This shows four or more trumps and about seven to nine points in support of partner's bid. The idea is to make life difficult for the opponents, not to invite your partner to go on to game. He needs a very good hand to make game.

S. C. (BRICK) MASTERSON
Wants death penalty restored

HITS TRIBUNAL

Jurist Outspoken On Death Penalty

By JEFF GREER

"I don't think there's anything at all mature about a society that lets people get away with murder," says Superior Court Judge S. C. (Brick) Masterson.

The Contra Costa County jurist, who maintains a home in San Rafael as well as across the bay, is outspoken in favor of restoring the death penalty in California.

He branded the California Supreme Court's recent decision that the death penalty is unconstitutional "a political decision" but not necessarily a legal or constitutional one.

As a result, he said, the six justices who rendered the decision should be put to political combat to keep their benches. Masterson would require justices to compete for reelection every six years.

The present system, the judge explained, only lets the voters say whether supreme court justices should be returned to the bench for another 12-year term.

Only if the majority vote is "no," is the door opened for someone to run against an incumbent supreme court justice in a later election. "That very nearly happened" in the last general election, Masterson noted. "Some of the negative votes ran as high as 42 per cent."

Masterson has received widespread publicity over his open letter attacking the Supreme Court for striking down the death penalty. He wrote the ruling was "a bad decision on the merits of this controversy" (over the 'cruel or unusual' clause in California's constitution) and was "an outrageous display of judicial arrogance" by judges who usurped the powers of the Legislature.

Masterson's strongly-worded letter was seconded by fellow Contra Costa Judge Norman A. Gregg who, like Masterson, intends to retire late this year.

"Other judges agreed with us, but we wouldn't let them sign the letter," Masterson said. "They still have to put up with those guys" — the defendants in murder and other major crime.

Masterson's stand has spurred hundreds of replies — nearly all favorable. One critic failed to understand that Masterson is even more concerned about the Supreme Court "usurping powers of the Legislature and the people" than about the death penalty. Another, the veteran judge said, wired him that "I was not a very humane person."

The tall, nearly bald judge sat up stiffly in his conservative dark suit and fingered his rancher's style felt hat.

"The Constitution provides that no one shall lose life, liberty or property without due process of law. But on the other hand, the constitution also says that with due process of law he can lose life, liberty or property," Masterson declared. "If the Constitution were amended to reestablish the death penalty, I'd certainly give it my support."

He has been a superior court judge since 1960 and said he never has pronounced a death sentence, adding, "I wouldn't enjoy it."

Masterson has practiced, interpreted or written California law ever since he graduated from the University of California just before World War II. Because of his stature — he's over 6 feet, 2 inches tall — and husky build, he has long been called "Brick." He said many persons therefore confuse him with the famous California athlete "Brick" Muller, who "preceded me in Berkeley by quite a few years."

Masterson put his law degree to work as a Contra Costa deputy district attorney until he became a judicial district judge, then moved into the Richmond Municipal Court in 1951. He was elected to the California Assembly shortly afterward, and wrote laws until he was appointed to the superior court bench in 1960.

In the Legislature, "I voted to abolish the death penalty three times," the judge recalled. "But not for persons with prior murder convictions." He noted that Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger also favored abolition of the death penalty in those days.

"At that time I was impressed with Earl Stanley Gardner's claims' that error had convicted and executed innocent men,' " Masterson explained. "But those were all old cases. What is called the lie detector would have cleared any innocent men."

The polygraph results are not admissible in court, he noted, but he declared, "contrary to popular thought, district attorneys don't prosecute innocent men."

The jurist said he favors retention of the law to let juries decide whether the death sentence should be imposed. "You are getting an expression of the community feeling" in such cases,, he said.

Masterson also criticized the California Supreme Court's ruling last year striking down school tax laws "but not saying what you've got to do" to finance education.

Masterson, following his retirement in December, will live full time in San Rafael with his wife, the former Shirley Duffy. She is a longtime Marin County resident. He said he does not expect to serve on the bench part time as do many retired judges. Rather, he said, he will open a private practice, probably in Richmond.

Father Asks To Be Trustee Of Son's Estate

The father of Alan Scott Harris, 26, has filed in Marin Superior Court to become trustee of the estate of his son, who has been missing since December on a boat in the Caribbean.

The father, Percy I. Harris of Tiburon, said in his petition his son's estate totals $28,421, including a partnership in Eriksson Spars of Mill Valley worth $7,500.

The remainder was in stocks and savings, according to the probate filing.

Harris disappeared on a small boat with 10 to 12 other persons. The boat left French Harbour, Roatan, Honduras, bound for Belize, British Honduras, but never arrived.

Intensive search failed to find the vessel, which at one point was reported in Cuba.

Plan Unit Disapproves 2 Proposals

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, meeting last night for three and a half hours before a packed house of about 80 people, expressed "unanimous disapproval" of plans for Johnny Ribeiro Builder's Casa Madera project on Tamal Vista Boulevard and rejected Frank Burke's latest design for a Corte Madera Marine Center.

Rubeiro has proposed 114 townhouse units on 7.8 acres across from the Department of Motor Vehicles on Tamal Vista Boulevard. The land is now unincorporated county property, but ultimately will be annexed to the city.

According to Zoning Administrator William McBride, commissioners objected to "excessive density" on the site, lack of recreational space and poor design in their rejection of the Casa Madera plans.

He noted the proposed density was contrary to the town's prezoning ordinance, with 114 units planned for 7.8 acres where the town recommends 75-80 units. Planners are also opposed to the large number of three-bedroom units proposed, McBride said.

He also said no annexation application has been filed by Ribeiro with Corte Madera for the ground, and offered the theory that the developer would rather build the units under county zoning because greater density is allowed.

Planners also acted to protect what McBride called "one of the few undisturbed marsh areas" on San Francisco Bay when they unanimously rejected Frank M. Burke's sixth proposal in six years, this one for a 93-acre Corte Madera Marine Center.

McBride said Burke proposed a 355-boat harbor for the site, which the Bay Conservation and Development Commission has recommended be left in its natural state.

Questioned this morning, Burke told the Independent-Journal "I guess the little old ladies in tennis shoes did me in again," referring to conservationist Elizabeth Terwilliger, who led the protest against the harbor.

Suspended Car Theft Sentence Given Parolee

Kenneth Harvey Hicks, 39-year-old state prison parolee, was given a suspended state prison sentence yesterday for car theft.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also ordered five years of probation and nine months in county jail for the San Francisco man, but gave him credit for time served since Nov. 23.

Hicks was stopped on Highway 101 in November by a California Highway Patrol officer who said the car Hicks was driving was weaving.

Not only was the car stolen, but it contained art work Hicks had done during his seven years in prison.

Hicks, who has an eight-page arrest record, reportedly was living in a halfway house for former inmates.

The district attorney's office in the pretrial conference objected to suspension of the sentence, but Gardiner held nothing would be accomplished by a trial and approved the agreement which won Hicks's plea of guilty.

Mountanos Files Counter Action

Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos yesterday filed a $1.5 million defamation suit against the former manager of the Marin Shakespeare Festival, who charged in a damage suit March 31 that the sheriff's son and other youths had beaten and robbed him.

Named as the defendant in the suit filed in Marin Superior Court is Ernest F. Simard, who is asking $175,000 in damages from eight teen-agers and their parents. He claimed the youths, including 16-year-old Marc Mountanos, beat him and robbed him of the festival's gate receipts Sept. 24.

But in the suit filed on behalf of the sheriff, his wife, Beverly, and Marc, San Francisco attorney Nathan Cohn said Marc was nursing a broken arm the night of the assault and "had been at home with his arm in a cast the entire day and had not left the premises."

Moreover, Mountanos said, Simard visited his home the night of the attack with two policemen and said at the time Marc was not involved in the attack, which followed a performance at Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael.

Therefore, the suit claims, Simard "did not have reasonable and probable cause for believing the truth of such allegation and averment."

Mountanos charged the intent of the Simard suit was "to defame plaintiff's reputation, to injure him in his business, trade and occupation and to bring him into public disgrace."

The sheriff is claiming $500,000 each in general and punitive damages for himself, his wife and son.

The suit maintains Marc was libeled and defamed by Simard's allegation that the youth "had a propensity to commit said violent acts" and further suffered damage to his reputation when Simard told people Marc had been involved in the attack.

The sheriff claims he and his wife "were injured, disgraced and defamed by Simard's charge that they "failed and/or refused to exercise reasonable and ordinary cae, discipline and control to correct said propensity (to violence)."

Simard's suit charges the eight youths camed "violently assaulted, struck, attempted to rob and in fact did rob" Simard. The money taken, estimated at $500 to $600, was recovered at the time of the robbery.

Three of the youths named in the suit, Christopher Wooton, Gary Lyons and Guy Dixon, were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of the strong-armed robbery, but police said at the time they believed six other teen-agers were involved.

Both the Shakespeare Festival and the Marin Music Chest, which used the outdoor theater areas on the Dominican College grounds, were plagued last summer with vandalism, arson and burglaries as well as such harassment as firecracker throwing.

Bike, Horse Trails Added In Novato

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended amending the Novato area general plan to adopt routes for bicycle and horse trails.

The planning staff said the current plan calls for hiking and cycling trails along natural areas, but has shortcomings: doesn't differentiate between types of trails, doesn't have defined standards for construction or a program for implementing a trail system.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

HERITAGE TREE ORDINANCE — Continued its public hearing on the proposed heritage tree ordinance, which would require a use permit to alter or remove heritage trees on private property, pending a report from city Atty. Clark Palmer.

PINHEIRO PROPERTY — Set April 24 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on pre-zoning the Pineiro ranch property, 47.12 acres west of Highway 101 and north of the city boundary, now agricultural, to planned commerical and planned residential. Plans are under way to develop a shopping center and apartments on the land.

OPEN SPACE — Set May 8 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on the proposal by "people for parks and open space" to establish a regional park district to acquire open space.

Mozart Opera Highlights To Be Given By Guild

The Fine Arts Guild of San Francisco will present highlights of Mozart's opera, "Cosi Fan Tutte," Sunday at 5 p.m. at Community Congregational Church of Tiburon.

The performance will be a shortened version of the opera in English, and the second half of the program will be favorite arias chosen by the audience.

Natasha Kimmel of Tiburon will be among the young Bay Area singers to perform. She has appeared as soloist in the Carmel Bach festival, with the Miami Opera Company, St. Louis Symphony, and recently played a leading role in the San Francisco production of "Grpheus in the Underworld."

Other singers in the cast are La Julia Hill, Georgia Prugh, William Coburn, Michael McGinley and Nicholas Massenkoff.

Following the program, wine and cheese will be served while the audience visits with the singers.

A donation will be accepted at the door in lieu of admission charge.

Pair Sought For Tam Valley Robbery

Sheriff's deputies are looking for two men who robbed a Tamalpais Valley housewife of $130 at gunpoint Friday.

Deputies said the men who had nylon stockings over their heads entered the home of Polla G. Chase at 541 Shasta Way at 11:30 a.m. and forced her to give them money.

Men Lose In Free Fish Bid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's elderly males have lost a tussle over men's liberation.

The issue arose when the Assembly Natural Resources and Conservation Committee was considering the expansion of a free fishing license program for low-income elderly persons.

As proposed, the bill would give the free licenses to any woman over 62 and any man over 65 years of age who earns less than $300 per month, compared with the current $140 limit.

During a committee meeting Monday, Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, suggested that the age for men should be reduced to 62 to avoid discrimination on the basis of sex.

At first Assemblyman Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, agreed and offered an amendment to his bill, but he withdrew it when a spokesman for the Fish and Game Department said the move would greatly increase the cost of the bill.

After the tussle over men's lib, the bill was passed without dissent and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Leader Picked For Death Penalty Drive

John Hawkes, assistant Sonoma County District Attorney, has been named chairman of the Sonoma County drive to gather petition signatures to put the death penalty question on the November ballot.

Hawkes has received support from the Sonoma County Pace Officers association on the project. Persons interested in circulating petitions, he said, should write to the association at Post Office Box 11219, Santa Rosa.

Parents Group Fails To Widen Committee

The Mill Valley School Board last night stuck by its method of selecting a principal for old Mill School, despite opposition by some parents who thought the selection committee should represent a wider section of the district.

The board told a small group of parents that a similarly-composed committee worked well in picking the new principal for Mill Valley Middle School, according to Carroll D. Killingsworth, director of business services.

The parents objected that all community representatives on the committee except one lived in the old Mill School section of the school district. Because the district has a practice of rotating principals between schools every few years, community representation on the committee should be diversified, the group said.

Killingsworth said the committee, which is still working to select a principal, is composed of eight school district staff members and eight members of the community, with six more to be chosen.

The board, also at last night's meeting, voted to notify the developer of Madera Del Presidio, a 539 unit development in Mill Valley, set aside some land for possible use as a school site, but said the district has no present plans for a school in the area.

The Mill Valley School Board Also:

SCHOOL FUNDING — Heard Killingsworth report that several legislative plans are being developed which would increase minimum state financial support for each child — possibly to as high as $700-$800 per child — though none of the plans would take effect for at least a year.

BELL LANE — Postponed deeding a small portion of Bell Lane in front of Tamalpais Valley School to the county for road maintenance.

ACCESS ROAD — Postponed until next meeting a decision on an agreement with the Tamalpais community services district for use of an access road.

INSURANCE CLAIM — Accepted and referred to its insurance carrier a claim for $50,000 in general and an undetermined amount of medidal damages for Laura Hayward, a student at Edna Maguire School struck in the head with a rock thrown by a student last November 5.

MIDDLE SCHOOL — Heard reports that cracks in the cement slab at the new school were caused by shrinkage and the repair job, a minor one, is the responsibility of the contractor, that the completion date for the school is May 30 and the building is now 94 per cent finished.

STAFFING — Were told by Killingsworth that teacher-pupil ratio has tentatively been set to remain the same next year as this? slightly higher than 25 to 1.

WORKSHOP — Set Thursday at 7:30 p.m. for a workshop of parents of children at Edna Maguire School to discuss likes and dislikes about the school program.

GOALS AND GUIDELINES — Accepted the goals proposed by a committee set up to review the district's purpose. The goals included providing primary academic subjects, flexible grouping and individualized instruction.

AUDIT — Hired the firm of Sleezer and Eckhoff to audit the district's books next year.

San Rafael School Board Meeting Set

The San Rafael Board of Education, meeting today at 7:30 p.m., will be presented the 1972-73 budget proposed by Supt. John F. Plank.

Progress reports are also planned on plans for interdisciplinary "schools within schools" at San Rafael High School and Pacific Crest High School. The original proposal, by San Rafael High School teacher Walter Belden, called for 90 to 100 students and four teachers working four hours daily.

WHY PAY EXTRA FOR A CAR WHEN YOU GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY IN MARIN?

If you're tempted to buy a car in the City or East Bay, put on the brakes and consider: Marin dealers, with much lower overhead, pass you the saving. They're local, you're local. They want your business and will prove it to you both in price and service. Lower sales tax, too! More convenience, a better deal. Makes sense?

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

'Legalized' Bingo Plan Clears Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Despite objections by peace officers and district attorneys, legislation paving the way for legalization of nonprofit, charitable bingo games in California has cleared its final Assembly committee hurdle.

The proposed constitutional amendment, which would require approval by voters, and companion bill by Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, were sent to the Assembly floor Monday by the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The amendment was passed 6-0 and the bill 5-1.

Greene told the committee he had a list of 1,911 organizations that are currently playing bingo in the state, apparently in violation of the law but without prosecution.

He argued that his measure would legalize what is normal practice in the state.

Albert E. LeBas, representing the California Peace Officers and District Attorneys associations, said he realized there was a "double standard" in connection with bingo games.

But he said law officers do make arrests in connection with bingo games where a "hoodlum element" is involved. He said the groups were opposed to the legislation on grounds it would create "difficult if not impossible law enforcement problems."

The proposed amendment would permit cities and counties to authorize bingo games for charitable purposes. The bill would impose conditions on how the games were run.

The committee amended the bill to bar minors from participating in bingo games.

Greene said he might bring the measure up for Assembly consideration early next week.

TAX RELIEF

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has approved a proposed constitutional amendment allowing the state to provide direct property tax relief to homeowners based on their ability to pay the levy.

The measure by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, was sent to the Assembly floor Monday on a 5-0 vote by the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

TO PANEL

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Dr. Charles E. Brown of Los Angeles has been appointed to the state Health Care Commission by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

Brown, 47, a surgeon, is director of professional education at the Los Angeles County Martin Luther King Jr. General Hospital.

The 17-member panel, created by last year's legislature, makes recommendations concerning Medi-Cal operations. Brown's appointment was announced Monday.

TRIAL COURTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state's trial court system would be revamped under three measures passed by the Assembly Judiciary Committee in narrow votes.

A constitutional amendment and two related bills authored by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, would merge the present Municipal, Justice and Superior courts into a state superior court system.

The bills passed the Judiciary Committee Monday on a 6-4 vote and were sent to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Judges testifying before the Judiciary Committee were split over the major changes.

Jurists in favor of Hayes' proposals argued that the dignity of the Municipal and Justice court judges would be upgraded under the bills. They also said the changes would result in increased efficiency of the court system.

But several other judges, notably from the Los Angeles area, said the measures would create "an administrative monstrosity," eliminate the present lower court training grounds and force superior court judges to hear cases below their stature.

SCHOOL FUNDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $155.9 million bond issue to construct new University of California Medical School and Health Science facilities has been approved by the Senate and forwarded to the Assembly.

The issue, proposed by Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, would appear on the November ballot. If the voters approved it, a second bond issue totaling $138.1 million would be submitted to the voters in 1976.

The Senate approved the measure Monday 30-0.

GUARD PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Senate has passed and sent to the governor a $2 million bill to pay for 405 extra prison guards and technicians hired in a crash program to stem violence.

The measure, sponsored by Gov. Ronald Reagan, was voted final legislative approval 31-0 Monday when the Senate passed the bill by Assemblyman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles.

Reagan last year authorized the hiring of the extra prison personnel, 318 of them guards, on an emergency basis. The Ketchum bill augments the current state budget.

CONSERVATION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposed constitutional amendment called "The Conservation Bill of Rights" has cleared its initial legislative hurdle.

The Assembly Committee on Natural Resources and Conservation Monday passed the measure without dissent and sent it to the Constitutional Amendments Committee. The measure, authored by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, declares that "conservation and protection of the natural resources and scenic beauty" are policies of the state. It also directs the legislature to adopt measures to carry out the conservation.

SAFE POTTERY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An Assembly committee has given a strong endorsement to consumer protection legislation banning by 1974 the manufacture of unsafe ceramic tableware which could cause lead poisoning.

Assemblyman David Pierson, D-Inglewood, said it is "not generally recognized that an attractive, brightly colored piece of pottery found in thousands of households can be a deadly source of lead poisoning."

The Assembly Health Committee Monday approved the bill on a 6-0 vote and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee.

The bill would make it unlawful after Jan. 1, 1974, to manufacture or import for sale in California glazed ceramic tableware unless a certificate of acceptability has been obtained from the state Department of Public Health.

Ornamental pottery would be required to have a warning baked in which would state: "Caution! Do not use for the preparation of or as a contained of food or drink."

A similar bill by Pierson died last year in a Senate committee.

RENT SUBSIDY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has approved by the minimum vote necessary for passage legislation establishing a state-financed rent subsidy program for low-income persons.

The bill by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was sent to the Senate Monday on a 41-10 vote.

The measure would make state funds available to local housing authorities which would lease private housing for eligible persons on a rent-subsidy basis.

Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, an opponent of the measure, complained that it held out "false hopes" because it did not contain any money for the program.

Drug Charges For Two After Accident

Two persons were arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on charges of possession of dangerous drugs.

Visiting Judge Joseph Weber set bail at $1,250 for Benjamin A. Chaney, 28, of Petaluma, and at $625 for Mary E. Burns, 22, of El Monte. They were scheduled to enter pleas tomorrow. They were arrested Saturday after a minor traffic accident in Petaluma.

To Review Plans

The Larkspur Planning Commission, meeting tonight at 8 o'clock, will review architectural plans for three apartment developments 16 units planned for 615 and 635 South Eliseo Drive, six-units planned at 40 Locust Street and nine units at 875 South Eliseo Drive.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Springtime's Universal Tonic Is Available To Everybody

Most of us look forward to spring. It is a period when nature reawakens with all of its beauty and exuberance. This is especially true in areas that have definite seasonal variations. It means the end of a long winter and the beginning of warmth and sunshine. To people in these locales, sring brings the same stimulus that sends animals out of hibernation and pushes crocuses through the earth. Spring is a tonic so universal, it must be more than psychological in origin.

THE BEST things in life still are free and the majority are close at hand. This is why simple pleasures and activities should be cultivated. Most of us can go outdoors on our lunch break and on weekends. As you walk along, be an observer. People are interesting; speculate on what they do, whether they are happy or sad or rich or poor. Now and then, "cross the tracks" and see how the other half lives. Many lessons can be learned though observation.

Every city, regardless of size, has trees and plants that compete with the concrete pavements. Plan a weekend trip into the forest and enjoy the spring flowers. These little fellows do not last long, but they live during a lovely season. How many spring flowers can you name?

BIRDS ARE everywhere, even in the city. I've seen swifts, gulls, hawks, woodpeckers, and creepers outside my window on the walls of the Tribune Tower. A few bats also have paid us a visit. A change of pace is therapeutic for anxieties, unpleasant thoughts, anger, and frustration. The mood also gets a lift. Walking is good for the muscles and circulatory system. To cover more distance, rent or buy a bicycle.

Acquire more of these simple hobbies; they can't be taxed or affected by inflation.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

ALL EXERCISES ARE GOOD

J. V. writes: What exercises are best if the person wants to keep young looking?

REPLY

None in particular, because all forms of exercise keep us in trim, provided they are in keeping with our age. Other factors play a role in maintaining a youthful appearance. Among these are heredity, weight, posture, alertness, sleep, stress, diet, and habits. Over-exposure to the sun, for example, may leave the skin as wrinkled as a prune by age 40. Personal tragedy seems to age some people overnight, whereas others go down hill rapidly thru dissipation.

STOMACH ACID

A reader writes: Is it true that in stomach cancer there is no gastric juice?

REPLY

There is gastric juice, but no hydrochloric acid. Lack of this acid occurs also in other conditions, such as pernicious anemia, and in approximately 10 per cent of the healthy population.

FIRMING THE TUMMY

R. I. writes: What can be done to help lack of muscle tone of the abdominal wall?

REPLY

Muscle tissue is elastic and can be somewhat likened to rubber bands. When overstretched, muscles lose their tone and tend to sag. Exercise is most helpful.

U.S., Soviet, Others Renounce Germ War

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and 77 other countries yesterday signed a treaty renouncing the use of biological weapons.

President Nixon said it should be the first step toward eliminating the threat of war.

With Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin looking on, Nixon said in a ceremony at the State Department that not only should signers renounce force, but should not encourage other nations to use force against their neighbors.

Some observers felt Nixon's remarks were directed at the Soviet Union, which the administration has accused of encouraging the current North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

A total of 74 nations were represented in the International Conference Room at the State Department. The remaining six nations were represented at various other ceremonies in other world capitals.

Conspicuously absent, however, was France, which has also refused to sign the nuclear test ban treaty. China also was not present at any of the ceremonies, but it was uncertain whether China would eventually sign the treaty.

The agreement was signed for the United States by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Ambassador James F. Leonard.

In December, the United Nations General Assembly endorsed the treaty 110 to 0 with one abstention.

Following the ceremonly, Nixon said, "each nation of the world must renounce the use of force and aggression against other nations." He added that "every great power should recognize it has the responsibility not to encourage others in the use of force against their neighbors."

Dobrynin, who spoke prior to Nixon, called the convention "the first concrete step on the road to practical disarmament." He said Nixon's presence at the ceremony "shows wide support for this convention which mitigates the possibility of war."

The convention prohibits the development, production and stockpiling of biological and toxic weapons and provides for the destruction of existing stocks.

The biological weapons convention is the first international agreement since World War II to provide for the elimination of an existing class of weapons.

The pact covers both biological agents which could be used in germ warfare and toxins — or poisons —which can be produced through a biological or microbiological process. And the agreement calls on all parties who sign it to destroy whatever stockpiles of such weapons they now have and to pledge never to transfer them to other countries.

State Department officials said they were not sure how many nations would join in today's mass signing, but estimates ranged as high as 80.

The pact will be in addition to the 1925 Geneva Protocol which prohibited the use of poisonous gas or bacteriological weapons in warfare. There are 98 countries which have signed the 1925 pact, including China, the Warsaw Pact nations, Japan and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The United States never has agreed to the 1925 pact, but Nixon resubmitted it to the Senate in the summer of 1970. And on Nov. 25, 1969, Nixon renounced all methods of bacteriologccal warfare and the 'Pentagon began destroying its reserves of those weapons.

California Officially In Dry Year

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Water Resources Department yesterday officially classified 1972 as one of the driest years in California history and forecast that many major storage reservoirs will not fill.

The department reported, however, that although it will be tight, the major water projects "will satisfy their normal water commitments this year."

The department's important April bulletin on water conditions for the summer and fall months confirmed the essence of a forecast last month by Deputy Director John Teerink that California would squeak through without statewide water rationing.

"Based on the runoff records of the last 65 years, current forecasts rank as the eighth most dire for the Sacramento Valley," the bulletin said. "The San Joaquin Valley runoff forecasts for the April through July period ranks 1972 the fifth driest since 1900."

"This places 1972 just above the dry year of 1961," the report said.

"Reservoir storage is adequate in the major storage projects," it said. "However, with below normal inflows forecasted, many will not fill this year."

"Major water distribution systems such as the Colorado River Aqueduct, Central Valley Project and the State Water Project will satisfy all their normal water commitments this year," it concluded.

Measurements of the mountain snow pack revealed that the "early melt off is occurring and almost all snow courses have lost water during March. Many are already bare, especially in the southern Sierra. In the Tule and Kern River watersheds, the Apgil 1 snow water content is the lowest in 42 years."

The department said that runoff forecasts now range from 89 per cent of normal for the Pit River in Northern California to 23 per cent normal for the Kern River in the San Joaquin Valley.

Bike Thieves, Meet The Rally Rack

By RALPH CHATOIAN

With the bicycle boom loudly thundering throughout the land, two Mill Valley men have come up with a way for people to keep the bikes away from thieves.

It's called a Rally Rack.

David A. Kesselman and Philip C. Lieb, partners of Rally Enterprises, have begun marketing the racks in the Bay Area. The rack itself can be bolted to cement, the bicycle then locked into the rack, both frame and wheels.

The two men come from corporate backgrounds. Kesselman was with Levi Strauss International, Crown Zellerbach, and studied at New York University graduate school of business administration. Lieb was with Computer Sciences Corporation, Hughes Aircraft and holds a master's degree in operations research from University of California, Berkeley. Each man is 31.

"WE BOTH just got tired of the corporate business," said Kesselman, "and wanted to get into our own business." Since both men were bicycle riders and realized the craze was sweeping the country, they decided to get into some kind of business involving bicycles.

Kesselman used a bike as a principal means of transportation during a trip in Europe and "I had a 21-pound bike and 15-pound chain to lock it with." Smaller chains can be snipped with bolt cutters, he explained.

THERE ARE a lot of bicycles roaming the land these days, and a lot of bicycle rustlers who look for those 10-speed beauties. According to the figures I've seen, there are 73 million American bike riders and manufacturers are forecasting U.S. sales of 10 million this year, a million more than last year.

And as sales soar, thefts rise just as drastically. In California, more than 400,000 bicycles were stolen last year. I have a nephew in Sacramento who actually brings his 10-speed bike into his house, to keep it away from thieves. Too many bikes have been stolen from garages and he's not taking any chances.

"We've shown the racks to police and they're all impressed with it," said Lieb.

THE RACKS weigh 30 pounds and although appearing simple enough in appearance, will make it very tough for the rustlers. Cost is $125, with sales expected at schools, shopping centers, apartment complexes, theaters and parks, plus private home use.

The rack works off a key, coin, or combination lock and employs a special alloy locking bar for the bicycle frame. The bike is slipped into the rack and then locked into place.

"We're getting an enthusiastic early response," said Kesselman, who added that the marketing is being confined to the Bay Area in the days of the product's infancy before they try to sell it across the nation. The Rally Racks are being manufactured in Palo Alto.

THE MEN have already begun national marketing of Rally Ski Bags, nylon-oxford covers to protect skis that are mounted on top of cars during trips to the snow.

Now they have hopes of national sales of their bicycle racks. Gentlemen, start your pedals.

Warriors Select Forwards

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors reached from North Carolina to Santa Barbara for their top two picks in the National Basketball Association.

After 16 teams had selected 44 players, the Warriors took 66 forward Bill Chamberlain of North Carolina in the third round Monday. They didn't have any selections in the first two rounds because of picking up Cyril Baptiste in the hardship draft last summer and trading their second round pick for Jim Barnett.

Chamberlain, who took a back seat to junior Robert McAdoo on the North Carolina squad last season, was described as very mobile. He averaged 13.5 points and six rebounds per game. Chamberlain also has been drafted by Carolina of the American Basketball Association.

John Tschogl, another 6-6 forward, was the Warriors pick in the fourth round. He was a mainstay for UC Santa Barbara last season.

In the fifth round, the Warriors dipped into the Pacific-8 Conference for 6-2 guard Charles Dudley of Washington. Golden State then drafted Henry Bacon of Louisville, Bill Franklin of Purdue, Johnny Burks of the University of San Francisco and Bill Duwe of California before passing on the 10th round.

Players Reject End Strike Bid; Baseball Could Suffer: Finley

Snag Over Game Pay Forfeitures

NEW YORK (UPI) —Negotiations between the major league clubowners and players appeared today to be stymied by a new issue which executive director Marvin Miller of the Players Association called "a terrible, terrible road block."

The issue was a stipulation by the clubowners that the players forfeit their pay for the days they struck while agreeing to make up the games postponed during the 11-day strike and play a 162-game schedule.

The stipulation was contained in an offer by John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the clubowners, "to use $400,000 of the gains now on deposit in the fund for additional pension benefits."

The offer was flatly rejected Monday night by Miller, appearing on the ABC network TV program Monday Night Sports. Miller said, "the owners are asking the players to work overtime for nothing ... I think it is incredible."

Asked whether the new issue could be resolved, Miller replied: "I don't see how it can. I do not see any early solution. This iron-clad provision that the players will work overtime for no pay is incredible."

National League President Charles Feeney, appearing on the same program moments after Miller made his statement, said, however, "we are very close in the pension area .. I hope this strike can be resolved tomorrow."

Gaherin made the pension fund offer late Monday after meeting with Miller and federal mediator J. Curtis Counts in Washington early in the morning. Optimism caused by a telephone call by President Nixon to Counts Saturday night, expressing hope for an early settlement, proved unfounded.

Gaherin followed up the announcement of the new offer with the statement, "the condition is that the players will not be paid for the days they have not played thus far this season.

"Further," Gaherin added, "that the clubs will try to make up most of the cancelled games so as to complete a 162-game schedule and the players will be expected to participate in that schedule within the framework of the basic agreement."

Miller and Ghaerin expressed gratitude for the intervention of Counts, with whom they met for two hours, but agreed that little progress in the talks developed from the meeting.

"I am very glad Mr. Counts has agreed to offer his help in the talks," said Miller. "But I can't say the talks moved us any closer to a settlement."

Gaherin added that he was "always hopeful" of ending any labor dispute but offered little

MISS LONG SETS GOAL ON NBA

WHITTEN, Iowa (UPI — Denise Long, 21, the most prolific scorer in the history of Iowa High School Girls' basketball, said Monday she wants to enter the National Basketball Association's $15,000 one-on-one contest.

"I'm perfectly serious about entering," said Miss Long, who averaged 69 points per game during her senior year for Union-Whitten High School.

A's Boss Blames Owners, Players

NEW YORK (UPI) —Charles Finley, predicting that the baseball strike would come to an end today or tomorrow, nevertheless feels that the game could suffer ill effects for several years.

Explaining that his losses as owner of the Oakland Athletics already were nearing the quarter-million dollar mark, Finley said it may be five years before he'd know his total loss. He attributed this to possible reaction from fans and broadcast sponsors.

"I hope sports in general will wake up and realize the fans owe us nothing," Finley said. "As a matter of fact, the fans can get along quite well without us. Baseball has lost some prestige and I don't think it will encourage people to come swarming into the ballparks."

As for the strike, Finley said Monday night, "I expect we'll settle it tomorrow, but it could have been settled earlier if we had had a joint meeting."

Then, referring to the pension plan, which touched off the strike 11 days ago, Finley said: "The average fan is a working man. He sees players with only four years service in the major leagues drawing benefits at the age of 45. A man can enter the majors at age 20, retire at 30, work at another job and then be eligible for two pensions. Then, at 65, he'll also collect tax free social security.

"The fans see all of this and think the ballplayers are greedy. But they're not greedy and I hope the fans don't take it out on the players."

Finley said that "all parties are at fault" in the strike, and was quick to point out the owners' guilt.

"The players were asking for too much and the owners had been offering too little," Finley said. "The owners were not brought up to date on the pension plan before the strike, only after, and then only for 45 minutes."

The white-haired owner confessed, "I must admit I was one of the owners at the Chicago meeting that was adamant and standing pat. I was standing pat only because I had not presented with the facts before the meeting. Shortly thereafter I consulted with several top insurance actuaries in Chicago and also had two conversations with John Abel (a Philadelphia actuary). As a result, I realize that a fair compromise could be made."

Finley, an insurance executive for 30 years, said the true facts were shaded from the owners.

"John Abel presented a complete written report of the pension plan to the owners in Chicago last week," he said. "Forty-five minutes later the two league presidents picked them up and confiscated them.

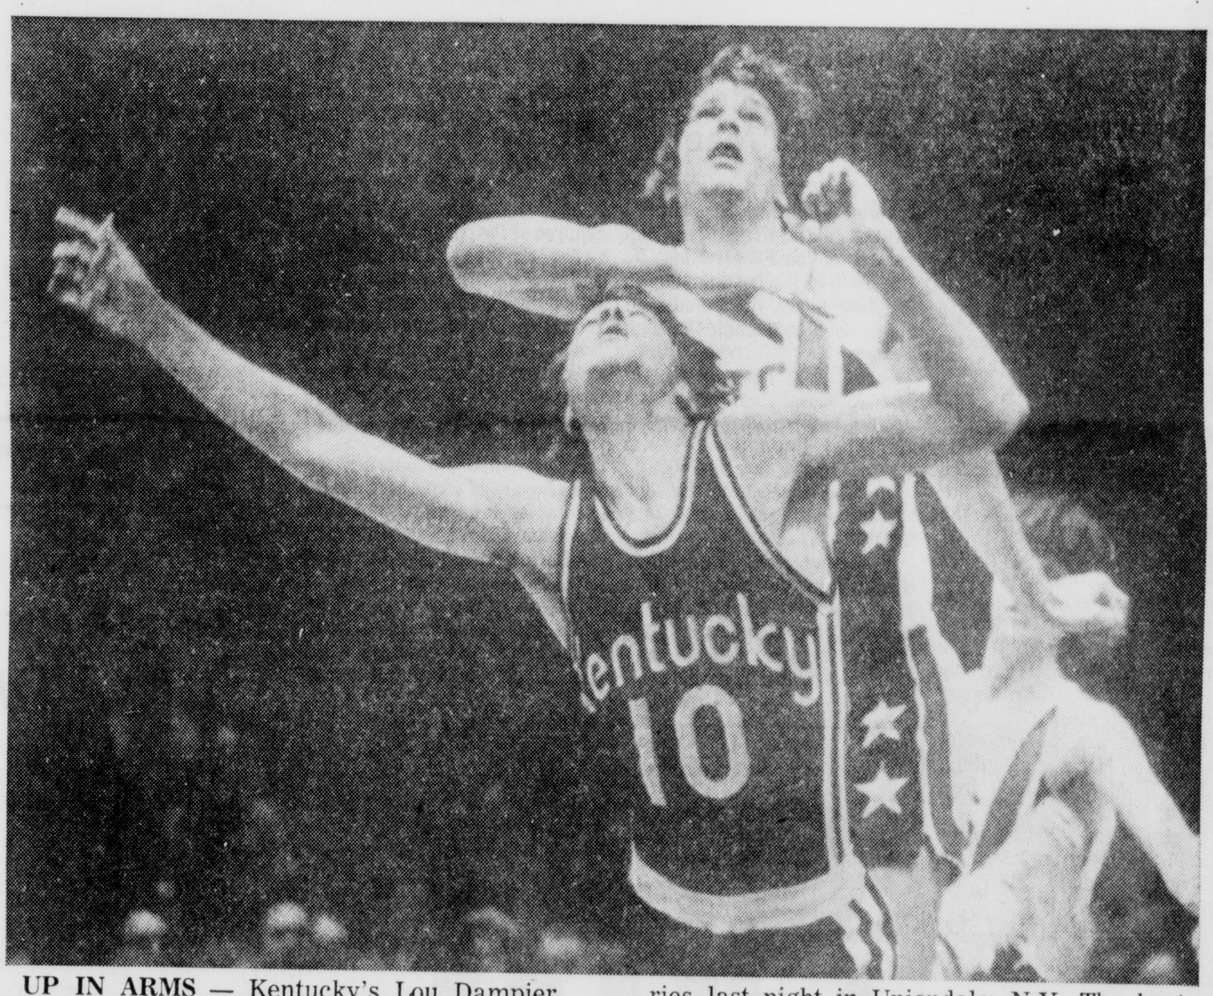
Kentucky Eliminated By ABA Nets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI)— Rookie John Roche scored 32 points and Billy Paultz held 7-foot star Artis Gilmore scoreless from the field in the fourth quarter Monday night as the New York Nets defeated the Kentucky Colonels 101-96 and clinched their American Basketball Association quarterfinal playoff series four games to two.

The Nets will open their semifinal playoff at Virginia Thursday night. The second game of the best-of-seven series also will beat Virginia Sat urday.

The Nets seemed on their way to an easy win as they stretched a 56-48 halftime lead to 64-53 early in the third quarter. However, Nets star Rick Barry picked up his fifth personal foul at that point and Kentucky managed to close within 80-76 going into the final quarter.

However, Roche's scoring and Paultz' defense kept the Nets in front the rest of the way. Roche tallied nine of his points in the final 12 minutes of play and Paultz managed to blank Gilmore.



UP IN ARMS — Kentucky's Lou Dampier and New York Net Billy Paultz prepared for a rebound during the sixth game of the American Basketball Association playoff series last night in Uniondale, N.Y. The host New Yorkers won the game, 101-96, and the series, four games to two.

Frazier Blasts Ali, Maps Plans

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Joe Frazier expects to defend his heavyweight boxing title at least two or three times more this year against promising new fighters —a move he contends sets him above Muhammad Ali, who is fighting "nothing but reruns."

Frazier's next challenger is Ron Stander, a burley former Council Bluffs, Iowa butcher who will seek the heavyweight crown May 25 in Nebraska's first title match in history.

Stander was training for the soon to be sellout fight in Boston under veteran Johnny Dunn when Frazier arrived in Omaha Monday for a quick tour prior to returning to his Philadelphia fight headquarters.

In addition to Stander, nicknamed the "Bluffs Butcher", Frazier said he expects "two or three" more fights this year, preferring to give promising newcomers to the ring a shot at the crown.

Frazier denied that Stander, who holds a 23-1-1 record, including 15 knockouts, will be a pushover.

2 NHL Teams Seek Clincher

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Boston and New York need victories on home ice tonight to wrap up their respective quarterfinal series in the Stanley Cup playoffs and join the Chicago Black Hawks in the semis.

The Bruins overcame a 4-2 deficit Sunday night to edge the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 and the Rangers' after blowing a 4-2 lead, rallied for a 6-4 decision over the Montreal Canadiens.

This gave both Boston and New York 3-1 leads in their best-of-seven sets, and both clubs will have the advantage of home ice tonight in their bids to wrap it up.

Minnesota and St. Louis start all over, meanwhile, with their series deadlocked at two games each after the Blues won a pair of weekend games on their home ice. The fifth game tonight will be at Minnesota.

Chicago became the first team to gain the semifinals when it completed a four-game sweep of Pittsburgh with a 6-5 overtime victory against the Penguins Sunday night. The Black Hawks will meet the survivor of the New York-Montreal series in the next round.

Frank "King" Clancy, while taking a side jab at the Bruins, admitted that they were in mighty good position to wipe out his Toronto team tonight.

"It doesn't look as though the season will last much longer for us," said the 69-year-old substitute coach. But he then said the Bruins aren't "as good as they think they are ... They get lucky and I suppose the good teams always look lucky ... But I know they're not that good."

The Rangers were hurting and seemed demoralized Sunday night after allowing Montreal to tie the score at 4-4 early in the third period. Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert both were playing with injuries, Ron Stewart was in the dressing room with a rib injury suffered earlier in the game and Walt Tkaczuk was banished for being the third man in a fight between linemate Bill Fairbairn and Montreal's Marc Tardiff.

But Pete Stemkowski, the hero of last year's triple overtime victory over Chicago, then stole the puck from Canadien defenseman J.C. Tremblay and scored the goal then turned around the entire complexion of the game and the series.

"He's a real money player," Ranger Coach Emile Francis said in praise of Stemkowski. "He smells out those big goals."

Jacques Caron was the St. Louis goalie in both victories over the North Stars, allowing only three goals, and gave the Blues a tremendous lift.

But defenseman Barclay Plager, who recieved credit for Sunday's winning goal, expressed the problem still facing the Blues by saying, "We've still got to win one on their ice to win the series."

Baseball Change

Marin Catholic High School's baseball game with Terra Linda, originally scheduled for Saturday, April 22, has been changed to Friday, April 21, at 4 p.m. at Albert Park, Marin Catholic athletic director and baseball coach Gary Hughes announced yesterday.

Prep Of Week: Frey

By LEW CODDINGTON

The various Marin County Athletic League baseball coaches, distraught over a possible seven-team race, have enough problems already to give them more than their quota of sleepless nights.

So maybe nobody should tell them about Gene Frey and his extra pitch. They'll find out soon enough, anyway.

Frey, who pitches for Redwood High School, informed the world Saturday night that he has developed a slider. He struck out 12 San Marin Mustangs that evening and came within one out of pitching a no-hitter. His performance capped a week in which he pitched 14 innings and allowed no earned runs, and earned him Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors.

"The slider is my best pitch," said Frey. "I've had it for three days."

It's a grim thought for opposing batters. Without the slider, Frey last year compiled a 4-1 record as a sophomore and was named honorable mention all-league. With the pitch still in the tinkering stage, he pitched a seven-inning no-hitter against Hoover High of Fresno March

NCAA TALK:

Financial Aid For Athletes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— Legislation directed toward financial aid of college athletes can be expected at next January's National Collegiate Athletic Association Convention.

That position was reaffirmed Monday by NCAA executive director Walter Byers, who reported on the NCAA Council's meetings here.

The Council voted to continue its support of four areas of financial aid legislation and to sponsor legislation at the Chicago convention.

The four areas supported by the Council:

1. Aid based on financial need.
2. Limitation on financial aid by sports.
3. A candidates' declaration program, an extension of the current letter-of-intent.
4. Limitation of financial aid to one-year grants.

Athletic grants based on financial need is the one consideration that is certain to stir a storm of controversy. Many major college football coaches alraady are on record as being violently opposed to such a program.

The Council will meet again Aug. 16-18 at a site to be named later to consider the financial aid legislation once more.

The Council also approved what will be a substantial change in the machinery of the NCAA's enforcement program. If passed at the convention, the Committee on Infractions will become a judicial body rather than just a fact-finding body. The committee will be empowered to impose penalties, which now is one of the functions of the Council.

The Council proposed that the committee be increased from itu present three members to five.

The Council also took strides to extend its enforcement program into the realm of ethics. Byers said the NCAA had been "unaggressive" in the enforcement of ethical standards in the past. He said the Council's attitude was affected by several incidents during the past basketball season, including the Minnesota-Ohio State fiasco.

In the future, penalties from a private reprimand to a showcause procedure may be enforced against coaches and athletes because of unethical displays. Byers said the extreme would be the suspension or dismissal of a coach and the loss of eligibility by an athlete.

Redwood In Golf Title Run

Redwood High School thrust itself into the thick of the Marin County Athletic League title race in golf yesterday by solidly trouncing defending champion Terra Linda, 206-220, in a season-opening match at the Meadow Club near Fairfax.

While that match was being played on the front nine, San Marin was annihilating Marin Catholic on the back nine, 214-270.

"I knew we'd play well, but we didn't expect to beat them that bad," said Redwood coach Bob Sargent after his troops stunned Terra Linda.

Jeb Harrison shot a two-over par 38 to take medalist honors for Redwood. Scott Huber and Steve Harris each shot 40 to give the Giants three men with scores below Terra Linda's best, a 41 by Greg Cudworth.

John Hayes and Joe Guth each shot 41 for San Marin, as did Colin Smith for Marin Catholic.

The results:

Redwood 206, Terra Linda 220 at Meadow Club

Redwood — Jeb Harrison (medalist) 38, Scott Huber 40, Steve Harris 40, Arnold Brooks 44, Blake Andros 44.

Terra Linda — Greg Cudworth 41, Rich Purdle 44, Kai Bergheer 44, Doug Talley 45, Larry Cartmill 46.

San Marin 214, Marin Catholic 270 at Meadow Club

San Marin v John Hayes (co-medalist) 41, Joe Guth (co-medalist) 41, Stan Vaughn 42, Tom Poksay 44, Mike Stublarec 46.

Marin Catholic — Colin Smith (co-medalist) 41, Mike Maley 52, Dave Nightingale 54, Roderick Chapman 60, Jim Kinn 63.

Marin Sportsmen Will Miss 'Barse'

By AL GIDDINGS

Sad news for the local sportsmen of Marin County. Roy "Barse" Barsuglia, 51, of San Rafael who was well known to us all, became suddenly ill a few weeks ago. He had probably never been to a doctor in his life. He died last Friday. Barse, usually seen driving his big green hunting truck, will be missed by all of us. He was a good humored, quiet, very nice guy.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game today recommended 25 special anterless and either-sex deer hunts with 12,200 permits for the 1972-73 season.

"In all cases where we recommend hunts," said DFG director Ray Arnett, "the quotas could be taken without harm to the herds and are aimed at bringing the herds into closer balance with the habitat. Generally, the department has recommended hunts only where they are supported by the sportsmen concerned."

Arnett said that the DFG will greatly expand emphasis on habitat improvement favorable to deer and other wildlife through projects on state-owned ranges and cooperative efforts with federal and private landholders.

THE DFG ALSO recommended a rocky mountain elk hunt in Shasta and Siskiyou counties with 200 permits, and an antelope hunt in Modoc and Lassen Counties with 380 permits.

Last year the DFG proposed 25 special hunts with 11,575 permits. The California Fish and Game Commission, after conducting local hearings on proposed hunts, authorized 22 hunts with 11,150 permits. A total of 2,756 deer were reported taken by hunters.

The DFG said forage production on California deer ranges, except for the southern part of the state where growth was negligible because of the lack of rain, was normal to good last year.

However, the statement said, although many of the deer ranges have shown an annual increase in forage production, the long-ter trend is downward.

ACCORDING TO DFG Big Game Coordinator Wallace Macgregor, reduction in deer range continues because of urban development, subdivision, spraying of sagebrush, highway construction, conversion of wild lands for agriculture and reservoir construction.

"Throughout the state," Macgregor said, "large blocks of land are becoming less productive due to the maturation of browse plants which produce less nutritious and palatable forage."

In addition, because of improved fire suppression techniques, he said, second growth timber is now reaching maturity and crowding out browse plants.

All these factors have generally caused a reduction in both the quantity and quality of deer ranges in the state," Macgregor said.

IN ADDITION to DFG projects aimed at improving deer habitat, Macgregor pointed to the short-term range benefits that will be derived from some of the wildfires that burned about 380,000 acres of range in southern California during 1970.

Macgregor said the fires resulted in the opening of dense stands of overmature browse. The DFG provided emergency funds to help reseed burned areas in San Diego, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Monterey and Kern counties.

WARDEN RUSS ILD checked Bon Tempe and Lagunitas lakes Friday where anglers had approximately 45 limits, all nice fish in good shape. At Nicasio Lake, Sgt. Richard Conley of Novato, Army Recruiter for Marin County, took five largemouth black bass to 5½ pounds.

Swimmers Return To Classes

The seven Marin County young swimmers who were competing last week in the National Amateur Athletic Union championships in Dallas, Tex., are back to normal in their classrooms, today, with memories of competing against the best.

Top performance, of course, came from Olympic hopeful Rick DeMont, 15-year-old sensation from Terra Linda. He placed third in the 1,650-yard freestyle and sixth in the 500 free events. He was the only swimmer in the Marin County contingent to place.

Following are the times for each of the Marin competitors:

Rick DeMont — 1,650 free, 15:36.0; 500 free, 4:34.5.

Denise Ham — 100 butterfly, 1:02.0; 200 butterfly, 2:13.8; 200 individual medley, 2:15.5; 200 breaststroke, 2:33.3.

Jo Hislop — 200 free, 1:57.4; 500 free, 5:16.1; 1,650 free, 18:07.

Sue Secondo — 200 breast, 2:33.5.

Maura Campion — 500 free, 5:17.4.

Paul Cane — 100 breast, 1:02.8.

Cookie Arrighi — 100 back, 1:02.5.

Guidet Barely Misses Record In Track Meet

Al Guidet of Petaluma, 53, missed equaling his United States 50-and-over age-group record for the 100-yard dash by one-tenth of a second Sunday in a senior men's track and field meet held at Tamalpais High School.

Guidet won his specialty in 11.2 seconds. There were two double winners in the meet — Jim Lingle won the 220 (24.2 seconds) and the 440 (55.4), while Chet Steele won the shot put (33 feet) and discus (113 feet).

Also victorious were Bob Glasgow in the under-50 100-yard dash (10.9), Dave Brown in the 880 (2:08.0), Dennis Teagarden in the mile (4:59.0), and Don Rose in the high jump (5-7¾).

and Claude Terry of Stanford—went in the third round. The Knicks drafted Truitt while Phoenix picked up Terry. Other third-round picks were Eric McWilliams of Long Beach (Houston) and USC's Ron Riley (Cincinnati).

Meanwhile, the National Basketball Association, taking advantage of one of the thinnest crops of college basketball talent in recent years, has set the stage for a real shootout with the rival American Basketball Association.

The NBA conducted its annual draft of college seniors Monday and shocked everyone by drafting two established ABA stars and another player who has already signed an ABA contract on its first round of selections.

The Buffalo Braves started the fireworks by choosing 6-foot- 9 forward Robert McAdoo of North Carolina as the No. 2 choice in the draft. This was done less than five minutes after NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy had notified all 17 teams that McAdoo had signed a contract with the Virginia Squires of the ABA.

The Chicago Bulls and the Milwaukee Bucks, however, pulled the real stunners of the first round when they respectively chose Ralph Simpson and Julius Erving, two of the ABA's superstars. Simpson plays for the Denver Rockets and Erving with the Virginia Squires.

LaRue Martin, a 6-10 center from Loyola of Chicago, turned out to be the No. 1 pick as expected. Martin was taken by the Portland Trail Blazers, who have problems at center.

The only other center taken in the first round was 6-10 Tom Riker of South Carolina, who was selected by the New York Knicks.

Redwood Pitcher Frey Works 'Slider' Into Game

27, only to lose on two hits in eight innings, 2-0.

"What stands out about Gene Frey is his attention to detail," said coach Al Endriss. "He is very careful about things like his grip on the ball, or his hip action. He can locate quickly the reasons why he can't get the ball over, on those occasions when he's having trouble.

"In addition, he has great natural gifts. He's a big kid, he's strong, and he can throw hard. I've had a lot of kids who have had gifts like that, who tried just to get by on their ability. But Frey is a worker. He has great desire."

At 6-foot-4 and 200 pounds, Frey is big, especially for a junior. His fast ball is hard ("when he's 'on' he can throw it by the majority of high-school batters," says Endriss) but its main asset is that "when it's moving, it's hard to hit," in Frey's words.

"Baseball is my sport — I play it the year round," says Gene. "The hardest thing to learn about pitching was developing the right form. I relied mainly on my fast ball before the slider."

GENE FREY
Talented pitcher

Frey played basketball in junior high and football as a freshman, but abandoned those sports for baseball. "I don't like the real hard contact sports," he said.

Frey would like to play professional baseball, but plans to go to college first. "I don't have any in mind yet. I'll wait and see if there are any baseball scholarship offers," he says.

He says he would major in English in college. "It's my favorite subject now," he says. "In junior high, this friend and I even tried to write a book." He stopped and smiled slightly. "We junked it about three-quarters of the way through."

Frey also flies control line model airplanes, and his ambitions soar in the field of aviation. "At one time I was thinking of enrolling in the Air Force Academy," he said. "Also, I might try to get a regular civilian pilot's license — my dad and I have discussed this."

Another possibility is that Frey will become a policeman. "Probably highway patrol," he said. "My dad is an ambulance driver and I've gotten to know a lot of police officers through him."

Frey already is a policeman, in a sense, as a member of the Marin Youth Umpires Association. "We get five dollars a game for doing Little League games," he said. "It's given me more respect for umpires and the pressures they face."

When Frey is on the mound, the pressures are minimal. The umps spend a good deal of their time simply counting to three and saying, "Out!"

Campaign To Block TV Game Blackouts Hits Los Angeles

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Miami attorney Ellis Rubin is seeking to spread his public campaign against television blackouts to Southern California.

Rubin appeared before a news conference here Monday to enlist support of his drive which began in Miami when he sought vainly to enjoin the National Football League from blacking out the Super Bowl there.

With Los Angeles scheduled to host the 1973 Super Bowl, Rubin said he was starting a movement against the game being blacked out.

hope that a settlement is imminent.

Miller, the 24 player representatives and their alternates, were scheduled to meet in New York today while Gaherin was scheduled to report back to the owners.

Daniel Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, insisted that retroactive pay to the players "will never happen" but Charles Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics, said he was in favor of paying.

"Retroactive pay will never happen," said Galbreath. "It's morally wrong. We will not justify it."

"Pay 'em," said Finley. "Were going to lose anyway you look at it. Both sides are going to lose. There's no way to go back and pickup those dates we lost but in order to get this thing settled we should pay them. Why split hairs?"

Finley estimated the strike has already cost him $250,000 and added, "the full cost to baseball probably won't be known for another five years because of possible reaction from fans and broadcast sponsors."

Petaluma Falls To Montgomery In League Track

Petaluma High School made up a rain-cancelled North Bay League track and field meet with Montgomery of Santa Rosa yesterday, but the Trojans could have used another rainout as they were beaten, 81-53.

The loss dropped the Trojans' NBL mark to 0-2 and left them 2-3 for the season.

THE KIENTZ FAMILY

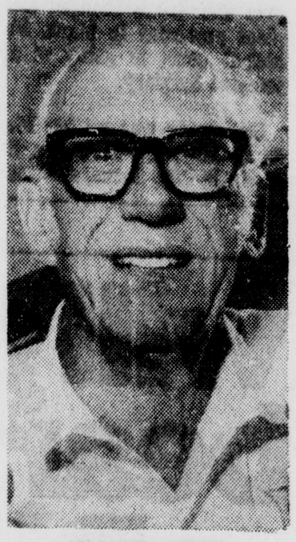
3rd-Generation Bakery —50th Year In Marin

The bakery that brought pre-sliced bread into Marin County homes for the first time, more than 40 years ago, is celebrating its 50th anniversary.

Kientz Pastry Shop at 625 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, has been in the same location and in the same family ownership for three generations since April 1, 1922, when the late Louis Kientz first set up shop.

It was called San Anselmo Bakery and was across the street from where Gunning's Hobbies is now located. In 1925 Kientz built the present structure.

In 1935, son August Kientz and his wife Alice took over the bakery under its present name, Kientz Pastry Shop. The store has had several face-liftings since then, but the name and location have remained unchanged.



AUGUST KIENTZ
Starts 51st Year

August was 15 when he first went to work in his father's bakery, and has worked continuously there for 50 years. At age 64 (he will be 65 in June), he still devotes full time to the business.

"We were the first retail bakery delivering house to house in the county," Kientz recalled. "And we were the first ones who slice bread in the area." Machine slicing of bread had started in Los Angeles and Sacramento, but had not been introduced in the Bay Area.

Kientz' father went to Sacramento to study the process, came back to Marin and on Feb. 14, 1931, proudly announced in the San Rafael Independent:

"Sliced bread now offered. New product of the San Anselmo Bakery, manufacturers of 'Marin Maid' bread. Ten cents a loaf."

Fifteen years ago, Richard Kientz, the third generation of the bakery family, joined his father in the business and is now president of the company.

Kientz Pastry is planning an open house and birthday cake on Saturday to celebrate the golden anniversary and the beginning of its second half-century in business.

Higher Rates Par For The Week

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Higher rates paid to savers and by borrowers characterized this past week, Crocker Bank said Friday in its money market review.

Short term rates continued to move higher and, in response, most banks raised the rates paid on certificates of deposit by roughly ¼ of 1 per cent. In addition most banks acknowledged the rising rates and the higher cost of funds by adopting a 5 per cent prime commercial loan rate.

Bond prices continued their downward drift, the likely result of spotty investor interest.

At week's end, Crocker Bank said, prices had stabilized so that corporates were down ½ to ¾ of a point, and municipal issues were down about 10 basis points.

Because calendars of new issues are not excessively large, the bank termed the current price markdown "overdone" and expects a rebound from these low prices.

Stock Exchanges Are Made Easier

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Four of the state's biggest banks and the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange have announced a move to simplify the processing of securities transactions.

Samuel B. Stewart, senior vice chairman of the Bank of America, and Thomas P. Phelan, PCSE president, said Monday the banks signed a memorandum of understanding to deposit stock certificates they hold into a West Coast depository facility.

The facility, they said, would be part of a national depository system to immobilize stock certificates.

The other banks are United California, Wells Fargo and Security Pacific National.

Stocks Turn Mixed With Active Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks turned to a mixed pattern during the first two hours today after being lower at the outset. Trading was fairly active.

Advancing issues led declines, 685 to 540, among the 1,601 crossing the tape. The two -hour volume amounted to more than 6,700,000 shares.

After surging to three-year highs last week, the market continues to reflect strength, according to many analysts. Some profit taking which set in Monday was to be expected, they said.

Some attributed Monday's softness to concern over the war in Vietnam. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said additional air and naval forces would be sent there. But the market's concern over such developments did not appear great.

In the Exchange, prices were slightly higher in fairly active trading. Phoenix Steel was the most active issue, up ¾ at 5 on 37,700 shares.

Great Western Income Rise In '72

LOS ANGELSE (BW) — Net income of Great Western Financial Corp. for the three months ended March 31, before extraordinary items, amounted to $7.91 million or 53 cents per share.

Comparable earnings in the first quarter of 1971 were $6.1 million, or 41 cents a share, company spokesmen said.

Bank Of California Income Dip

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California yesterday reported first quarter income before security losses of $861,000, or 29 cents per share, a 60 per cent decrease from $2.21 million, or 73 cents per share, earned in the first quarter of 1971.

Bank chairman Charles De Bretteville said net income after security losses for 1972's first uarter was $829,000 as compared with $2.19 million for the same period a year ago.

In his report De Bretteville attributed lower earnings to narrow margins imposed by falling loan rates and a still relatively high cost of funds, coupled with increases in operating costs.

"This has been the situation with most major banks this quarter and as a consequence many are expected to report, as we are, a decline for the period," De Bretteville said.

He also said 1971 was "a record year of expansion" and the cost impact of fourth quarter activity had been reflected in first quarter operating expenses during 1972.

"Despite these conditions the bank continues to enjoy good volumes with total deposits as of March 31 of $1.86 billion, an increase of 13 per cent from $1.64 billion in the first quarter of 1971," he said.

Loans and discounts were $1.34 billion, an increase of 27 per cent over the $1.05 billion reported a year ago.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Growth Is Accelerating For First National City

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please comment on First National City Corp. stock. I have a large capital gain and hesitate to sell. However the 3 per cent current yield is not satisfactory. — A.F.

A. Now operating as a bank holding company, NYSE-listed Citibank has moved up about 10 points since the first of the year. Higher than expected final quarter earnings were responsible in part for the strong market performance. A step-up in earnings growth from the five-year compound average of 7 per cent to a target of 15 per cent annually was surpassed in 1970 and 1971.

Consumer lending, foreign operations and nonbanking subsidiaries were important contributors to that achievement. With earnings in a strong uptrend it is safe to assume that dividend payments will be liberalized again this year.

If a larger return is vital you might be wise to sell a portion of your shares, banking proceeds for use in supplementing the modest dividend. Partial sale also would reduce the impact of the capital gains tax. Shares have above-average potential over the next 12 to 18 months and should be held otherwise.

Q. I am interested in Baird Atomic (OTC). What is your view on this speculative stock? — T.R.

A. Shares are attractive for individuals willing and able to assume risk. In the field of sophisticated "seeing" medical instruments, Baird is without peers. The autofluoroscope manufactured by Baird allows a physician to "see" an organ.

This scintillation camera device is linked to a computer which stores the diagnostic information gathered. An Imager unit capable of three-dimensional definition of organs also has been developed.

Another system recently brought out by Baird allows rapid inspection of luggage in instances of airplane bomb threats. Less glamorous "bread and butter' product lines have been in good demand.

In fiscal 1971 company made progress, pushing sales up 14 per cent and reducing its deficit to 24 cents a share. In the December quarter, first of the current fiscal year, a 5 cents a share profit was reported. Shares have attractive potential for risk accounts.

Sonoma Gives Up Right To PG&E Parcel

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Sonoma County supervisors have relinquished their right to buy land owned by the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. at Bodega Head which may be acquired by the state for a park.

PG&E purchased the 269-acre site in 1960 and 1962 but has advised the State Parks and Recreation Department it is willing to sell since environmentalists have objected to its plans there for a nuclear power plant.

By a resolution, the supervisors gave up the right granted them in 1970 to first refusal of the right to purchase the land.

Both the commission and the legislature would have to approve the acquisition of the land.

Security Losses Reported By Bank

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — The Bank of California has reported first quarter income before security losses of $861,000, or 29 cents per share, a 60 per cent decrease from $2,212,000, or 73 cents per share, earned in the first quarter of 1971, according to bank chairman Charles De Bretteville. Net income after security losses for the first quarter of 1972 was $829,000 as compared with $2,190,000 for the same period a year ago.

Good April Market For 1972 Seen

BABSON PARK, Mass. — "April 1951 was a good month for common stock investors, and looking back through Wall Street history, one finds precedent for a good April market again this year," reported Roger E. Spear, president of Spear and Staff, Inc., investment advisors.

"The trend over the past two decades reveals that in five out of six of the last election years, prices tended to average higher during April," he said. "This year looks like it should be no exception."

Spear credits the primary influence for the April spurt to anticipated first quarter reports.

For example, Spear said his research department has already reviewed five companies which are programmed on their COM-STAT service. "The average earnings gain over the first quarter of 1971 was 31.8 per cent," he said.

Voter Sampling Backs Added Taxes For Open Space Lands

According to a poll of 9,802 of Marin's 95,292 registered voters, there is willingness to pay additional taxes for purchase of open space in the county.

People for Parks and Open Space — a group pushing for a countywide regional park district — said that 73 per cent of the 9,802 persons who responded to its four-question survey favored such taxes.

Of those responding, 74.1 per cent were homeowners, the group said. Respondents were stopped in shopping centers throughout the county.

The four questions posed in the survey were:

"What use do you think should be made of the Marin ridgelands and undeveloped waterfront areas? (Pick one or more of the following — residential, park-open space, industrial-commercial, or no opinion.)

"Given the opportunity, would you vote for or against the creation of a regional district in Marin County to purchase land in the ridgelands and waterfront areas to be held as open space. (Possible answers — for, against, no opinion.)

"If such a district is created, it could increase the property taxes for a $35,000 house by $8.75 per year. Given this additional information, would you vote for or against the creation of such a district? (Answers — for, against, no opinion.)

"What maximum would you be willing to pay each year per family in taxes to support such a district? (Answers — nothing, $10, $20, $30, $40, $50, more, and no opinion.)

Pollsters also asked respondents' home towns, voting status and if they were homeowners.

"To make the survey most meaningful," the group said, "the information was programmed to assume anyone who felt residential or commercial uses were best suited to Marin's ridgelands and shoreline would be against a regional district to purchase open space.

"It was further assumed people with no opinions on the best use of the land would have no opinion on the creation of a district," they said.

In results, tabulated by Fair-Isaac and Co. of San Rafael, 84.6 per cent favored open space as the best use, 74.2 per cen said they would vote for a district to buy the land, and 64.9 per cent said they would pay the additional tax.

The group said of those willing to pay the taxes, 52.6 per cent were unwilling to pay much more than the anticipated 10-cent tax as a maximum, 12.7 per cent said they would pay up to $40 and 16.4 per cent said they would pay $50 or more. No opinion was voiced by 18.3 per cent.

Santa Rosa Man Killed On Highway

A 65-year-old Santa Rosa man was killed yesterday in a collision at 3:31 p.m. with a tractor-trailer truck on Highway 101, south of Railroad Avenue, Cotati.

Amos Henry Branstetter was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol said Branstetter was northbound in a pickup truck when a tractor trailer rig driven by Harry N. Holgersen, 31, of Eureka, attempted to pass him. Officers said the front of the trailer struck the rear of the pickup truck, spun out of control and pushed it up an embankment.

Charles Cowdrey, 63, of Graton, a passenger in the pickup truck was reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with head and face cuts, a broken left arm and a broken right leg.

Youth Injured In Shoreline Accident

A San Jose youth, hurt when his car ran off Shoreline Highway near the entrance to Marina Cove, was treated at Marin General Hospital for concussion, according to a hospital spokesman.

William R. Cornelius, 16, was trying to pass another car Sunday and ran off the road about 11:30 a.m., according to the California Highway Patrol.

Alan Waterman Dies Of Accident Injuries

Alan E. Waterman, 21, of Petaluma, who was injured in a motorcycle accident Sunday, died yesterday at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco.

Waterman, a Navy petty officer third class, suffered severe head injuries when he was thrown from his motorcycle on Petaluma Boulevard North near Gossage Avenue, Petaluma.

He was born in Reno, Nev. and came to California as a child. Waterman had lived in Petaluma for 15 years and was a graduate of Petaluma Senior High School and attended Santa Rosa Junior College.

Waterman had been in the Navy for two years and was stationed at Le Moore Naval Air Station near Fresno. He lived at 36 Greylawn Avenue.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Waterman and a brother, Dennis Waterman, all of Petaluma.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Robert Elton Yates of Walnut Creek has pleaded innocent to two counts of burglary. A preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court was set for April 25.

Yates was arrested after two articles taken in two burglaries in San Rafael March 2 were pawned at the San Rafael Loan Co.

The case of codefendant Mario E. Colacci was transferred to Juvenile Hall last month.

Three Switch Pleas To Guilty

Three men arrested Nov. 29 outside a Tamalpais Valley restaurant with nylon stockings over their heads changed their pleas yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to guilty of attempted burglary.

Sentencing was set for May 22 for Larry David Adams, 22, of Marin City, Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of San Francisco, and Keith James Jackson, 19, of San Rafael.

In exchange for the plea, charges of conspiring to steal lodged against all three, possessing stolen property against Adams, and possessing marijuana against Stringer and Jackson were dropped.

The three were arrested by sheriff's deputies who said the men were behind La Camembert restaurant shortly after midnight.

RAIN RUNOFF — A storm that dropped half an inch of rain on much of Marin added its weight of water to create a miniature Niagara where the Corte Madera Creek project ends near the Ross Post Office. Catching the attention of an unidentified youngster was the beaver-like dam of debris just above the manmade cofferdam. The extra water in the creek was an echo of what many hope may be a generous addition to Marin's low reservoirs.

Planners Seek More Improvement Outlay

County Tax Rate Hike Said Possible Solution

The Marin County Planning Commission, reviewing the county's long-range capital improvement program, recommended yesterday that more money be pumped into the program — now estimated at $37.5 million. (Other planning commission stories, page 7.)

"We contend that a growing, active community cannot adequately provide for its capital improvement needs with the restraints and assumptions of the proposed program," the commission said.

It said the 5-per-cent annual increase in the six-year budget forecast would probably not cover the increases in construction and land costs.

While not setting a figure, the commission said the board of supervisors should consider increasing the county tax rate to provide for a more ambitious program divided into road projects and other major expenditures such as parks.

"A bond issue for special purposes could raise more funds in less time," it added. "It would be a test to see if the ambitious plans for the future will actually be supported by the residents of Marin County."

The proposed six-year budget is broken into two sections: The road improvement fund at $17.9 million and the general improvement fund at $19.6 million.

Under the road improvement fund, about $2.9 million is proposed to be spend during fiscal 1972-73. About half that amount is for major road projects and the remainder for maintenance and administration.

The general improvements projects proposed for the coming year total about $2 million, of which $300,000 is slated for an open space acquisition fund.

In its review of the improvements program, proposed by County Administrator John F. Barrows, the commission made three major proposals.

The first calls on the county to increase the proposed allocation for open space from $300,000 to "at least double."

"Considering the importance of this program for the land use planning in the entire county, and the strong public support which appears to be forming, we recommend that the annual allocation be at least double," it said.

Its second proposal deals with $1.4 million slated for Civic Center landscaping and parking during the last three years (1975-1975) of the program.

Under Barrows's recommendation, a proposed 500-car parking building may be constructed as well as tightening up of existing parking spaces and use of shuttle buses.

The planning commission recommended, however, that the county investigate a "parking district" at the civic center to finance construction of the parking building.

"The financing of the parking building should be partly or entirely financed through parking fees," it said. "Employees should be charged for parking their cars ... This would be a fair solution if an efficient intra-county transit system is in existence at that time."

The commission's final major proposal calls for supervisors to reconsider earlier plans to route the Miller Avenue extension near Mill Valley through a vacant marsh.

The extension, bogged down for years, is currently being considered for routing along the existing right-of-way through Dolan's Corner.

Another Hit At Dry Spell

Following by less than a week a rainstorm that broke Marin and Southern Sonoma County's spring dry spell, another storm dumped varying amounts up to more than a half an inch of rain last night and this morning on the area.

The forecast calls for 30 per cent chance of rain tonight and 60 per cent tomorrow.

It is too early to tell what effect this second storm will have on Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs, said J. Detrich Stroeh, district engineer.

"The reservoirs today are at the same level as yesterday, but during rainfall, the consumption drops. We should be able to tell how much runoff we get from this storm by tomorrow and I hope it will be a good report," he said.

The North Marin County Water District also reported that the rain had no appreciable effect on raising the level of water in Stafford Dam. The district, however, will not face a water shortage because it has an adequate supply from the Russian River.

At noon today, San Rafael reported .84 inches of rainfall, making the year's total 17.93 or approximately half the normal rainfall.

At least eight cars were involved in three separate accidents during a heavy squall at 9 a.m. in the northbound lanes of Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill.

Northbound traffic was not slowed by the rear-front end accidents as they pulled off to the side of the road. However, southbound lanes became clogged as drivers slowed down to look at the accidents.

Rainfall reported elsewhere in the county was .31 inch at Belvedere at 7 a.m. Other amounts at 8 a.m. were: Tamalpais Valley, .60; Tiburon, .58; Mill Valley, .57; Novato, .45; and Bolinas, .41 and Woodacre .52.

Major U.S. Fire Base Near Hue Under Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—Fresh North Vietnamese troops moving in from the A Shau Valley have launched five assaults on Fire Base Bastogne 10 miles southwest of Hue in a threat to the city and the northernmost American base in South Vietnam, field dispatches said today.

The five attacks carried out under heavy mortar fire were repulsed with the loss of 126 Communists left hanging on the barbed wire defenses. But the United States rushed 400 American combat troops and artillery battery to Phu Cai, 10 miles east of Bastogne, the reports said.

Phu Bai, itself only 10 miles south of Hue and 50 miles north of Da Nang, is the most northern American base left in South Vietnam. UPI Correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from Phu Bai today that there were 1,800 American in troops there now and that they would begin what the army called a "dynamic defense"—aggressive patrols.

South Vietnam reported a series of major victories in Quang Tri Province to the north with the death of nearly 500 Communists in a series of sharp firefights and heavy bombings by B52s and American fighter-bombers, but the major threat now appeared to be toward Hue, the old imperial capital.

Field reports said the North Vietnamese had thrown 2,500 troops into the assault on Bastogne Tuesday night and today, that there were a total of 7,500 Communist troops in the area and that Bastogne was ringed with Communist antiaircraft batteries, making resupply difficult.

The North Vietnamese overran Fire Base Anne, 18 miles southwest of Hue, last week and only two bases stand between them and Hue— Bastogne and Birmingham, a few miles to the east.

UPI Correspondent Kim Willenson reported from Da Nang that officers there said a full wing of three squadrons of Marine jet fighters was expected from California to join other squadrons flown in from Tokyo, building up the air strength at Da Nang to the highest point in many months.

The buildup coincided with field reports from the Central Highlands 280 miles north of Saigon telling of shelling attacks during the night against virtually every Allied base in Kontum Province and speculation by officers in the field that the Communists may launch a long-expected offensive there at any time. So far ground fighting has been sporadic.

U.S. Maj. Gen. James F. Hollingsworth, senior military adviser in the 11 province area surrounding Saigon, reported the Communist thrust down Highway 13 toward Saigon had been halted. He said the North Vietnamese were on the run and that his objective was to kill them before they can escape to Cambodia.

Despite Hollingsworth's optimistic statements, a force of 500 Communists hit an airborne government spearhead inching up Highway 13 about 20 miles below An Loc, and the troops dug in at the side of the road for the night, the advance at a halt for the time being.

New and heavy fighting was reported in the Central Highlands.

REGISTERING DEADLINE IS THURSDAY

Deadline for those who must register in order to vote June 6 in the primary election is 9 p.m. Thursday, the Marin County elections office reminded would-be voters today.

Those who have changed their address or name and those who failed to vote in the last general election must register to be eligible.

The elections office in the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center will be open till 5 p.m. tomorrow and Thursday to accept registration. In addition, a registration desk will be set up in the lobby of the Civic Center's administration wing and will be open till 9 o'clock both evenings.

Balloting Starts Out Light

Approximately 10 per cent of the 48,246 eligible voters in Marin had ventured out into the rain by 11 a.m. today to cast their ballots in the county's municipal elections.

In Southern Sonoma, voting was reported as generally slow in both Cotati and Rohnert Park.

At the two polling places in Cotati, 53 of the 500 possible voters had cast ballots at Cotati School and 51 out of 600 at the Cotati Veterans Memorial Building.

In Rohnert Park's three polling places, 83 out of 950 had cast ballots at Rohnert Park Junior High School; 90 out of 850 at John Reed School; and 79 out of 800 at Waldo Rohnert School

Polling sites, however, remain open until 7 p.m. and a rush of voters was anticipated when voters return from work.

A survey of sample precincts throughout Marin County revealed:

City Hall in Fairfax reported 115 voters out of 921 eligible.

San Anselmo City Hall recorded only 49 voters out of 719.

Greenbrae School reported 78 voters out of 700.

Mill Valley City Hall reported 92 out of 952.

Peter Meyer, Marin County elections officer, said, "The rains will put a slight damper

Narcotics Case Pair Found Dead

The bodies of a young man and woman, due to testify in court today in a narcotics case, were found yesterday in their San Rafael motel room, victims of what police speculate may have been an overdose of drugs.

The bodies of Shirley Jean Fabian, 27, and her common-law husband, Stephen Michael Weeks, 24, were discovered yesterday by Donald Midyett, a district attorney's investigator who had gone to the motel at 1600 Lincoln Avenue to advise the pair to be in court that day as witnesses in a case.

An autopsy had not been completed this morning, but it was thought death was due to an overdose of narcotics, police said.

Mrs. Fabian was to testify on an assault charge stemming from a case about a year ago in

Adm. Moorer Reportedly Says North Viet Thrust Contained

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reported today that the North Vietnamese thrust into South Vietnam has been contained, according to congressmen who attended a closed hearing.

As fresh North Vietnamese troops moved into the battle, posing a threat to Hue and the northernmost U.S. firebase at Phu Bai, there was no elaboration either from congressmen who heard him or from the Pentagon on Moorer's assessment of the situation.

"He told us that the invasion had been contained," said one representative following a two-hour meeting. "I would say he was guardedly optimistic."

The admiral briefed members of the House Armed Services Committee on the military options still open to the United States in the event the current level of U.S. support for the South Vietnamese did not prove adequate.

Those alternatives, according to one lawmaker present, would include bombing deeper into North Vietnam and hitting at targets such as Haiphong Harbor.

Another possibility mentioned by the congressmen, who declined to say whether Moorer brought it up, was a South Vietnamese commando raid on the North.

Finally, it was said that the United States could step up in intensity and quantity the air and firepower support it was now providing.

Moorer apparently left the clear impression that one option not being considered was reintroducing U.S. combat ground combat troops to South Vietnam, sources said.

The Pentagon described as "obviously in error" reports that American ground troops were being readied for movement from U.S. bases to Vietnam.

Defense Department Spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim made the denial yesterday after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had described the dispatch of additional U.S. air and naval forces to Southeast Asia as "insurance"

Hanoi Warns U.S. On Any New Troop Plans

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam said today that if American ground troops were ordered into the South Vietnamese fighting again, the move would be met with determined resistance by Hanoi.

Nguyen Minh Vy, Hanoi's deputy peace negotiator, told a news conference, "If U.S. ground troops are again engaged in fighting it will be a new step in American aggression and we are determined to crush it."

Vy called on the Nixon administration to reopen the suspended Paris peace conference in spite of the fighting and U.S. bombing. It was the fifth Communist demand to reopen the talks.

He indicated Hanoi's readiness to resume the talks even if the U.S. air raids on his country go on.

"We demand that the United States stop its bombing and resume the regular Paris peace talks sessions," Vy said.

A South Vietnamese delegation spokesman immediately brushed aside the call for resumption of the talks while the Communist offensive is under way.

"As long as the Hanoi leaders continue to seek a military victory as a solution to the conflict and to put pressure on the Paris talks to win compliance with their absurd and unreasonable demands, it's the South Vietnamese people's sacred duty to defend their country by all means," the spokesman said.

Carrier Leaves

More Tremors In Iran During Rescue Efforts

TEHERAN (UPI)—Army rescue teams worked around the clock Tuesday, digging victims of Monday's devastating earthquake from the rubble of their homes, as another 1,000 minor tremors rocked southern Iran.

The official news agency Pars said 4,000 persons died in the quake in the province of Fars, 610 miles south of the capital. However, Pars added, "This report still is not officially confirmed."

One thousand tremors of varying intensity have been recorded in Fars Province since the major shock reduced most of the villages in the area to heaps of debris, a spokesman for the University of Teheran Geographics Department said.

The initial shock razed 45 of the 60 villages and measured 7.0 on the 10-point Richter Scale. It was the most severe earthquake of the past decade, the university spokesman said.

In the village of Ghir alone, 963 persons were killed.

Rescue squads carefully probed the wreckage of adobe dwellings with hand shovels and picks, sometime guided by the cries of victims buried beneath.

Each new tremor brought the risk of fresh landslides and hampered the arrival of rescue equipment, medical supplies and teams of relief workers.

Premier Amir-Abbas Hoveida gave top priority to the clearing and repairing of roads approaching the disaster area.

Repeated earth shocks—an average one every 90 seconds—caused panic among survivors fleeing demolished villages. Most of them pitched tents on surrounding plains scarred by wide fissures.

Soldiers Die Herding Irish From Bombs

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Two British soldiers trying to herd rock-throwing youngsters away from a suspected bomb site were killed Monday night when the explosives went off, the army said. The Irish Republican Army (IRA) promptly claimed responsibility for the killings.

Right-wing Protestants, angered by the soldiers' deaths, criticized British government efforts toqconciliate Roman Catholics and demanded the army invade areas held by the outlawed IRA.

ASKS REMOVAL

The militant Protestant Ulster Vanguard, led by former Home Affairs Minister William Craig, urged Secretary of State for Northern Ireland William Whitelaw to remove the barricades erected by the IRA around certain areas off-limits to British troops. The so-called "no go" areas are avoided by troops for fear of prompting street-fighting that would lead to more deaths in the violence-wracked province.

CLAIMS CREDIT

The IRA claimed credit for the bombing deaths of the two soldiers, which raised to 301 the number of persons killed in almost three years of escalating violence in Northern Ireland.

The victims of Monday night's Londonderry blast were Lance Bombardier Eric Blackburn, 24, and Bombardier Brian Thomasson, 21, commander and second-in-command of a patrol rushed to the Bowling Green Pavilion in the Roman Catholic Rosemount district after an anonymous telephone caller warned that a bomb had been planted there.

BOMB FOUND

The patrol found the bomb and, while waiting for explosives experts to arrive to attempt dismantling it, dispersed gangs of rock-throwing "young hooligans," an army spokesman said.

"They got rid of the youths once and moved behind safe cover," the army spokesman said. "But the youths started throwing rocks again. Blackburn and Thomasson moved out into the open to warn them off. The blast caught them before they could regain cover. They gave their lives saving those young hooligans."

The blast deaths raised to 304 the number of persons killed in almost three years of escalating violence in Northern Ireland.

The Londonderry command of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) official wing claimed responsibility for the bombing.

Fire On Gypsies

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — Unidentified gunmen opened fire with shotguns and rifles on a gypsy camp near Kent late Monday night, but none of the 30 men, women and children seated around a campfire was injured.

"The shots were falling like rain," said one of the migrants, who had been camping about three miles south of Kent since last week.

The gypsies told Portage County sheriff's deputies they were sitting around a campfire when the shooting started. "We put out the lights and yelled to everyone to get under the trailer," one of the group said.

To Run Again

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Rev. Andrew Young, onetime key aide to the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., announced Monday night that he will again be a candidate to represent Atlanta in Congress.

His election would mark the first time the deep South has had a black congressman since reconstruction.

Young, who won the Democratic nomination to Congress two years ago only to barely lose to incumbent Republican Fletcher Thompson in the general election, appears to have a better chance this time.

Culture Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union signed a two-year cultural agreement today that calls for more exchanges of musical dance groups despite protests against Soviet performers in America.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Bean and A. A. Smirnov, a deputy foreign minister, signed the agreement in a ceremony in Moscow's ornate Spiridonovsky Palace.

Beam praised the "long and distinguished record" of Soviet-American cultural agreements, which have existed since 1958.

Dogs Kill Woman

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Three pedigreed boxers worth thousands of dollars, apparently roused by the smell of blood from a cut, attacked a woman yesterday, killing and partially eating her as she fought back in a bloody struggle.

The dogs were docile again when police arrived, and allowed the officers to pet them.

The dead woman was identified by police as Mrs. Josefine N. Waters, 63, whose body was found in the backyard of her home, where she kept eight pedigreed show dogs. Police said they were told by dog handlers the boxer pack was worth about $40,000

Apollo Physicals

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Doctors give Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke and Thomas K. Mattingly their final major physical examination today — with the emphasis on their hearts — before their Sunday launch toward the moon.

A team of physicians led by Dr. Charles K. Lapinta planned to spend the entire morning giving the astronauts a thorough checkup to make sure they are in perfect health for the 12-day mission to explore a highlands area of the moon.

The last time Mattingly went through the big "minus five-day" exam — for Apollo 13 in April, 1970 — he passed with flying colors only to learn two days later he had a potential case of German measles and had to give up his seat.

LBJ Improves

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, continuing to improve from his second heart attack, sat up in bed Monday and read telegrams from well-wishers.

Dr. Richard S. Crampton, chief of the coronary care unit at the University of Virginia hospital, said Johnson, 63, spent some time with his wife, Lady Bird, and his daughter, Linda, and "continues to show improvement."

SALT Session

HELSINKI (UPI) — Negotiators for the United States and the Soviet Union met for 80 minutes at the Soviet Embassy today for the 118th session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

The U.S. delegation led by Chief negotiator Gerard C. Smith came as scheduled to the meeting with his Soviet counterpart, Vladimir S. Semenov at 11 a.m. local time. The session lasting until 12:20 p.m. was the shortest SALT meeting so far in Helsinki.

Podgorny In Ankara

ANKARA (UPI) — Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny arrived in Ankara today for a six-day state visit to emphasize the new friendly links between Moscow and Turkey which fought each other for centuries.

Connally Warns Tax Preparers

CHICAGO (UPI)—Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said Monday a spot check of income tax returns prepared for taxpayers by tax services showed 97 per cent were fradulently prepared.

Connally told the 50th annual National Association of Broadcasters Convention that a check of 400 returns in the Southeast prepared by persons other than the taxpayers showed an "incredible performance...a rather amazing statistic."

"We will check hundreds, thousands, perhaps even millions of tax returns that we had not anticipated checking on the basis of this survey," Connally said.

"Is this symtomatic of what is happening in this country?" he asked. "Obviously this requires action and we are going to take it."

Connally said most of the fraud turned up was on "very minor" items. For example, Connally said one woman who gave birth to a child Jan. 3 moved the date back to December to obtain a deduction for the previous year.

"Forty indictments have been handed down as a result of the investigation we made (in the Southeast)," he said.

Connally also said it was an "oversimplification" to attribute the Wisconsin primary showings last week of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Alabama Gov. George Wallace to voter dissatisfaction with taxes.

Connally, a Democrat, told the broadcasters that he "had no tricks that will solve the nation's economic problems," but promised that President Nixon's economic program is going to work "because there is no alternative to it."

Although meat prices hit a 20-year high in February, Connally said "it would be a mistake" for the federal government to try to control food prices. Raw foods were exempted from the President's wage and price freeze.

Connally said meat prices would fall because the price of corn about to be fed to cattle is down. He did not say how much meat prices would fall.

Nixon Says Information Is Keystone

CHICAGO (UPI)—President Nixon has urged broadcasters to be mindful that the keystone of the American broadcasting system is the public's right to be informed.

In a message read at a session of the first full day of the National Association of Broadcasters convention Monday, Nixon said that in the United States "broadcasting combines private enterprise wth public interest" and that the government had a 'real but limited" role in the regulation of broadcasting.

Though some quarters "have expressed wonder at the differences of opinion between the media and the government," Nixon said, "such interplay is part of our American system" and indicates "that radio and television, as well as government are robust."

The President said the profit factor and public service go hand in hand in broadcasting. The better a station performs its public function, he said, the better chance it stands to improve profits and profits enable stations to better perform their public function by enabling them to absorb the costs of expensive public affairs programming and in depth news analysis.

FDA Accepts Food Maker Unque Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unprecedented food industry plea for more federal regulation has been accepted by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in an attempt to prevent incidents such as last summer's discovery of a botulism-causing toxin in canned soup.

"Had this program been in effect last summer there would have been no Bon Vivant incident," Dr. Ira L. Somers, president of the National Canners Association (NCA), told a news conference Monday.

One man died last summer after eating Bon Vivant Vichyssoisse containing botulin —a deadly germ that can grow in foods improperly sterilized after canning.

A month later, botulin was discovered in a can of Campbell's soup, but no injuries resulted. Somers said the regulation probably would have prevented the Campbell's contamination too.

The NCA proposed the regulations to the FDA in November. FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said Monday that the rules would be formally adopted within two weeks. They require canners to clear their processing methods with the FDA, open processing files to FDA inspectors and train key personnel at FDA-approved schools.

The FDA could close any cannery failing to meet the standards. At present, FDA inspectors are rarely allowed to check cannery files and processors are not required to register with the FDA, much less clear their processing methods.

Referring to the Bon Vivant and Campbell's incidents, Edwards said the FDA learned last year that "neither the small nor the large food companies were free of problems in food safety."

Meat Profiteering Denied By Food Chain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A food chain spokesman today denied that retailers have profiteered at the expense of farmers and consumers by widening their meat profits.

Retail meat prices have already dropped and should be "very favorable" for consumers through July, said Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains. He was called to tell the retailers' side of the meat price story today at a House subcommittee investigation of beef prices.

Some farm spokesmen at the opening session of the inquiry Monday said retail prices — which turned down in many stores about April 1 —earlier had been boosted by more than was needed to keep pace with last winter's increase in cattle prices.

Adamy told UPI that when all figures are posted, the average gain in 1972 food prices compared to 1971 levels will be smaller than the gain in all consumer items, and smaller than last year's 2.7 per cent gain in food prices.

The Agriculture Department has predicted that 1972 retail food prices (excluding restaurant tabs) will be up 4 per cent over last year.

"They can be wrong. They've made mistakes every year for the past seven years," Adamy said.

Adamy conceded that food chains were slow in cutting retail beef prices after farm and wholesale prices began declining in February; but he contended this expansion of the farm-to-retail margin was only a partial catch-up for a squeeze food chains suffered because they were slow to raise retail prices last year when farm-wholesale prices began moving up.

"We took a beating on the up side," Adamy said. Overall, chains suffered a slight net loss in their margins from last fall through March, he added.

The retailer spokesman said he expected "very favorable" meat prices for consumers in coming months because increasing supplies of beef and poultry will more than offset smaller pork supplies.

The increase in beef prices earlier this year was a "supply situation", Adamy added.

The House subcommittee hearing Adamy and other farm and industry witnesses opened its sessions Monday but will suspend them Wednesday when the Price Commission opens its hearings on the same subject. On Thursday, the House panel headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., will hear administration and consumer witnesses including Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser.

Musk Oxen In Peking Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Milton and Matilda are safely ensconced in their new home in Peking.

That was the word received Monday by San Francisco Zoo Director Ronald Reuther.

Milton and Matilda are musk oxen given by President Nixon to the Chinese in a goodwill exchange for two giant pandas. The oxen had been residents of the zoo here.

Reuther said he received a cablegram from Dr. Theodore Reed of the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., who accompanied the oxen to China.

The oxen were flown out of Travis Air Force Base last waek, and the two pandas will go to the National Zoo.

Arbor Day Observed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Richard Nixon observed the 100th anniversary of Arbor Day by planting a 12-foot fern leaf beech tree from Nebraska City, Neb., on the White House lawn.

Pacifist Ship Phoenix Readies For Convention

By JAY GOODWIN

The Phoenix — a pacifist ship that has sailed the globe since 1958 — is being readied for another voyage for peace.

This time, the 50-foot ketch will spend the summer leapfrogging from port to port along the Pacific coast on its way to the Republican National Convention in San Diego. There, crew members hope to deliver a Quaker message of concern to President Nixon.

As in the past, the Phoenix will be skippered by Dr. Earle Reynolds, a pacifist Quaker whose worldwide travels rival those of Marco Polo.

Along with a 10-man crew, Reynolds will sail up to Sacramento, turn around and head south for the Bay Area.

For the first two weeks of July, the Phoenix will pull in at ports at Sausalito, San Rafael, Berkeley, Alameda, Redwood City, and San Francisco. At each, the Phoenix will serve as a focal point for local speeches, demonstrations and films against continuing American involvement in Southeast Asia.

"The purpose of our voyage is quite simple," said Reynolds. "But that doesn't mean it isn't important. We want to present the concerns of all Quakers to President Nixon and remind Americans that the war is still going on."

From the Bay Area, the ship will sail to Santa Cruz, Monterey, Morro Bay and Santa Barbara. After two weeks in the Los Angeles area, it's on to San Diego.

According to Reynolds, several peace groups, including the San Diego Convention Coalition, an umbrella organization for groups planning to demonstrate in San Diego, already have expressed interest in the voyage of the Phoenix.

He has not spoken to the White House about his plans and is uncertain about the reception his group is likely to receive.

"I'll keep an open mind until I hear from the president," said the 62-year-old skipper, a former Ohioan.

Coordinating the activities surrounding the Phoenix while it docks in the Bay Area will be Phillip Drath, a San Rafael building contractor who ran for Congress unsuccessfully as a "peace" candidate in 1966 and 1968.

Drath and Reynolds took out a few moments recently to explain their commitment to Quaker pacifism.

"I often ask myself, 'If we don't do this, what else can we do?'" said Drath. "Anything that may have a small effect in changing people's minds is worth doing."

Reynolds agreed that peace is a difficult goal to strive for, but added, "It's one grain of sand that starts a landslide. If everyone said that their small contribution didn't matter, where would we be?"

PEACE VOYAGER — Dr. Earle Reynolds, skipper of the Phoenix, a ketch that wanders the globe for peace, examines a memento obtained on a 1967 voyage to North Vietnam — a straw "helmet" worn by citizens during bombing raids. Reynolds was in Marin to publicize a new mission — to the Republican National Convention in San Diego.

Reynolds has engaged in symbolic gestures since 1958. In that year he steered his boat into the hydrogen bomb test zone in Eniwetok to protest the U.S. policy toward nuclear testing.

Three years later he was barred from docking in the Soviet Union when he showed up to protest the nuclear testing of that country.

In 1967, Reynolds, his wife, Auie Drath and a small crew sailed into Haiphong harbor in North Vietnam to deliver $10,000 worth of medical supplies to the people of North Vietnam.

The following year he made the first of two unsuccessful attempts to enter mainland China. Sailing from a Japanese port, he was arrested by the Japanese in international waters because his wife had not been granted permission to enter China.

Reynolds, charging he was arrested illegally, brought suit against the Japanese government for violation of international law. After a lengthy trial in Japan, his wife was acquitted and the court admitted that the arrest had been made illegally, said Reynolds.

Reynolds became convinced that the U.S. government was not particularly concerned with his welfare.

"The United States' interest in ships siezed on the high seas depends on which vessels we're talking about," he said bitterly. "If it's the Pueblo, that's one thing; if it's the Phoenix, that's another thing."

One year after the Japanese had stopped him, the irrepressible skipper was headed for China again.

This time, the Chinese naval patrol halted the Phoenix. For four days he was moored in Shanghai harbor with a Chinese patrol boat tied up alongside.

He was finally told that no Americans, despite their motives, would be allowed into China at that time.

Of course, that has all changed. President Nixon journeyed to China in February.

The irony has not been lost on Reynolds. "I spend two years on trial for trying to get into China to make a symbolic gesture for peace. Then along comes resident Nixon, the enemy of mainland China, and he goes to China. Sure it's a personal thing, but I think Nixon is a xxxxxxx."

My point was not to actually get into China and report back to the American people about communes or anything. It was to go as an individual American saying, 'There are many American like myself who disagree with our government's policy.'"

Concerto Concerts Are Canceled

The College of Marin has canceled the three Brandenburg concerto conerts originally scheduled for three Sunday afternoons during the summer at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The concertos, which were to have been performed by members of the Oakland and San Francisco symphony orchestras, were publicized in the college's spring quarter adult education catalog.

Venice Man Faces Jail For Drugs

John Felix Mantele, 36, of Venice was sentenced yesterday7by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in Marin Superior Court to six months in the county jail and given five years probation for sale of Cocaine.

The jail sentence will be served in Santa Clara County where he faces a stiffer sentence on a related drug charge, according to his attorney, Anthony Serra of San Francisco.

Santa Clara agents arranged to meet Mantele in San Rafael, where they negotiated to buy four ounces of the drug. Oct. 15.

Probation officers said Mantele, a designer, was apparently new at selling drugs because the sale showed a great lack of sophistication.

Gardiner said that Mantele can serve his jail sentence concurrently with the jail sentence expected in Santa Clara County.

Open Gangland War In New York's Underworld Admitted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy admitted today that open gangland warfare has erupted in New York City, where "six or seven—or more" underworld figures have been executed in the past two weeks.

Appearing with Mayor John V. Lindsay at a news conference, Murphy said there was "strong evidence" that the rash of gangland-style killings were connected with a war in the underworld.

He reported "a distinct possibility" that the killings were the result of a feud between the "families" of Joseph (Crazy Joe) Gallo—the victim of a gangland execution last week—and Joseph Colombo Sr., reputed head of the Brooklyn underworld who was critically wounded in an assassination attempt last June.

Gallo, who engaged in open warfare with a rival gang in Brooklyn during the early 1960s was gunned down in an Italian restaurant last Friday.

Besides the Gallo slaying, Murphy said there have been "six or seven—or more—" gangland type murders during the past two weeks, excluding the shooting of Richard R. Grossman, whose mutilated body was found stuffed in a car trunk in Brooklyn early this morning.

Murphy said some of the "hundreds" of detectives working on the rash of gangland killings were attempting to determine if Grossman had underworld connections.

Grossman, 36, who had a previous arrest record for disorderly conduct, rape, burglary and grand larceny, was the third man whose body was found in New York in a 20-hour period following the slaying of Gallo.

Police said Monday morning's two victims had gangland connections and the method used in killing Grossman led them to believe this too was a gangland murder.

The medical examiner's office said after a preliminary check that the man appeared to have been dead about four or five days. If that proves to be the case, his death would have come before Gallo's, who was killed three days and 17 hours before the body was discovered.

It was the 16th underworld style killing since the critical wounding of Joseph Colombo Sr., a rival of Gallo's, at an American-Italian parade last June 28.

A few hours before Gallo's funeral, Gennaro Ciprio, 30, a Brooklyn restaurant owner who police said was a bodyguard of Colombo's, was gunned down as he left his restaurant. He was carrying a loaded pistol and $1,300 in cash.

"If this isn't a gang war, I don't know what is," a high police source said when the body was found.

Soon after, Frank Ferriano, 41, of Lawrence Harbor, N.J., was killed with shots to the head and shoulder in a lower Manhattan parking lot. He was wearing a watch and had more than $100 in cash.

Cashbox Stolen

A cashbox containing $50, several canceled checks and credit cards was taken from the Dotto Glass Inc. office, 74 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael, sometime between 6:45 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday, police reported today. Entry may have been through an unlocked door, police said.

RAIN SOAKED ACCIDENTS

This dented sedan awaited a tow-truck today, northbound on rainslick Highway 101, following one of three accidents that eventually involved eight cars, several of which can be seen ahead of it. No one was injured in the 9 a.m. pileups. (For a story on the weather see page 1.) Traffic in northbound lanes was moving smoothly, although curious motorists virtually stopped progress southbound, where no accidents took place.

Balcony Witness To Shoot-Out Begins Testimony In San Jose

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN JOSE — Testimony about the long-unanswered question of who shot first in the Marin Civic Center shoot-out in August of 1970 was begun yesterday by an assistant coroner who watched the tragedy from a balcony.

Eugene R. Fontaine related how he heard what sounded like a pistol shot, then saw a San Quentin guard flinch and finally watched the guard raise his rifle and fire at a yellow van full of kidnappers and their hostages.

Fontaine was testifying at the trial of Angela Davis, who is accused of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out. The prosecution is seeking to prove she provided the guns and helped plan an abortive escape attempt in order to free Soledad Brother George Jackson, with whom she was reportedly in love.

Fontaine, a balding, rotund man who was once a policeman, told yesterday how he left his office in the Civic Center and from the balcony, watched a yellow van come out from under an arch.

Nearby, kneeling behind the trunk of a parked car, was a San Quentin officer named John Matthews, Fontaine said. "The van slowed down. . . the officer appeared to start to shout something. . . " he said, adding that next he heard what "sounded like a pistol shot. . . "

In answer to a question by Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., Fontaine said, "I surmised it (the shot) came from the van."

His answer was ordered stricken from the record by Judge Richard E. Arnason after a protest by defense attorney Howard Moore Jr. that it was speculation.

Fontaine then went on to relate how Matthews "appeared to flinch after the first shot, then he leaned forward, pulled his rifle up and fired possibly three times at the van."

About the time of the second shot, Fontaine said, the van lurched to a halt as if it had stalled.

"There was a lot of firing going off," Fontaine said. During the brief episode he saw a red flash and heard a loud noise in the van. "There was no question that it was a shot gun," he said.

(The prosecution contends Judge Harold J. Haley died from the blast of a shotgun held by convict Ruchell Magee.)

After the shooting stopped, Fontaine said he went outside the Hall of Justice and helped other law officers take three women jurors out of the van. He also took Gary W.Thomas, the assistant district attorney who was wounded and paralyzed in the gun battle, out of the front of the van, Fontaine said.

In the back of the van, he related, he "could see Judge Haley lying down. There was so much destruction to the lower part of his face. . . I could tell he was probably dead."

In the judge's lap, Fontaine said, was a shotgun with both the barrel and the stock sawed off that "looked like a large pistol."

"I saw a hand moving toward the gun," Fontaine said.

"A person, later identified as Magee, looked as though he was trying to grab the gun. So I entered the van, grabbed the gun, put his hand aside and held him," Fontaine said.

After he handed the sawed-off shotgun to another officer, Fontaine said he helped take Magee out of the van and put him on a stretcher and later into an ambulance. (Magee suffered a chest wound but recovered and is due to be tried later.)

From inside the van, Fontaine said, he also removed a heavy briefcase, which he "feared was a bomb." The briefcase, later opened "a considerable distance" away, contained only ammunition.

Throughout yesterday's session, as in all the court sessions since the trial opened, large blowups of pictures taken by Independent-Journal photographers Jim Kean and Roger Bockrath, illustrated testimony about perhaps the most photographed crime in history.

Prior to Fontaine's testimony, a San Rafael policeman, Harold Pennington, described how he raced to the van after the shooting, which caused the van to rock back and forth, he said.

From inside the van came "some female cries for help, and also male cries," Pennington said. When he opened the doors, Pennington said there was still movement inside and he took a Colt revolver from one man's pocket as "the subject seemed to be going for the gun in his pocket."

Yesterday's testimony was delayed while Judge Arnason, prosecution and defense attorneys discussed what one termed "matters of serious proportions."

One of the matters of concern was revealed by the Judge when court finally resumed. He queried the jurors about their knowledge of the death of James Carr, former convict gunned down last week in San Jose.

Some newspaper accounts had linked Carr to Miss Davis.

After all jurors agreed they had no knowledge of any connection with the death of Carr and Miss Davis and gave assurances they could be impartial to her, Judge Arnason ordered the trial resumed. He instructed the jurors, however, not to read any further accounts of Carr's death.

Speeding Stop Brings Arrests

Two youths arrested Sunday on suspicion of drug violations have been charged only with misdemeanors in Marin Municipal Court.

Lawrence H. St. Clair, 19, of no known address and John Duane Benge, 19, of Pacifica were charged with possession of marijuana. Benge was also charged with speeding and St. Clair was also charged with having drug paraphernalia.

The two were arrested by the Caliornia Highway Patrol after their speeding car was stopped.

Agnew Hits Ideological Conformity

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today that "some intellectuals are attempting to impose ideological conformity on American education."

The vice president compared his criticism of what he called "anti-intellectual Yahooism" in importance with his attack on the press two years ago in Des Moines, Iowa.

"There can be no more dangerous form of anti-intellectualism than that kind practiced by highly educated, selfrighteous intellectuals who consider themselves superior to the point of infallibility," Agnew said in a prepared speech for a Republican luncheon at the new Capitol Hill Club.

"This threat of dogmatism and intolerance of diverse opinion in the academic community is a matter of concern to every American," he said.

The vice president foresaw that his speech would stir up some of the same kind of adverse comment that his blast at the news media generated and that he would be accused of attempting to impose a "chilling effect" on academic freedom.

He denied in advance that his intention was censorship.

"What I have urged," Agnew said, "... is not book-burning but more books, covering every point of view and not just propaganda of the view favored by the professor."

Agnew cited as a "notorious example of these academic Yahoos" (a Yahoo is a mythical brute in human form from Swift's Gulliver's Travels) disruptions by dissidents at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Philadelphia a few months ago.

He accused the association's officers of trying "to appease the incipient totalitarianism in their midst."

"Death of free speech and inquiry," Agnew said "... comes in two parts. First, there are those vicious members of a community who would kill freedom; second there are those fatuous leaders of a community who, by their acquiescence and lack of intellectual fortitude, stand by and permit the murder to occur."

In recent years, he said, there has been a movement toward the "interpretative rather than the objective" in a number of research publications and textbooks which he said parallels a trend in the press.

"Unless checked," Agnew said, "such opinion imbalance, similar to which affects our national news media, holds ominous implications."

Burglary Suspect Court Date Set

Christopher J. Wooton, 18, of San Rafael, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property. He was ordered to appear April 19.

Wooton was arrested Feb. 24 by San Rafael police ater he and a companion were reported at a San Rafael store with stolen property.

The property reportedly in Wooton's possession was stolen Feb. 22 from the residence of Jerome Draper on Point San Pedro Road. Stereo equipment and silverware worth thousands of dollars were taken in the burglary.

Open House Sunday

Sausalito Nursery School at 625 Main Street will hold open house Sunday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. to acquaint Southern Marin residents with its co-operative operation, according to Bonnie Holl, secretary to the school's board.

CASE

which she and another woman were assaulted. Preliminary hearing in that case was set for tomorrow, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

She also was in San Rafael for a hearing on revocation of probation today before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner and sentencing on three counts of forging checks passed at the Roger Wilco market in Novato. A co-defendant, Robert Lee Smith, 38, had died of a heart attack about three weeks ago, so charges were shelved, but not dismissed.

Weeks was in town to testify for the defense in case of Walter Sidney Boatwright, 22, of Concord, who was charged with burglary. Today he pleaded guilty to burglary and a charge of concealing stolen property was dismissed. Sentencing was set for May 8.

The bodies were discovered by Midyett at about 8:30 a.m. when he went to the Villa Rafael Motel to question Weeks about what he would say in the Boatwright case.

Mrs. Fabian had been living in a secluded area of Northern California called Washigton, with Weeks, according to a probation report by Lowell J. Fouch, deputy probation officer.

"The subject is currently involved in what I feel is a very volatile and potentially dangerous dependency relationship with Stephen Weeks," his report stated.

She was a Drake High School dropout. Fouch said she had used methedrine, marijuana and heroin "extensively, but probably not in a way that created any serious addiction problems."

Surviving are her parents in San Francisco, two children, Scott E. Fabian, 8, and Brian, 6, plus an unnamed child aged 2 or 3.

Five counts of forgery against her and Smith were for $260 worth of checks. Smith was living with her and Weeks at the time of arrest.

In court Fabian probation was called first. Her attorney, R. Della Valle, came forward and said, "Your honor, I have just been informed in this matter that my client is dead."

Next called was the Smith and Fabian matter, when Virginai DiSerba announced, "Your honor, Robert L. Smith is also dead. He died of a heart attack."

Weeks had been a witness for the prosecution in a number of narcotics cases. Most recently, he testified at the trial of Donald Gilliam, 27, of San Rafael, and Toi Ann Weindel, who were convicted of a heroin sale.

Mrs. Fabian was also the alleged victim in a case still pending in municipal court. According to an affidavit filed by a Novato police officer, she told him that Donald Duane Smith and Charlisse Joy Brant (unknown ages and addresses) came to her house in Novato and in October 1970 and Smith beat her and another woman in connection with an unpaid narcotics debt.

He then forced the two women onto a bed and told Fabian, "I am going to fill you both with enough heroin to O.D. you and take your bodies to the Santa Cruz mountains where no one will ever find you."

The other woman said that as he bent over Mrs. Fabian with a hypodermic needle, two relatives arrived and rescued them.

Two Injured In Two-Car Collision

Two Petaluma women were injured in a two-car accident at 7:45 a.m. today on South McDowell Boulevard at McKenzie Drive, Petaluma.

Jean Payton, 21, of 307 Balama Lane, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a neck injury, and Carol Maddalena, 18, of 2952 Middle Two Rock Road, was treated for head cuts. Police had no details of the accident.

New Vaccine For Cancer Is Possible

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Two University of Chicago pathologists said today they have made a discovery which could lead to effective cancer vaccines.

Doctors John Coon and Robert Hunter said they are trying to get the body to reject cancer much as it rejects foreign substances such as kidney or heart grafts.

In experiments on guinea pigs, Coon said, he and Roberts made the body respond to foreign substances "which it usually rejects by manufacturing antibodies through a cellular type of immunity that can effectively reject cancers."

What the pathologists actually discovered was not how to produce an immunity to cancer, but how to get to the area where cellular immunity comes from—the paracortex region of the lymph node.

They chemically joined several materials and produced a protein, which, when injected into a guinea pig, produced a strong cellular immunity.

The body usually repels foreign substances by manufacturing antibodies, a complicated molecule which circulates in the blood, but which has not been effective against cancer.

With cellular immunity, however, a living cell repels the invading materials and doctors believe this immunity can be used to reject some cancers.

"Many human and animal cancers can be rejected by cellular immunity in much the same way the heart or kidney grafts are rejected," Coon said. "These experiments provide the first rationale for the production of semi-synthetic cancer vaccines.

"Many workers have identified and isolated cancer antigens (foreign substances which cause antibodies to be produced)," he said. "But attempts to use these antigens to treat tumors have usually resulted in the production of antibodies which make the tumors grow faster.

"We hope that our work can be extended to tumor antigens in such a way as to make them effective in treating cancer."

Coon presented the research in a paper he was scheduled to read at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Coon, a resident trainee in pathology at the university, and Hunter, an instructor in the school's department of pathology, did most of the research at the Argonne Cancer Research Hospital in Chicago.

Sentence Date In Drugs Case

Jeffrey George Kingry, 25, of Whitehorn, Humboldt County, pleaded guilty yesterday to a felony charge of having barbiturates and amphetamines, and sentencing was set for May 30 in Marin Superior court.

Following the plea, charges of possessing marijuana and cocaine and driving under the influence of both drugs were dropped.

He was arrested Aug. 23 on the Richmond-San Rafael bridge where California Highway Patrolmen reported his car was weaving from one side of the road to the other.

Voters will decide the fate of candidates in 33 nonpartisan contests in 12 cities. Bond issues in Mill Valley and Rohnert Park, a Sausalito park plan referendum and a Fairfax zoning question will also be on the various ballots.

Also reporting voter turnouts between 10 and 15 per cent were precincts in Mill Valley, Belvedere and Sausalito. Corte Madera, Novato, and Tiburon.

Particularly heavy voting by 11 a.m. was taking place at the Larkspur fire department, where about 20 per cent of the eligible voters had turned out, and the Ross School, where voter turnout was more than 25 per cent.

Man Held In Skyjack Try

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—A middle-aged man dressed in a business suit and demanding $500,000 in ransom was arrested by the FBI Tuesday trying to hijack a Continental Airlines 707 jetliner at the Portland Airport.

The 63 passengers aboard the Boeing 707 were transferred from Continental Airlines flight 781 to a Pan-American flight before the FBI closed in on the suspect.

Vincent E. Ruehl, assistant special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, identified the man as Major Burton Davenport, 56, of Vancouver, Wash. He was charged with threatening to destroy an aircraft.

Sheep Reported Killed And Eaten

Three sheep were killed and eaten Sunday on a ranch near Tomales, it was reported today by John Gill, director of the Marin County Humane Society.

The attacks took place one mile from the site of an earlier mass slaughter of 53 baby lambs late in March.

Speculation that the same animal was responsible for both incidents was ended when the killer's method of operation were compared.

All 53 baby lambs killed last month were bitten behind the neck, presumably by a neighborhood dog. None of the carcasses were eaten.

The predator Sunday ate the hearts, livers and tongues of all three of its victims. Gill suspects that Sunday's killer is a coyote.

Minister Asks Mercy For Killer Of His Wife

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A minister says the killer of his wife needs "help and understanding" instead of the death penalty or being imprisoned.

Rev. Rev. Donald E. Waldo, director of admissions at California Concordia College, asked mercy for the unknown man who strangled his wife, Sharon, 30, in the couple's apartment last week.

"I feel—and I'm sure my wife would concur—in saying that the man who committed the dreadful act of strangulation should be found...but not for the purpose of hurting him, taking his life, or putting him behind bars and keeping him in cold isolation, but rather for the purpose of helping him understand what real life is all about," said the 31-year-old minister in a statement to newsmen Monday.

WALDO WIDENING WORK

A member of a contractor's survey crew locates grading levels for new shoulders and drainage systems being built on Highway 101 south of the Waldo Tunnels. Under a contract for nearly $900,000, McGuire and Hester of Oakland last week began adding a fourth northbound lane from Rodeo Avenue north of the tunnels to Richardso Bay Bridge, and rebuilding the shoulders over much of the stretch from the Golden Gate Bridge to Richardson Bay. The work is being done mostly between morning and evening commute hours. (Independent-Journal photo)

Oscar Race Wins Round In Fairfax

Fairfax Mayor Cornelis Van Vliet won the vote of every city council watcher who wanted to see the Academy Awards last night by adjourning the meeting after 20 minutes.

Ending what may have been its shortest council meeting on record, Van Vliet simply told his two companions on the governing body he wasn't going to vote for anything else the night before an election, and went home at 8:20 p.m.

Two of the five councilmen were absent, Francis J. O'Connell and Lee Nelder, both because they had to work. When Van Vliet decided to call it quits, the council no longer had a quorum.

Before it adjourned, the council heard a plea for low-density housing from a group of about 40 youngsters, ranging in age from sixth graders to senior high school students.

THE SPOKESMEN

Alan R. Wolford, 18, acting as spokesman for the group, is a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School. Cofounder is Stephen A. Bernes, an eighth grader at Whitehill Junior High School. They represented Prevention Against Apartments, Condominiums and Townhouses — PAACT.

Wolford spoke in opposition to the proposed Canon Village and Tennis Club, which is planned near Whitehill Junior High School, on what is now unincorporated land. Annexation of the area was one of the agenda items killed when Van Vliet refused to go further.

Wolford closed by saying, "We feel we should be listened to as citizens, we'll be living here in the future." He urged the council to build on empty lots in the city before spreading development into the open land beyond.

Van Vliet, noting that the planning commission "and this council" had voted for the Canon Village and Tennis Club, suggested that Wolford's group bring their complaints to the council which will be elected today.

Before the meeticg, Wolford said the group had been in existence about two months, and had been formed as a direct result of the Canon Village project.

SENIOR CITIZEN

The council also selected Fairfax's choice for senior citizen of the year before adjourning — Marguerite Geary, 79, of 53 Sequoia Road. She has been a resident of Fairfax for the past 58 years.

Mrs. Geary will now compete for the "Outstanding Senior Citizen of Marin" award, sponsored by the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

The Fairfax council also made the final $1,100 payment on the Bridge Court pedestrian bridge and accepted it as complete. Costing $10,887, the project was started about three months ago and completed about a month ago, according to City Mgr. Robert E. Crowe.

Crowe said the final month's wait was a guarantee on the workmanship and to insure that any legal encumbrances were clear.

The council adjourned to April 18 at 8 p.m.

Olema Valley's Inclusion Urged

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday recommended inclusion of the Olema Valley in the proposed Golden Gate National Recreational Area.

Commissioners agreed it would be a mistake to exclude the picturesque valley which stretches from Bolinas Lagoon along Shoreline Highway to the quiet community of Olema.

The southern section of the valley is in the Bolinas Lagoon watershed and the northern section in the Tomales Bay watershed. Both bodies of water are being fiercely protected by environmentalists, who see the recreational area as a means of blocking development.

The proposed recreational area, supported by President Richard M. Nixon, calls for about 24,000 acres in Marin and San Francisco counties to be acquired for park use.

As proposed by Nixon, the recreational area would include the northern waterfront of San Francisco — primarily the Presidio — and up Marin's coastline to Bolinas. It would also include Angel Island.

The planning commission agreed yesterday that by including the Olema Valley, Marin's other public holdings — such as the Point Reyes National Seashore, Samuel P. Taylor and Tamalpais state parks — would be connected.

Besides the Olema Valley, the commission urged the county board of supervisors to recommend to officials in Washington D. C. that portions of Tamalpais Valley be included as well as the Net Depot on the Tiburon Peninsula.

The planning commission's recommendation will be sent to the county park and recreation commission for concurrence before being forwarded to supervisors.

Planners Approve 12-Unit Cooperative

A group calling itself the "Housing Cooperative" won approval yesterday from the Marin County Planning Commission to construct a 12-home community in Homestead Valley.

The cooperative, made up of 12 families seeking to "establish a community based on mutual sharing," requested rezoning and master plan approval for about 10 acres between Ridgewood Avenue and Homestead Boulevard.

While final plans must still be approved, the group's proposal calls for 12 separate homes to be built around a large central lodge designed for recreational, social and educational purposes.

The lodge would contain the community's communal laundry, workshop, sewing and hobby rooms, thus eliminating the need for separate facilities in each home.

The homes are proposed to be scattered on the hillside and connected by footpaths with auto parking confined to three or four peripheral parking areas.

Several residents of Homestead Valley voiced support for the proposal but urged that special care be taken to insure adequate drainage control.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

BASALT — Approved a use permit for the Basalt Rock Co. to continue quarry operations on the old McNear Ranch property at Point San Pedro near San Rafael. The commission also approved a dredging permit to allow the firm to redredge a barge-loading channel in San Pablo Bay.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved an 18-unit townhouse development proposed by David J. Rosenberg for a two-acre parcel located near the intersection of North San Pedro Road and East Meriam Drive in Santa Venetia.

SUBDIVISION — Approved a 14-lot subdivision of property near the intersection of Trumbull Avenue and Mill Road in Indian Valley.

EXCAVATION — Denied a request from Joseph and Rina Fernandez for an excavation use permit to excavate 730,000 cubic yards of earth from their property at 200 Atherton Avenue, near Novato. The commission ruled that leveling the top of the ridgeline would not be a proper use of the land.

Tiburon Votes To Extend Building Ban

By MARC NURRE

The Tiburon City Council last night extended a moratorium on open space building for eight months to allow for creation of new building controls and city acquisition of some of the property.

The council voted 4-0 to extend the ban, with Councilman M. Carlisle Becker, a landscape architect, abstaining because he said he was once employed by a developer included in the ban and wished to remove all possible grounds for suspicion.

The decision came after two hours of discussion among council members, petitions from attorneys representing developers wishing to have their land exempted, and comments from others interested.

Having started the moratorium process, said Mayor Denis T. Rice, "To me it seems only logical to come to grips with whether there should be an extension of the moratorium. There's no question in my mind but that there has to be an extension." Rice is not a candidate for reelection.

In answer to Allan N. Littman, a candidate for a council seat who said the extension should be left up to the incoming council to decide, Rice said, "If we were to stop right now and turn it over to another council. . . we would be abrogating our responsibilities."

The council modified the previous 90-day moratorium which expires April 30. It exempted from the moratorium a parcel of land located near Sugarloaf Drive and owned by Irving Moulin of Tiburon. The parcel was approved for development before the ban was imposed, and Moulin has already installed some streets and other improvements.

It also directed City Atty. Robert I. Conn to draw up a separate ordinance which would add to the moratorium a parcel of land not mentioned in the original ban. The parcel, about 19 acres, is near Hacienda Drive.

Joseph Sheeks, an attorney and former Mill Valley mayor, appeared in behalf of Henry Eavey, a property owner seeking exemption from the moratorium. Sheeks offered the strongest objection to the extension.

He said none of City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer's original criteria for the establishment of open space fit Eavey's land and, in fact, relevent criteria for the selection of open space have not yet been established.

The council, Sheeks said, should give up trying to find an "ultimate solution" to problems. "You're not legislating for the year 2000. You're legislating for 1973-74," he said. Beyond that, the situation is so unpredictable that it is impossible to legislate to control it, he argued.

Pointing to his own years on public agencies, he criticized the council for what he said was a tendency to wait too long for all the facts on a situation to be researched, thus delaying action. "You can't stop the world and sit back and analyze it," he said.

Littman, in addition to his request that the matter be left for the incoming council, also told council members they should not use emergency ordinance adoption procedures to make the moratorium extension. It is unwarranted in this case, he said.

A second candidate for the two council seats, Albert Aramburu, endorsed the extension, as did former mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge.

Councilman Albert H. Sennett pointed out that a provision existed in the moratorium for appeal by property owners. The ordinance, he said, permits development if the council issues a conditional use permit. "We're not preventing all building in these areas without recourse to the property owners," he said.

Sheeks, however, called the conditional use permit clause "window dressing" because to apply for it a developer would have to risk the preparation of costly site plans, he said.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

GRANT APPLICATION — Endorsed the Golden Gate Bridge District's application to the federal government for money with which to buy more buses and ferry boats. The district will hold a public hearing April 19 on the question.

BLACKIE'S PASTURE — Heard a report by Balmer that the legal steps necessary for the city to acquire the land in Blackie's Pasture are taking place now, and that a meeting will be scheduled soon with the state Division of Highways to arrange for right-of-way for a realignment of the street.

POLICE IMPROVEMENTS — Voted to accept a low bid of $11,558 by Joseph Redmond, San Rafael building contractor, for improvements in the new Tiburon Police Department building, but also authorized the city manager to negotiate with the contractor for a reduction in the estimated cost by cutting back the number of improvements made.

STONE TOWER — Authorized the mayor to write a letter to A. L. Caceres, a dentist who owns the stone tower built originally as part of a toll road in early Tiburon, seeking to acquire the tower on behalf of the city so that it can be restored.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS — Tabled a motion for installation of traffic signals on Avenida Miraflores, Rock Hill Drive, Lyford Drive and San Rafael Avenue.

Park Restroom Arson Try Fails

Vandals attempted to burn down restrooms at Stinson Beach State Park during the weekend, but failed, park personnel reported yesterday.

Eight small fires were set in restrooms at the north end of the park, but all were doused by beachgoers who discovered the, according to Harley C. Ellis, state park maintenence man.

He said that on Thursday vandals had damaged the restrooms at the south end of the beach by throwing rocks through vents and denting the roof with them. Park officials are not sure whether the same persons are responsible for both incidents.

Damage from the fires Saturday at about 8 p.m.. was $35 to $40, and from Thursday's incident about $250, Ellis said.

Glenwood Bookmobile Halt Is Hit

Eliminating a Glenwood stop of the county library bookmobile this week would violate a seven-year-old agreement between city and county, the San Rafael Library board declared last night.

Anne Nelson of Glenwood and Tina Ferris of Peacock Gap told the board that residents had been informed the bookmobile will make its last Glenwood stop on Thursday, when books may be returned but none taken.

Librarian Vivian M. Smith said she was first informed of plans to discontinue the service by County Supervisor John F. McInnis. She said she had discussed it with County Librarian Bruce Bajema, who had indicated it was a budgetary matter.

Under a cooperative agreement entered into by city and county libraries in 1965, the bookmobile service to Glenwood is provided by the county on an annually renewable basis. Board members pointed out the agreement remains in effect until end of the fiscal year on June 30. Mrs. Smith was instructed to inform the county librarian of this interpretation, and board member Bryce W. Anderson was appointed to bring it to the attention of McInnis.

Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Ferris said petitions protesting the service cut had gathered more than 60 names during the bookmobile's last two-hour stop, for presentation to McInnis.

Organizational meeting of the San Rafael Friends of the Library wll be held May 4 at 8 p.m. in the city council chamber at city hall, Mrs. Smith reported. R. N. Mertz, a member of the steering committee for the organization, will preside.

Board member James H. Mayer proposed that the city file suit to condemn the reversionary rights to the library site, in order to gain clear title. The property was deeded to the city for a library in 1906, with provisions that it would revert to the heirs of the sellers if put to any other use or if alcoholic beverage was ever served there. The board asked Mayer to prepare a resume of his proposal for submission to the city council.

Board member Richard H. Bradshaw III was absent.

Another 20,000 Acres In Preserve

Over the repeated protests of developers, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved rezoning another major section of the county's sprawling 210,000-acre agricultural preserve.

Under consideration yesterday were some 20,000 acres located northwest and adjacent to Novato. It was the second mass section to be approved for new A-60 zoning (which means one home per 60 acres).

Last month, the board of supervisors ratified commission rezoning of 60,000 acres along Tomales Bay in the northwestern part of the county.

The four-hour hearing yesterday, before an audience of about 70 persons, found little new in the way of testimony. Developers branded it an unfair confiscation of property while conservationists praised it as a long overdue act to preserve the agricultural industry and open space.

The rezoning is required under the state's Williamson Act, which says agricultural preserve lands must be zoned in a manner "compatible" with the agricultural industry.

The county planning department and commission claim the lowest possible density is the most compatible zoning for Marin's agricultural operations which are mostly grazing and dairying.

Yesterday's 6-to-1 vote for rezoning found only Commissioner George P. Leonard dissenting. Leonard said the action was unnecessary and that the present two-acre zoning is adequate to protect agriculture.

Leading opposition to the action was Larkspur developer Niels J. Schultz Jr., a member of the Marin Property Owners Association.

Schultz, who has indicated in the past that the rezoning will go to court, charged that no one has ever shown that A-60 zoning was more compatible that the existing two-acre zoning.

Quoting county tax officials, Schultz predicted the value of his property will be cut in half. Such action is unfair, he continued, since he has paid taxes on his land during the past years based on that higher value. For instance, he said, a parcel he owns in Nicasio has quadrupled in taxes during the last six years — from $2,150 in 1966 to $9,203 this year.

Claiming development posed no threat to agriculture, Schultz said the real villian is taxation. Even with the rezoning, agriculture will not produce enough to pay the taxes, he said.

"This (rezoning) will increase the cost, value, and price of housing in eastern Marin," he concluded.

Speaking out in support of the rezoning were about six persons including Jerry Friedman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin and Harold Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League.

Both urged its adoption as a means of halting land speculation and "discontiguous urban growth."

While the bulk of the area was rezoned A-60, several small areas were excluded for further study and rezoning at a future date.

One area excluded was the Jack West Jr. property located north of Hamilton Air Force Base. It is part of the Bel Marin Keys expansion area.

Areas excluded also included several thousand acres south and east of Mount Burdell and in the Bowman Canyon area. Some will be reconsidered May 8.

The only other variation was 10-acre lot zoning granted to a small area of Hicks Valley and 20-acre lot zoning near the Sonoma County line.

Middle-Aged Marriages Are Topic Of Films

The Lewis Marshall Lloyd Education Center in San Anselmo is offering two program series, dealing with problems of middle-aged married couples and "expanding human awareness".

The center, at Kensington Road and Austin Avenue, is operated by the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

Dr. Robert Lee will lead a series of three sessions on identifying and dealing with problems of middle-aged married couples from 8 to 10 p.m. May 2, 9, and 16. He is professor of social ethics and director of the Institute of Ethics and Society at the seminary.

Carlyle Rispoli will lead a workshop "Expanding Human Awareness through Gestalt Art Experiences" Wednesday nights from 7 to 10 p.m., April 26 through May 31. The seminary said Rispoli is a professional painter with experience in Gestalt art therapy.

Two Burglaries In San Rafael

Two San Rafael businesses were burglarized during the weekend, San Rafael police reproted yesterday.

La Casa Restaurant at 903 Lincoln Avenue, was entered by prying open the rear door sometime between 1:30 and 7:30 a.m. yesterday and $1,081 in cash taken, owner Amadeo Lipari reported to police.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. business office at 1800 Second Street was entered between 6 p.m. Friday and 1:30 p.m. yesterday and an undetermined amount of cigarettes and cash taken from the cigarette machine, Franklin G. Rudolph, an employee, reported to police. Entry was gained by breaking a window, police reported.

Woman To Answer Drug Charge Today

Lisa La Forest, 28, of Los Angeles, was arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a charge of attempting to secure narcotics with a forged prescription.

Visiting Judge Joseph Weber of Covelo, Mendocino County, set bail at $625 and scheduled Miss La Forest to enter a plea tomorrow. She was arrested Saturday when police said she tried to have a false prescription filled at Walgreen's Drug Store at the Petaluma Plaza.

Girl, 7, Victim Of Indecent Exposure

A 7-year-old Novato girl was the victim of indecent exposure at 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Novato High School, Novato police reported yesterday.

The man was described as 18 to 20 years old, about six feet tall, weighing 190 pounds and having dark hair. He was wearing dark pants, a light sweater and brown coat, and dark rimmed glasses.

Attitudes On Government To be Voiced

A total of 1,700 residents of the upper Ross Valley will get a chance to voice their opinions of city, county and district government as part of a study of the so-called San Anselmo Governmental Structures Survey.

The residents will be chosen by a random look at county voter rolls. The intent is to determine public attitudes on possible changes in governmental organization, services and taxes, according to Charles R. Leitzell, San Anselmo city coordinator for the study.

San Anselmo is the primary sponsor of the study, working with Fairfax, Ross and the county.

According to Leitzell, results will be made public as soon as the questionnaires are mailed back to West Coast Community Services, the firm conducting the poll.

Appeals Court Rules For Right To Know

The language of court decisions is sometimes convoluted. And often, points are drawn so finely that even judges of other courts misread the ruling's intent.

Such is not the case with the ruling of the California First District Court of Appeal last week which held that payroll records of North Marin County Water District are public. In a decision running just over two pages, the appellate court went straight to the heart of the matter, cited the legal precedents, and stated its decision in unmistakable language.

THE ISSUE AROSE in 1970. The Independent Journal had been publishing lists of employees of public agencies in Marin County, with their job titles and annual pay. The North Marin Water District board refused to make the information available.

The I-J sued for a writ of mandate to require the water district to open its books and disclose the information. In September, 1970, Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court issued the writ. But the water district appealed.

The appellate court last week got around to ruling in the matter. And the decision's language indicated that the delay had been due to no indecision or complexity.

It marshalled the facts simply:

"THE NORTH MARIN County Water District is organized pursuant to the County Water District Law . . . As such, it is a 'local agency' as defined in . . . section 6252 of the Government Code, and its payroll records are 'public records' as defined in" (the same section).

It noted that the water district board took the position that it would disclose job qualifications and the salary for each position, but contended the names of the employees were exempt from disclosure under another Government Code section which provides for secrecy of "personnel, medical, or similar files . . . which would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy."

No, said the court, "a record of a public employee's current salary is not exclusively a part of his personnel file."

The water district board also contended that the public interest would be better served by keeping payroll records secret. Ruled the court:

"WE DISAGREE . . . Salaries paid to officers, managers, directors, and other employees of a governmental agency, such as a county water district, clearly concern 'the conduct of the people's business.' The right of persons to inspect public payroll records is . . . essential to protecting the people's interest in the proper use of public funds and to avoid abuses in the administration of government."

In this clear, unequivocal ruling, the First District Court of Appeal has struck a telling blow in behalf of the people's right to know.

Thank You, Mr. Bird

Marin's abundent bird life sometimes draws groans or worse from local gardeners. Sparrows and finches are often singled out as bad guys because they have been known to wipe out newly sprouted winter and spring gardens. But remember these same fellows eat many insects. Weed seeds, too. Sparrows are particularly fond of pig parsley or purslane seed, a very troublesome weed in Marin gardens. On balance, even sparrows and finches are useful to our gardeners.

Is There No Longer Need For 2-House Legislature?

By EARL G. WATERS

Should the California Legislature be unicameral? This idea has been put forth by Assemblyman Ken Cory, D-Anaheim, who has authored a constitutional amendment providing for a single-house legislature.

Until the U.S. Supreme Court interjected itself, the California Legislature was based upon the federal plan. Like Congress it had two houses, one with districts based upon population while the other was based upon counties. The U.S. Senate is composed of two senators from each state. California has no more voting power in the U.S. Senate than the sparsely settled state of Nevada. Los Angeles had no more in the state Senate than the vast deserts of Inyo-Mono.

The system was designed to prevent the populous urban areas from running roughshod over areas of different interests which lacked population. By establishing two houses, one strictly on population while the other was more upon area, a check and balance was created.

THE PLAN HAS WORKED well for Congress for two centuries. It worked well in California until the court forced the state to remap its Senate in accordance with the "one-man, one-vote" doctrine. Now rural Californians are experiencing that which they feared, domination of the Legislature by the urban centers.

Small states, particularly those in the South, confronted with the same situation in the house, found a method of equalizing their voice. They simply elected young representatives and kept them in Washington where they gained seniority and, along with it, power.

The Legislature, especially the Assembly, has no seniority system. And while the Senate once worked under the seniority rule it has been pretty much abandoned since the influx of new senators under the remapping to balance district populations.

Now both houses of the Legislature represent districts equal in population. Although Assembly districts are half the size in population of Senate districts, since the Assembly has twice the membership, a Senate district is often almost the same territory as two Assembly districts.

IT IS NO DOUBT because of this that Cory feels a two-house Legislature is no longer needed. It no longer provides the checks and balances between urban and rural areas originally intended.

He points to Nebraska, which is the only state operating with a single house. Perhaps, before anyone gets too serious about Cory's proposal, a real study should be made of the Nebraska system. Not only is it alone among the 50 states, it is out of step with most of the world's nations governed by legislative bodies.

Regardless of the method of selection of membership in the two houses, the system still provides worthwhile checks and balances. This is evidenced by the number of bills which, although approved in one house, fail in the other.

Lawmaking is a serious business. There needs to be time and opportunity to permit all points of view. The public must be protected against hasty legislation.

Spiritual Lift From Wild Flowers

In these times of signs and symbols of the permanence of change, I wish to share with you a scene which is available to all who would use their eyes and hearts as they pass the future site of the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

The sign tells of the coming church. The symbol, to be and might to you, is the white mustard plants proudly blooming in the soil.

The yellow flowers are so named because their seeds are white. Never before have I observed this plant in the church garden. Wonder how it got there? Wonder if Jesus Christ knew when he told of the parable of the mustard seed that it was a member of the Cruciferae family?

That sight can truly give one a spiritual lift. Let's dance for April showers, so we may have lots of happy May flowers.

Make Names Public, But Don't Publish

A bouquet to the I-J for its valiant and successful attempt in keeping all government agency records completely open to the press and public. A brickbat to the I-J for the unreasoned and indiscriminate way it has used some of this information.

Now that you have vauntingly published the entire names, job titles and actual salaries of North Marin Water District employees, you have completed the harmful cycle (a second time) of exposing the names and annual income of thousands of Marin families for no reasonable purpose. Interest in this personal income data could only be instilled in idly curious readers, vindictive neighbors, pseudo-friends, jealous coworkers and ambitious hucksters of insurance, risk investment funds, etc.

The I-J's most prominent format deals with public agencies in Marin and has been editorially critical of their poor management, inefficiency and extravagance with the taxpayer dollar. What good does it do to purposely embarrass and demoralize public employees with a practice that will drive good workers away and decrease efficiency of others? This will cost all taxpayers more.

Cannot County Policy Bear Examination?

The emotional protest by Planning Commissioner Jack Nixon and the majority of Marin Board of Supervisors to the effort of the Human Rights Commission to study sex and race discrimination in selecting county commission appointees (Independent-Journal, Apr. 4) speaks to the heart of many a woman, a black and/or other persons of smaller ethnic groups in our society.

True, the Human Rights Commission questionnaire directed to county appointees should not have asked for names. However, methinks the Nixon and the board of supervisors doth protest too much by their demand that the survey be "burned." I would suggest that a new survey be done leaving out the request for names.

Could it be that county government commission appointments (and hiring and promotion as well) cannot bear scrutiny? Could it be that those who do the appointing prefer white men over the rest of humanity no matter how eligible the rest of humanity may be for the appointments?

We are undergoing a vigorous resifting of social values and change. In keeping with this evolutionary process we cannot afford to continue tolerating biased practices which disenfranchise so many citizens for the aggrandizement of the few.

Rock Concert Linked To Drug Problems

The rock concert which was held at the Marin Memorial Auditorium on Nov. 24, 1971, has given rise to much controversy and misunderstanding, and has resulted in a resolution by the Marin County Board of Supervisors which would bar use of the auditorium for similar events in the future. As co-sponsor of this event I have the wish as well as the obligation to see that some key issues surrounding this concert are brought to the public's attention in proper perspective.

First, it should be recalled that the theme of the concert, as well as the whole impetus behind its planning, was prevention of drug abuse in Marin County. Judging from recent statistics, this is an issue which should be of critical concern to every Marin County resident. Proceeds from this concert were to provide much-needed funds to support the "reach-out" program being carried on by Marin Open House, the only drug abuse prevention agency financed by this county. Equally as important as its fund-raising purpose, the concert was to provide a structured and supervised recreational outlet for the youth of Marin County who have become oriented to the atmosphere of hard rock music . . .

The most, if not the only, serious charge relating to misconduct of the concert audience is the infliction of damage to the auditorium. No amount of damage — however small — is excusible, but there is a perspective to this too . . .

By degree of the supervisors, we are now to be denied use of the auditorium for such benefits in the future, for fear of damages and the use of obscene language and gestures. This seems petty and illogical when one considers the lives and dollars which go down the drain in drug abuse. It also seems unjust, in the sense that the youth of Marin County are being denied use of a facility which owes its existence to Marin tax dollars. Would it be any less logical or just to refuse the use of Kezar Stadium, or Candlestick Park at present, for 49er-Rams football games, an event which has been replete with drunken brawls and associated obnoxious behavior and financial loss? The important question we must ask ourselves is, how much are we willing to pay to make some headway into the terrible problem of drug abuse!

Death Penalty, Not Busing, Seen As Top California Issue

SAN FRANCISCO — In this polyglot state, busing raises the political temperature little if at all. A subterranean current deeply emotional stirs the Californian blood to the boiling point. That is the death penalty and whether the action of the California State Supreme Court holding it unconstitutional should be nullified.

A statewide drive is now on to get the required 520,000 signatures to put the question on the ballot in November. This is a large order since an estimated 800,000 signers are needed to insure sufficient valid names. The effort is being directed, not by professional petition specialists but by correctional officers, which means for the most part prison guards. The deadline is June 9.

Feeling is inflamed by the sensational criminals awaiting execution on San Quentin's "Death Row." Sirhan Sirhan, convicted of the murder of Robert F. Kennedy, and Charles Manson of the "Manson Family" murders are among the 105 who have been sentenced to death. Because the state Supreme Court abolished the death penalty, Angela Davis, on trial in San Jose for murder in the San Rafael courthouse hostage slayings, was admitted to bail. Juan Corona, the alleged killer of 25 persons, is also entitled to bail since there is now no capital offense for which bail was automatically denied.

BEHIND THE DRIVE is the ambitious, hard-pushing state attorney general, Evelle J. Younger. He was asked at a press conference the other day whether his strong stand on the death penalty was the start of his campaign for governor. Not at all, he replied, he simply wanted to undo what he insists was the action of the court in legislating on the death penalty rather than merely passing on the law as contained in the state constitution.

Such a tangle of politics, law and deepseated passions centering around "law and order" could only happen in this state. Chief Justice Donald R. Wright was appointed to that office by Gov. Ronald Reagan. When the court by a vote of six to one held that the death penalty was "cruel per se" under the language of the constitution covering "cruel or unusual punishment," the fat was in the political fire. Justice Wright had written a singularly humane and civilized opinion in which he said:

"Penologists and medical experts agree that the process of carrying out the verdict is often so degrading and brutalizing to the human spirit as to constitute psychological torture."

Reagan promptly criticized the court's opinion, stating his belief that the death penalty was necessary as a deterrent to crime. This has never been proved statistically. In fact where the penalty has been abolished the rate of crimes of violence has declined.

STATE SEN. George Deukmejian, who ran unsuccessfully against Younger in the Republican primary for attorney general two years ago, put in a resolution which would restore the death penalty. But this requires a two-thirds vote in each chamber of the Legislature and moreover it is unlikely that the resolution will ever reach the Senate floor.

Younger has asked the Supreme Court in Washington to nullify the action of the state court. But the highest court in the land has already been charged with the explosive issue of the death penalty. Already argued and waiting decision is whether the penalty constitutes "cruel and unusual punishment" under the Eighth Amendment. Nationwide perhaps as many as 701 death sentences turn on the court's decision.

The decision of the court will have loud repercussions in the "law and order" syndrome. Younger's staff expresses doubts about a decision by the United States Supreme Court against the death penalty and whether it would prevail in California.

Justice Wright was asked on television if Governor Reagan had sounded him on his opinion of the death penalty before naming him to the state court. Replying in the negative, he said that much of the mail he is receiving is violent in tone. The mail to Younger's office in Los Angeles is running 15 to 20 to one in favor of the death penalty.

If the United States Supreme Court has not passed on the issue by June 6, the date of the last presidential primary, the issue of the death penalty will loom large. It cannot easily be shrugged off.

California Welfare Board Brings Illegitimacy Into Focus

The California Social Welfare Board has raised for public debate one of the touchiest questions in contemporary American life.

Does a woman have a right to go on having one illegitimate child after another, allowing them to grow up in squalor and neglect, and counting on the government to support her and them?

Though seldom put quite so bluntly, this is the real emotional issue behind much discussion of welfare reform, particularly the "aid to dependent children" program.

UNFORTUNATELY, the discussion has tended hitherto to focus around the question of money. Critics argued, with varying degrees of circumlocution, that it was costing hard-working taxpayers too much to maintan a lot of lazy, promiscouous unwed mothers and their progeny.

The discussion was further complicated by racial overtones, stemming from the seldom-mentioned but universally recognized fact that illegitimacy and dependency are more commonplace among blacks than whites.

The California Social Welfare Board now has shifted the focus of this debate from what welfare is costing to what is best for the children who are born — unplanned and often unwanted — into fatherless households.

THE BOARD REACHED some drastic conclusions. It recommended legislation to empower the state to take away and place for adoption any illegitimate baby borne by a woman who already has had two or more children out of wedlock.

Mrs. Dorothy Natland, a member of the board, said years of sociologial study had convinced her women who are chronic repeaters in illegitimate pregnancy are very likely to be "unfit mothers" who provide wantonly indifferent care for their children.

"After several years of living in such a home, children have built-in emotional problems" that cannot easily be overcome by adoptive parents or by special schools or day-care centers, she said.

"When a child has the chance of a good home with adopted parents, that child has a right to have that home," contended Mrs. Natland.

THE BOARD'S CHAIRMAN, Robert Mitchell, conceded that the proposal is provocative and apt to cause controversy. He emphasized that any mother faced with loss of a child would have the right to a court hearing if she wanted to keep it and felt she could provide it a decent home.

People will react differently to the California board's proposal. But most Americans probably will agree with Mitchell that it's time to center the discussion, not on money, but on "the rights, physical well-being and social development of these youngsters."

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

April 11, 1962

Two out of four women candidates for city council positions in Marin won election. One of the losers was Sally Stanford in Sausalito.

Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy, Marin County medical director, was granted a permit by the San Rafael Planning Commission to build a 90-bed convalescent hospital between Nova Albion Way and Trellis Drive with which he planned to replace the condemned county hospital in Lucas Valley.

20 YEARS AGO

April 11, 1952

John Harrison, executive secretary of the Bay Region Water Pollution Control Board, said a county-wide sanitary system might be proposed for Marin.

Marin veterans' organizations agreed to investigate possibility of releasing $80,000 in the county's war memorial fund for purchase of a county fairgrounds site.

The Big Guy Has To Pay For Those Unkept Promises

WASHINGTON — There are two important people that all presidential candidates must deal with if they ever hope to get any votes.

There is the big man and the little man. The big man is the candidate's source of funds, and the little man is the candidate's source of discontent. Nobody, including Richard Nixon, can win in November unless he makes peace with both of them.

THE PRESIDENT of a large corporation called in his public relations vice president the other day and said in a fury: "What the heck is going on here? We gave this guy $50,000 and he's attacking big business."

"There's nothing to worry about, chief. He has to attack big business to placate the little guy who is fed up with high taxes, high prices and bureaucratic bungling. The little guy feels he has no control of his destiny."

"Well if our man feels that strongly about the little guy, why does he come to the big guy for political campaign contributions?"

"Because, chief, he needs the money to buy television time to attack us."

"THAT'S JUST dandy. But if he feels that way, why should we give him any contribution?"

"Because, chief, we have a lot to gain by it."

"Why do we have a lot to gain, damn it?"

"Because if the big guy doesn't give to the presidential candidate, the candidate won't be indebted to us if he wins the election. If he isn't indebted to us, he might well carry out the promises he made to the little guy."

"It sounds pretty complicated to me. Look at this in the newspaper. Our candidate says the first thing he will do, if elected, is close all the tax loopholes and make the big guys pay what they really should."

"Exactly. If he didn't say anything about tax reform, he wouldn't have a Chinaman's chance of winning the election. We don't want to give $50,000 to a guy who is a sure loser."

"Then he says he's going to make sure the large corporations are penalized for polluting the air and the water."

"The little guy digs that, chief. He likes to believe the big guy is destroying the country."

"WELL, WHY DON'T you have our candidate tell the little guy if we didn't pollute, he wouldn't have a job?"

"You don't bring that up during a presidential election campaign. Once our man is in, then he can say it.

"Chief, I know it's not much fun to see a candidate you gave $50,000 to take you over the coals, but this is politics. The little guy still has the votes, and in order for the big guy to stay in business you have to be the heavy. Now I spoke to our candidate the other day, and he says next week he's going to attack the conglomerates and propose they be broken up."

"But we're a conglomerate!"

"That's why he told me. He says he could use $25,000 more to make sure the attack gets the widest distribution."

"I'M NOT GOING to give $25,000 to someone who wants to break up my company."

"We have to, chief. The surveys show that the little guy fears conglomerates almost as much as busing. If our candidate's attack on conglomerates works, he could pick up 100 delegates. I think we ought to give him the $25,000 to protect our $50,000."

"And what if the little guy doesn't think breaking up conglomerates is enough?"

"Then our candidate is going to promise the little man that he'll confiscate all private property."

"Yoicks!"

Man Admits Mill Valley Home Theft

Walter Sidney Boatwright, 22, of Concord pleaded guilty yesterday in Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a Mill Valley residence last summer.

Following the change of plea, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, in accordance with agreement reached in pretrial conferences, dismissed a charge of concealing stolen property.

Boatwright was arrested in February on a warrant stemming from the burglary. He allegedly sold property taken in the burglary of a San Anselmo home where he had worked as a gardener.

Sentencing was set for May 8.

ABAG Asks To Add Members

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Association of Bay Area Government officials yesterday urged state legislation to give the association powers to force cities and counties to join ABAG and follow its plans.

The ABAG officials, testifying before the Senate Local Government Committee, also made a strong pitch for a regional tax to support such a strong regional government.

The committee, which met in the State Building, is drafting legislation for next year's session "to facilitate better planning," said chairman Milton Marks, R-San Francisco.

Association president Donald Dillon, a Fremont city councilman, conceded under questioning that the mandatory membership and planning powers would be "a displacement of local control." He argued, however, that such a powerful ABAG would be "an extension of local control."

Dillon testified that "had ABAG and the Bay Area waited for the state to act" on problems of the region, "the region would probably be classified as a disaster area instead of an urban area with problems."

The committee did not indicate how far it would go in tailoring its legislative proposals to suit the pleas by the ABAG officials. A sign of ABAG's growing repute in Sacramento, however, may be seen in the fact this is the first legislative session in several years without a bill to replace ABAG with a new regional agency run by directly elected officials.

The association, run by city councilmen and county supervisors, has opposed such past legislation. Membership in ABAG now is voluntary, and members are not bound by its plans.

Dillon acknowledged that ABAG's many plans now "are simply policy statements," lacking teeth because they are not backed by enforceable local zoning.

He noted that 85 cities in the region were members of ABAG, and that Solano was alone among the nine counties declining membership. Sonoma County citizens, he added, have voted to withdraw if a North Coast planning agency is created.

Mandatory powers, Dillon declared, "would take this albatross of voluntarism off the back of ABAG" and give ABAG the ability to resolve regional issues that otherwise cannot be solved.

He insisted that "ABAG is not looking for another layer of government. We want to extend local control to problems that go beyond our cities and counties."

Thursday Meeting

TAXES TAKE MORE OUT OF YOUR DAY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average American spends about a quarter of his work week in the employ of government taxmen, according to Tax Foundation Inc., a nonprofit research organization.

The foundation reported Monday that two hours and 34 minutes of a normal eight-hour work day are needed to pay federal, state and local taxes. Five years ago it took only two hours and 26 minutes to satisfy tax requirements.

The working time required to pay all direct taxes, excluding hidden taxes, is greater than that required to meet the average worker's basic needs: food, clothing and shelter, items that require only two hours and 31 minutes of the work day, the foundation reported.

Council Told Home Limit May Be Illegal

The Petaluma City council last night sifted through a proposed policy on limiting residential growth and was warned that it is treading on untested legal grounds.

The policy would limit growth to 500 new living units per year. Of that number, a maximum of 250 would be built on the eastside with the remainder on the westside. Applications received before the moratorium was declared more than a year ago already fill the 500-unit limit for the 1972-73 year.

If the resolution is approved at the council meeting next Monday, developers will have one month next fall in which to submit all proposed building plans for the 1973-74 year. The plans would be considered in October so that developers selected could have plans processed and ready for the start of the construction season in April or May. The council resolution would also call for an annual review of the growth policy every August.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert warned the council that although similar policies are being considered by other cities, the legality has not been tested and Petaluma could be headed for the courts.

"From their letters, the developers appear to be cooperative and willing to go along with it, but that may change and new developers may come along," he said.

Mayor Helen Putnam and the council agreed that the plan should at least be tried and could set a precedent that other larger California cities might want to follow.

The planning commission's recommendation to name an eight-member screening committee to select developments to send to the planning commission was raised by Councilman Robert E. Daly, but drew little support.

The resolution would permit a developer to sell land and development plans if the buyer agreed to follow the plan as approved by the city council. The council had originally considered making the building permits non-transferrable to prevent speculation.

The council said it would also consider ammending the policy to show that a developer can receive a committment for more than one year in a case where a large investment must be made in capital improvements.

Private Firm Attacks Golden Gate District Ferry System

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Golden Gate Bridge District's planned ferry system will disrupt and damage the ecology of the bay and shoreline areas adjacent to terminals, according to consultants hired by a private ferry company.

Harbor Tug and Barge Co. of San Francisco, has been trying to block the district's pending application for almost $13 million in federal funds toward the $19 million ferry system.

The company had charged that ferry passengers require a far heavier subsidy from distirct revenues than bus passengers, but the district has retorted that the opposite is true.

Turning to environmental arguments, the company yestrday issued "review" of the environmental impact statement the bridge district filed with its application for federal funds. The statement was done for the district by Kaiser Engineers of Oakland, and reviewed for the company by Environmental Impact Planning Corp. of San Francisco.

To carry some 2,000 commuters a day, the consultants said, tha planned terminal at Larkspur will result in "the destruction of some marshlands and mudflats, a potential air and water pollution problem, traffic congestion, and imposition of noise and visual pollution upon a semi-rural setting."

The consultants recommended that the Central Varin terminal instead be on Paradise Drive in Corte Madera or San Quentin Point to avoid "massive filling and dredging."

In any event, they predicted in their report to Harbor Tug, "that this highly tenuous commuting scheme will get a substantial ridership is doubtful, to say the least."

The bridge district's statement, the company's consultants said, should provide far more detail about potential problems from disposing of dredged mud, which may be high in poisonous metals.

The consultants also objected that the system will interfere with recreational boating, and that a breakwater at its San Francisco terminal could cause current changes to undermine the Ferry Building.

Instead of a ferry system, the consultants concluded, the district could hike tolls for motorists commuting alone, provide separate freeway lanes for buses and use air cushion vehicles on the bay — which would not require dredging.

(District officials have rejected differential tolls, arguing collecting them would back up traffic because of the extra seconds needed to check each car. A freeway lane for buses will be reserved on the Waldo Grade by midsummer, according to state plans. No practical air cushion vehicles exists yet, district officials have decided.)

Four Month Strike Over At Airwest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The four-month strike by mechanics and aircraft cleaners against Hughes Airwest is over.

The 570 members of the Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association reported Monday that they have ratified a new contract worked out several weeks ago under the guidance of a federal mediator.

The walkout began Dec. 15, but supervisory personnel were used to maintain partial service.

Airwest said that next week it would add 303 weekly aircraft departures to the 2,130 which have been operating since March 13.

INVITATION TO LINGER, LOITER OR STROLL

Steps leading down from Seventh Street south of Novato Creek, are the beginning of the path that is being constructed along the creek behind Sambo's Restaurant, the Novato Branch of Marin County Library and the adjacent medical center. LeRoy M. Gerner of the Novato Civic Foundation has designed the landscaped pathway and guided its construction. When completed, the landscaped areas will have benches for resting. The curving path weaves in and out between the big trees in back of the library which barely can be seen in back of the big tree in the foreground. A specially designed footbridge leads from the pathway to the Novato Fair Shopping Center which is to the right. So far the pathway has cost $3,100 in materials with much of the materials and all the labor being donated.

Driver, 19 Not Burned In Accident

A 19-year-old Bel Marin Keys driver escaped from a burning truck today after it struck a tree along Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, south of Hamilton Drive, according to Novato police.

The driver, Rocky Gene Hawkins of 137 Caribe Isle told police sparks from under the dashboard ignited a can of gasoline with a rag stopper which was on the floorboard. He was distracted and the truck hit a tree at 3 a.m.

Hawkins was discovered unconscious near the burning truck. He told police he remembered getting out of the truck before losing consciousness. He was admitted to Novato General Hospital for observation.

Fire Chief Jack Kidder estimated the damage to the truck at $1,000.

Unidentified Man Found Shot Dead

The body of an unidentified man with a bullet wound in his chest was found near Washington Park Circle on the Panoramic Highway about 4:40 p.m. yesterday, according to the Marin County coroner.

The man, in his early 20s, had a typed suicide note in his pocket, the coroner said, but no identification. A .32 caliber pistol was found on the ground by his side. Coroner's officials said he had been seen earlier in the day in Mill Valley hitchhiking up Miller Avenue.

They said he had red hair, hazel eyes and a playboy bunny tatooed on his left forearm. His body was taken to Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley after he was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital.

Dixie Board Gears For Student Drop

With school enrollment dropping 200 pupils next year, the Dixie School District board last night combined two administrative posts and set a lottery to determine which teachers will be let go with elimination of 14 jobs next year.

The board also, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell, granted the request of William Cheney, principal of Miller Creek School, and Michael R. Glose, principal of Nova Albion School, to return to teaching jobs at their respective schools.

The board then assigned John D. King as principal of Nova Albion School. King, who has been director of personnel, will continue in that position also, thus eliminating one administrator from the district, Campbell said. The district must now recruit a new principal for Miller Creek School, he said.

The reduction in the administration personnel will save the district approximately $20,000 per year, Campbell said.

The board set 3:45 p.m., April 19 for a lottery in the administration building to select the teachers to be let go next school year.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

UNIFICATION — Approved a fact sheet prepared by the Dixie Citizens Advisory Group on unification with San Rafael school district at the June 6 primary election. The San Rafael Board of Education approved the same fact sheet on March 29, Campbell said. The committee will now prepare a supplementary sheet giving the pros and cons for the proposed unifcation.

SALARIES — The Dixie Teachers Association asked for a 3.6 per cent increase in salaries to cover cost of living increase. The board took it under advisement until it had all wage proposals at budget time, Campbell said.

DENTAL — Approved increasing the premium for California Dental Service from $6.12 to $7.52 per month per employee.

LEAVE POLICY — Changed the deadline for employees notifying the district that they will return to work from April 15 to Feb. 15 of each year. This is to conform to the new state law that requires the district to notify teachers by March 15 if they are to be kept in district, Campbell said.

LEAVES — Granted maternity leaves to Janet Wetheimer, and Holly Kaufman and study leaves to Sue Kramer and Douglas Perrin for next school year. It extended for another year, the leave of Janet Reamer, now working at Dominican College doing educational research.

APPLICATION — Approved a $35,915 application for Title III National Defense Education Act funds for reading and industrial arts equipment.

TRANSFER — Authorized the transfer of $23,000 from the teacher's salary budget to the classified salary budget.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Named two principals for the upper grades and eight teachers in charge of the eight elementary school summer school programs from June 26 through July 28. The principals will receive $1,400 and the teachers $800.

CAPITAL OUTLAY — Approved capital outlay of $900 for two softball backstops at Dixie and Oak View schools; $800 for fencing at Santa Margarita school; $5,000 for timber form playground equipment at Dixie schools with the parent group paying $2,700 of the amount.

INSURANCE — Authorized unemployment insurance for the classified employees, as now required by law, at a cost of $13,000 annually.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Bettie Lefkin who is retiring after 15 years teaching in the district; teacher Patricia Kimball now on leave and Charles Kline, foreman-mechanic in the transportation department.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. April 26.

Prison Inmate Reported Missing

A 23-year-old San Quentin inmate decamped Saturday night from the ranch outside the gate, according to John N. Apostol, officer of the day.

John Charles Hunt, who was due for parole on Aug. 6 of this year, was last seen at 10 p.m. and was missing from the 10:30 p.m. count, Apostol said. Hunt came to San Quentin on Feb. 23 this year sentenced in San Mateo County for receiving stolen property, Apostol said.

Kentfield Board Takes Look At Tentative Budget

The Kentfield School District board reviewed a tentative budget of $1,593,095, but took no action on the proposed spending program, according to Supt. Anthony G. Bacich.

The budget, which does not include any salary schedule increases for district employees, is almost $45,000 less than last year's actual budget of $1,638,865.00, according to Bacich. It does include the annual step increases.

In addition, this year's budget includes 10 to 15 per cent increases in health and welfare benefits for all employees, according to Bacich.

If the assessed valuation of property in Kentfield goes up by 3 per cent as expected, said Bacich, the tax rate will drop from $3.115 per $100 assessed valuation to $3.085.

Bacich said the district would have to pay an additional $10,000 for every one per cent increase in salaries approved by the board.

The reduction of $45,000 in this year's budget was achieved through the elimination of four teaching positions and the termination of an outside landscape maintenance contract.

Because of reduced pupil enrollments, Bacich said, the district is not filling four positions vacated through retirements, saving about $40,000.

The district's regular staff will handle the landscape maintenance, according to Bacich, saving $4,600.

New expenses proposed include $2,000 to cover salaries for the district's ecology courses and $2,000 for staff development of a multi-ethnic curriculum.

The Kentfield School District board also:

RETIREMENT — Accepted retirement of Honor Brown, a kindergarden teacher at A. E. Kent Elementary School, who has worked for the district for 17 years.

COOPERATION — Authorized Bacich to meet with the Ross School District superintendent to plan for cooperation between districts on services, personnel and facilities.

GIFTS — Accepted a trumpet, a saxophone and two clarinets for the instrumental music program from Dr. and Mrs. Richard Marchand, of 85 Corte Baristo.

Highway Lane Will Be Closed

One northbound lane of Highway 101 between the Marin City offramp and the north end of Richardson Bay Bridge has been closed to traffic this week daily between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Two lanes will be kept open at all times, Dist. Engineer Thomas R. Lammers said.

The closing is necessary for restriping of lanes to narrow the width in order to provide working space adjacent to the old bridge railing which must be removed, Lammers uaid.

Marines Set Marin School Art Contest

An art contest to draw the bulldog-symbol of the Marines has been announced for all high school students in Marin County by the Marine Corps.

Three prizes will be given — a $50 savings bond for first place, a $25 savings bonds for second place and a $10 gift certificate for third place. Students may get additional information from the art department at the school or by contacting the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in San Rafael.

Ross School Trustees Open Round On Budget

Ross School District trustees last night reviewed the first draft of the $555,520 budget for fiscal 1972-73 and teachers requests for a salary increase, but took no action on either item said Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

The preliminary budget for next year is $21,759 more than the current $533,761 budget. (The Independent-Journal errered yesterday in reporting that the preliminary budget was $635,000)

The increase in the proposed budget would not change the tax rate of $3.35 cents per $100 assessed valuation, Anderson said.

The trustees held a closed session to discuss the teachers request for a 5.5 per cent increase, medical insurance to cover the employee and dependents, medical insurance for retired teachers and increase in the pay for coaches, Anderson said.

These items could cost the district between $29,000 and $54,000 per year for the district's 26 teachers, he said.

Kidnaped Fiat Exec Found Dead

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)-An Argentine government spokesman said yesterday the body of kidnaped Fiat executive Oberdan Sallustro, 56, was found in a house in a southwestern suburb of Buenos Aires.

The Italian national general manager of the local Fiat complex was kidnaped from his car a block from his home on March 21 by the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), a Trotskyite commando group.

The government refused to negotiate with the kidnapers and forbade Fiat to meet any of the ransom demands— including the distribution of $1 million worth of school supplies to poor children and the publication of an ERP propaganda message.

Jail, Probation In Auto Theft

Richard Lee Schmidt, 20, of Santa Rosa was sentenced yesterday to six months in the county jail and put on three years probation for car theft by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

Schmidt was arrested in December by Sonoma authorities on a warrant charging him with the theft of two vehicles.

He was accused of stealing a car in Sonoma County, then abandoning it in Nicasio where he allegedly stole another car, belonging to a local man.

Alas! Women's Work Still Never Done, Study Shows

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The saying that women's work is never done seems truer today than ever before.

Oh yes, there are all the labor savers and conveniences technology has thought up to ease our load. But consider that the number of women who work outside the home is an "explosion", as one source puts it. More than half of all women between the ages of 18 and 64 now hold jobs, a total of 31.5 million (U.S. Labor Department estimate). Most of them also run households—and just about run themselves ragged unless they can afford household help.

One of the big jobs of running a home is running the food department, and "by and large, the working woman either does not or can not delegate this job," reports the Bureau of Advertising.

THE BUREAU, seeking to determine the influence the working wives "explosion" was having on food buying patterns, hired Response Analysis, Inc., of Princeton, N.J., to do a national "probability sample" of 1,000 women.

Leo Bogart, executive vice president and general manager of the Bureau, reported on some of the findings.

The responsibility for food shopping seems most firmly established among women in the middle and upper income families. It is in the lower income households that men are most likely to share the food shopping chores.

But because she devotes less time to shopping, the working wife usually spends it in only one supermarket. The sampling also found:

—Some 77 per cent of working wives say they do most of the food shopping compared to 83 per cent of the women who stay home.

—About one out of three married shoppers (31 per cent of the working wives and 33 per cent of the fulltime housewives) say their husbands go along on the food buying trip most of the time.

—Nine out of 10 women shop mainly in supermarkets. The typical housewife has about three supermarkets located conveniently near her home.

—Seventy per cent of women who work do major shopping only one day a week.

—Among fulltime housewives, 41 per cent report that Friday is their usual food buying day and 21 per cent named Saturday.

—MORNING AND early afternoon food shopping is almost twice as common among housewives (64 per cent) as among fulltime working women (35 per cent). Conversely, those who work fulltime are much more likely to shop late afternoons or evenings.

—Two thirds of the women interviewed reported they go to the store with a shopping list. They make up their lists by checking their supplies on hand (86 per cent), checking advertising for specials (79 per cent) and asking the family (58 per cent).

—Among those who consult advertising when making up a list' 83 per cent look in newspapers (82 per cent of housewives, 85 of the working women).

BATTLE WITH ALCOHOLISM

Mercedes McCambridge — Back Up A Long, Long Road

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Alcohol for me can mean one of two things — insanity or death," Mercedes McCambridge, the actress, puts a growing national problem in those words as they apply to her, a recovered alcoholic.

The 54-year old actress, originally from Jolie, Ill., knowing what alcoholism did to her life, now is putting herself in the spotlight for the National Council on Alcoholism, spending part of each year speaking to groups on campus, at clubs, business firms, on television, anywhere to get across the message of alcohol's potential destructiveness.

Because of her one-woman campaign, the council at its annual meeting this week in Kansas City will honor her with its Gold Key award. Only one other woman, Marty Mann, who helped to pioneer the council, has been so cited.

"Alcoholism is the nation's number one drug problem," Miss McCambridge said in an interview in New York.

A RECENT study from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) reinforces her statement with ome statistics on the consequences of heavy drinking. It said that many persons who consider themselves merely social drinkers may be surprised to find that they are heavy drinkers, defined as those who take a drink nearly every day or consume five or more drinks at a time at intervals of about a week.

The HEW report places 12 per cent of all American adults in the heavy drinking category and maintains that nearly half of them have serious problems with liquor.

Miss McCambridge said the council estimates there are nine million alcoholics in the country —"and that's a rock bottom statistic. These are nine million desperately ill people."

Miss McCambridge abhors the effects alcohol is having on our teen-agers —"52 per cent of those in serious trouble (drugs, venereal disease, illegitimacy) come from alcoholic homes," she said. "If a child could just be brought up to know that this is a disease and he can get it..."

The auburn-haired actress, who won an Academy Award for her first movie, "All the King's Men" in 1950, said she had her first hard drink when a student at Mundelein College in Chicago.

"IT MADE me sick then," she said, "but I'm convinced I was born an alcoholic. My body chemistry was all set for it."

Miss McCambridge traced some of her gradual increase in the use of alcohol to her strict family upbringing. "I was told you are born guilty," she said. "My God was a vengeful God. You can't indoctrinate a girl for 16 years that her body is a temple for the holy spirit and not get some reaction. I drank to get to the other side of sin."

The breakup of her two marriages and the loss of two children stillborn didn't help. But she says the "very fine line" of slipping from social ingestion to "where the drug takes over" is hard to define.

Eight years ago, pneumonia put her in Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York and also helped start her on the road to sobriety. She cited specifically a conversation she had with Dr. Stanley Gitlow of the Sinai medical and teaching staff who's done a lot of work with problems of alcoholism.

He told her, "You have a treatable disease. No one here is judging you. They're treating you."

ONCE DETOXIFIED and also rid of her pneumonia, she came out of the hospital with the acceptance that alocholism was a disease—"not one that is curable... there is no cure. But it can be controlled.

"I just asked for the understanding of the people close to me as I worked my way back."

The alcoholic, she feels, is just one victim of the "essential loneliness that is responsible for much of the rage and frustration of our time.

"One third of this country is on something!"

Her Boy Friends Must Pass Dad's Inspection — Eight Times

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My father won't let me date unless he gets to know the guy. That means the boy has to come down to my house about 10 times (no less than eight) just to talk to my parents.

Then, if dad's "requirements" aren't met (in everything from length of hair to politics(I've gone through all that for nothing, because I can't go out with the guy.

Besides, what fella will visit a girl's parents eight times just for a date? I haven't dated yet. Guess this answers the question.

I'm a 16-year-old girl who tries to see my parents' side, but the truth is father doesn't always know best (even if mother says he's boss). — MIXED UP

DEAR M.U.:

You hit it right on the nose: parents aren't always right, just because they're "the bosses," or "have been through it."

Try for a calm talk with your father. Ask him why he thinks your judgment is so poor and when will he consider you old enough to know which boys are right and which aren't? Imply that he should have more faith in a daughter he's raised so well. Show him you can discuss without getting mad, but make it definite you believe 10 interviews are at least nine too many. Good luck. — SUE

DEAR MIXED UP:

You might also ask your mother about her dating days: If her parents (your grandparents) were as rigid as your dad, how did she ever break loose? Did your father pass the 10-inspection test?

I think he, like a lot of skittery parents, has laid down a law before investigating the facts. He'll soften — with your mom's help — once he starts meeting a few boys..... So don't scare them off by telling them about "the rule." — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I was in a car accident two months ago, and was left with a bad scar on my face. It's terribly ugly. Now that I am back in school, I find my friends are my enemies. They hate me because my scar makes me different and not pretty any more.

Even my parents treat me like I don't belong to them. Don't give me that stuff about a counselor — he'd hate my looks too. Socially conscious people can't stand to be embarrassed by being seen with me. Is there any hope? — THE OUTCAST

DEAR OUTCAST:

I think your scar is much bigger to you than to anyone else. No one will desert you because you've been hurt — but they'll leave you alone if you close them out. Are you sure the biggest scar isn't inside? — SUE

DEAR OUTCAST:

Learn to talk about your scar, naturally and without shame. Find makeup that will minimize it — and look forward to plastic surgery that, combined with cosmetics, does marvelous transformations these days. — HELEN

RICHARD RUSH

Author, Art Enthusiast To Speak

Richard Rush, art collector, author and columnist, will speak on "Antiques for Fun and Profit" as the final program in the A.M. series on Friday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The Family Service League of Marin is the sponsor for the 10:30 a.m. program. A coffee hour will precede the talk.

The economist, financier and former corporation president who, with his wife, began collecting old master paintings and antique furniture as a hobby on a little more than a shoestring in the 1950s, now has a collection valued at more than a million dollars. They have recently added to their collection the Villa Comaro, designed and built in the 16th Century by Andrea Palladio near Venice. Both husband and wife are now restoring this villa and plan to furnish it with Italian antiques of the period.

In his program Rush will describe which schools of art are increasing in value and discuss some of the painting "discoveries" he has made. He feels that the quest for an old master is one of the most thrilling sports in the world, but he adds that without knowing what you are doing it can be a waste of time and money. Collectors who are careful can enjoy their collection, decorate their homes, and make a sound investment at the same time, he said.

Rush's writings are almost equally divided between his business as a financier and his hobby as an art and antique collector. He has written "Art As An Investment," "Antiques as an Investment," "The Techniques of Becoming Wealthy" and "A Strategy of Investing for Higher Return." He writes a weekly column for the Wall Street Transcript and one for the Connoisseur's Corner, a publication for United Nations personnel.

The Richard H. Rush Collection of Old Master paintings has been exhibited in several museums and he and his wife have given a collection of paintings to Dartmouth College, the College of the City of New York and Finch College.

Bedroom Switch: Get Rid Of That Heavy Looking Furniture

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
(Distributed by General Features Corp.)

There's little reason to buy heavy furnishings for our sleep rooms, yet almost consistently the stores seem to advertise and display rather overpowering wood headboards, armoires and chests as well as showing heavy drapery treatments in bed settings.

Once in a while it's a nice change, even in a master bedroom, to eliminate all that heavy looking furniture and switch to a gleaming brass headboard or some of the lighter looking wicker styles.

It's easy to find wicker and woven rattan in lacy designs, but there also are some clean-lined wicker groups being offered now. Some manufacturers are using the Parsons-type outline with square corners; others are adding campaign-type brass trim.

The summery look of wicker encourages one to look for brighter florals and more cheerful solids colors in curtain, drapery and bedspread treatment. And if you find fabric in an easily washable weight, there may be a fun way to use it as wallcovering, too.

The idea is one you might consider for interim decorating. It's temporary solution, one that's used to conceal an old paint job or a wall in need or repair. A printed sheer fabric can be cut into lengths equal to the measure of the room's floor-to ceiling height (with extra yardage allowed for simple home). The panels of fabric can then be shirred onto curtain rods and the rods attached to the wall. You might use screw-in hooks to support the rods, instead of fancy hardware which takes longer and is more expensive.

The whole wall in back of the bed might be covered with this shirred fabric, or use only two panels at either side as a kind of frame.

Wicker also recalls the beds of the tropics swathed in their mosquito netting. While mosquitoes may not be your summer sleep problem, there are good uses for a canopy in many an older house.

Aside from the sheer prettiness, bed draperies can help keep drafts away. If your bed has to be positioned between the cross flow of air, you probably have some drafty nights, winter and summer.

You can correct that climate problem by creating a mock canopy above the head of your bed. Start by attaching vertical wood boards, floor-to-ceiling, at either side of your bed. Then nail boards to the ceiling in the shape of a miniature canopy. Boards 1 by 12 in. are about the right size. Cut them the full width of the bed, but about ⅓ of the length. That concentrates the canopy at the head of the bed.

The same sheer fabric used for curtains can be shirred onto rods and attached to the inside of the ceiling boards. Then a contrasting, solid-colored fabric can be cut and hemmed the shape of a cornice to cover the outside of the canopy.

Tiebacks can hold the sheer fabric back against the two vertical posts. Even the posts can be covered with fabric before they're installed or they can be painted white.

Most men will lie still for this kind of partial canopy, while they might bolt at the sight of a super frilly four-poster bed.

Crowe Says Orr 'Didn't Do Job'

By FRANK FARRARA

Fairfax City Administrator Robert E. Crowe testified yesterday that he never threatened former Police Chief James R. Orr with discipline or dismissal before he fired him last September.

His prefiring talks with Orr, however, carried the implication that "if a man at a professional level doesn't do his ob, you're going to find someone who can," Crowe said.

Crowe was the lone witness at the Fairfax Board of Review's 35th session on Orr's appeal of his firing; a hearing that began five months ago.

ILLNESS IN FAMILY

During the two-hour session, Chairman Freeman Blake quizzed Crowe to determine if Orr had been aware of the seriousness of the situation, if he had been given any guidelines or deadlines for improvement of the department or warned before his dismissal.

Orr was scheduled to answer the same questions, but Blake ended the session shortly after 5 p.m. because of illness in his family.

Crowe fired Orr, police chief for nine years, on Sept. 30 and the firing was upheld by the Fairfax City Council four days later by a 3-2 vote.

Crowe related the events leading up to the firing starting with a "friendly conservation" with Orr last April about problems in the department. He listed them as poor administration, lack of control, poor morale, poor enforcement of departure rules, favoratism and lack of community relations.

Blake asked Crowe is he had given Orr deadlines for making improvements, and Crowe said he hadn't but expected Orr to "start working" on changes immediately.

Orr failed to act on any of the deficiences and in July "I had just about had it," Crowe said. At that time Crowe said he issued a series of directives on operation of the department, "thinking it would prod him to get things done."

ITEM BY ITEM

Freeman questioned Crowe item by item, starting with the enforcement of rules in the department.

At one point, Orr's attorney, Robert Shaw, said that Crowe was "going far afield" and wasn't being responsive to Blake's questions.

City Atty. Wallace S. Myers agreed and told Crowe, "You ought to answer the questions directly."

Crowe said the police department rules were "out of date nd inadequate."

Blake asked, "Were any guidelines suggested?" and Crowe said he suggested Orr get information from other departments on rules. Two months later, Orr hadn't done anything about the rules and explained "he had been busy," Crowe testified.

"Did you suggest the consequences of failure?" Blake asked.

"No, when you are dealing with a supposed professional, I don't think you have to spell out . . . when you don't do your job, something will happen," Crowe said.

Crowe said he discussed "low morale" with Orr last April.

Blake asked if Crowe proposed any specific changes, and he said, "one was changing shifts. Some officers had been on the same shift year after year . . . I did give a deadline on that, but I don't remember it now."

Orr met the deadline for the changes, but didn't meet the deadline for submitting the shift list to him, Crowe said.

"What was the most serious aspect of low morale," Blake asked.

"The most serious from the point of view of officers was the relative position of the clerk (Marsha S. Kittleman) and her relationship to officers," Crowe said.

He charged that Orr showed favoritism toward Mrs. Kittleman and Blake asked: "Did you advise him what you expected in changes regarding to her?"

"I discussed more of what she should do and not do," Crowe said. "She should not be giving orders and directions to the deparmtent and should be doing clerical work."

CLAIMS TARDINESS

He said he discussed Mrs. Kittleman's "lack of punctuality." Crowe said he sometimes arrived at work early. "I would stand there and wait until she arrived," and she was tardy at least 15 times, he said.

When he mentioned it to Orr, "most of the time he had excuses before he talked to her," he said.

Crowe also said there was "lack of control" with "officers in the office for long periods" of time without reason, and a lack of proper equipment for the department.

He also said he returned the department budget to Orr four times because it wasn't suitable . . . "with items not explained or justified."

"What help did you offer?" Blake asked.

"I assumed in nine years he would have learned how," Crowe said. "My concern was he didn't seem to know why he would request certain amounts. He'd say, 'Well, it was there last year'."

The hearing was continued until 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Academy Honors Charlie Chaplin

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jane Fonda and Gene Hackman won Academy Awards Monday night and "The French Connection" was named best picture, but Hollywood's accolades and a standing ovation were saved for the return of Charlie Chaplin to the town he helped make famous more than a half a century ago.

"The French Connection," in addition to its Oscar for the best picture of 1971 in the 44th annual Academy Awards presentations, led all other films with a total of five awards.

But it was the frail, white-haired film pioneer who was the dramatic star of the night, weeping with emotion as he embraced a Hollywood that exiled him more than 20 years ago.

In the finale of the 2 1-2-hour awards presentations, Chaplin came on stage with his trademark cane and derby, mementoes of the Little Tramp which brought him fame.

He told 2,900 celebrities in the Los Angeles Music Center, and millions of television viewers, "Oh, thank you so much. This is an emotional moment for me. And words are so feeble and futile.

"Thank you for the honor of inviting me here. You are wonderful, sweet people."

Miss Fonda won her laurels portraying a call girl in "Klute." In a terse acceptance speech she said, "There is a great deal to say, and I'm not going to say it tonight."

Hackman won for his performance as the tough cop in "The French Connection." He thanked his first dramatic coach and his mother before he was overcome by emotion.

"The Last Picture Show," a story of a dying Texas town in the 1950s, provided both Oscars for supporting players.

Ben Johnson, an Oklahoma horse wrangler who came to Hollywood as a stunt man, was voted best supporting actor. Accepting the award, he cracked: "This couldn't have happpened o a nicer fella."

Cloris Leachman, who once played the mother on the "Lassie" TV show and currently is a regular on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show," won the Oscar for best supporting actress, portraying an aging, tragic housewife.

The Academy Award for best achievement in directing went to William Friedkin for "The French Connection."

Miss Fonda, a political activist, maintained her reserve backstage, telling newsmen she refrained from discussing her antiwar views "because it would have offended more people than anything else. I think everyone wants the war to end."

Friedkin said "The French Connection" had been an extremely difficult movie to film because "Gene Hackman's personality is as far as you can get from the role he played."

Hackman said "That's true. I'm a very sweet person, actually."

Hackman said he was so excited "I don't remember getting from my seat to the podium."

"The Garden of the Finzi Continis" was voted the best foreign language film of the year. Best song honors went to the theme from "Shaft."

The award show was hosted by former Academy Award winners Helen Hayes and Jack Lemmon, along with Alan King and Sammy Davis Jr.

Bob Hope, usually a fixture at Academy Award shows, was absent this year due to a conflict of television sponsors.

Preceding Chaplin's dramatic appearance at the conclusion of the awards, almost 10 minutes of film clips from his most beloved classics were shown, and received an outpouring of affectionate response.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Fast Discarding Can Save Bid — Never Drag Your Feet

If your opponents always made their best opening lead, you would have to give up playing bridge; no partner would have you. In real life, fortunately, opponents often make "normal" but ineffective opening leads. This is good for you, but not enough to guarantee your success. You must still take advantage of your good fortune.

Opening lead — ◇ J

SOUTH MAKES

If West were the seventh son of a seventh son he would lead a heart. East would take the ace of hearts and shift to the queen of clubs. That would be the end of poor South.

Actually, West leads the jack of diamonds — just like any normal human being. This permits South to make his contract.

Mind you, South can't sit back and let the hand play itself. If South wins the first trick and leads a trump with some vague plan of drawing trumps, he will go down. West will take the ace of spades, lead a heart to East and get a club return to defeat the contract.

SPEEDY ACTION

Speedy action is called for. South must win the ace of diamonds and promptly cash dummy's king and queen of diamonds. This enables him to discard a club from his hand.

Having obtained this discard, South can afford to go after the trumps. The defenders can take only their three aces, and South scores his game.

DISCARD FIRST

The point is that in some hands you must take a discard before you give up the lead. If you can draw trumps without giving up the lead, do so before you take your discard. If the opponents have the ace of trumps (or perhaps even the king), take your discard before drawing trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade and the next player doubles.

You hold:
♠- J 9 7 5
♥- 10 9 2
♦- K Q 5 3
♣- 7 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades.

This shows four or more trumps and about seven to nine points in support of partner's bid. The idea is to make life difficult for the opponents, not to invite your partner to go on to game. He needs a very good hand to make game.

S. C. (BRICK) MASTERSON
Wants death penalty restored

HITS TRIBUNAL

Jurist Outspoken On Death Penalty

By JEFF GREER

"I don't think there's anything at all mature about a society that lets people get away with murder," says Superior Court Judge S. C. (Brick) Masterson.

The Contra Costa County jurist, who maintains a home in San Rafael as well as across the bay, is outspoken in favor of restoring the death penalty in California.

He branded the California Supreme Court's recent decision that the death penalty is unconstitutional "a political decision" but not necessarily a legal or constitutional one.

As a result, he said, the six justices who rendered the decision should be put to political combat to keep their benches. Masterson would require justices to compete for reelection every six years.

The present system, the judge explained, only lets the voters say whether supreme court justices should be returned to the bench for another 12-year term.

Only if the majority vote is "no," is the door opened for someone to run against an incumbent supreme court justice in a later election. "That very nearly happened" in the last general election, Masterson noted. "Some of the negative votes ran as high as 42 per cent."

Masterson has received widespread publicity over his open letter attacking the Supreme Court for striking down the death penalty. He wrote the ruling was "a bad decision on the merits of this controversy" (over the 'cruel or unusual' clause in California's constitution) and was "an outrageous display of judicial arrogance" by judges who usurped the powers of the Legislature.

Masterson's strongly-worded letter was seconded by fellow Contra Costa Judge Norman A. Gregg who, like Masterson, intends to retire late this year.

"Other judges agreed with us, but we wouldn't let them sign the letter," Masterson said. "They still have to put up with those guys" — the defendants in murder and other major crime.

Masterson's stand has spurred hundreds of replies — nearly all favorable. One critic failed to understand that Masterson is even more concerned about the Supreme Court "usurping powers of the Legislature and the people" than about the death penalty. Another, the veteran judge said, wired him that "I was not a very humane person."

The tall, nearly bald judge sat up stiffly in his conservative dark suit and fingered his rancher's style felt hat.

"The Constitution provides that no one shall lose life, liberty or property without due process of law. But on the other hand, the constitution also says that with due process of law he can lose life, liberty or property," Masterson declared. "If the Constitution were amended to reestablish the death penalty, I'd certainly give it my support."

He has been a superior court judge since 1960 and said he never has pronounced a death sentence, adding, "I wouldn't enjoy it."

Masterson has practiced, interpreted or written California law ever since he graduated from the University of California just before World War II. Because of his stature — he's over 6 feet, 2 inches tall — and husky build, he has long been called "Brick." He said many persons therefore confuse him with the famous California athlete "Brick" Muller, who "preceded me in Berkeley by quite a few years."

Masterson put his law degree to work as a Contra Costa deputy district attorney until he became a judicial district judge, then moved into the Richmond Municipal Court in 1951. He was elected to the California Assembly shortly afterward, and wrote laws until he was appointed to the superior court bench in 1960.

In the Legislature, "I voted to abolish the death penalty three times," the judge recalled. "But not for persons with prior murder convictions." He noted that Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger also favored abolition of the death penalty in those days.

"At that time I was impressed with Earl Stanley Gardner's claims' that error had convicted and executed innocent men,'" Masterson explained. "But those were all old cases. What is called the lie detector would have cleared any innocent men."

The polygraph results are not admissible in court, he noted, but he declared, "contrary to popular thought, district attorneys don't prosecute innocent men."

The jurist said he favors retention of the law to let juries decide whether the death sentence should be imposed. "You are getting an expression of the community feeling" in such cases,, he said.

Masterson also criticized the California Supreme Court's ruling last year striking down school tax laws "but not saying what you've got to do" to finance education.

Masterson, following his retirement in December, will live full time in San Rafael with his wife, the former Shirley Duffy. She is a longtime Marin County resident. He said he does not expect to serve on the bench part time as do many retired judges. Rather, he said, he will open a private practice, probably in Richmond.

Father Asks To Be Trustee Of Son's Estate

The father of Alan Scott Harris, 26, has filed in Marin Superior Court to become trustee of the estate of his son, who has been missing since December on a boat in the Caribbean.

The father, Percy I. Harris of Tiburon, said in his petition his son's estate totals $28,421, including a partnership in Eriksson Spars of Mill Valley worth $7,500.

The remainder was in stocks and savings, according to the probate filing.

Harris disappeared on a small boat with 10 to 12 other persons. The boat left French Harbour, Roatan, Honduras, bound for Belize, British Honduras, but never arrived.

Intensive search failed to find the vessel, which at one point was reported in Cuba.

Plan Unit Disapproves 2 Proposals

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, meeting last night for three and a half hours before a packed house of about 80 people, expressed "unanimous disapproval" of plans for Johnny Ribeiro Builder's Casa Madera project on Tamal Vista Boulevard and rejected Frank Burke's latest design for a Corte Madera Marine Center.

Rubeiro has proposed 114 townhouse units on 7.8 acres across from the Department of Motor Vehicles on Tamal Vista Boulevard. The land is now unincorporated county property, but ultimately will be annexed to the city.

According to Zoning Administrator William McBride, commissioners objected to "excessive density" on the site, lack of recreational space and poor design in their rejection of the Casa Madera plans.

He noted the proposed density was contrary to the town's prezoning ordinance, with 114 units planned for 7.8 acres where the town recommends 75-80 units. Planners are also opposed to the large number of three-bedroom units proposed, McBride said.

He also said no annexation application has been filed by Ribeiro with Corte Madera for the ground, and offered the theory that the developer would rather build the units under county zoning because greater density is allowed.

Planners also acted to protect what McBride called "one of the few undisturbed marsh areas" on San Francisco Bay when they unanimously rejected Frank M. Burke's sixth proposal in six years, this one for a 93-acre Corte Madera Marine Center.

McBride said Burke proposed a 355-boat harbor for the site, which the Bay Conservation and Development Commission has recommended be left in its natural state.

Questioned this morning, Burke told the Independent-Journal "I guess the little old ladies in tennis shoes did me in again," referring to conservationist Elizabeth Terwilliger, who led the protest against the harbor.

Suspended Car Theft Sentence Given Parolee

Kenneth Harvey Hicks, 39-year-old state prison parolee, was given a suspended state prison sentence yesterday for car theft.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also ordered five years of probation and nine months in county jail for the San Francisco man, but gave him credit for time served since Nov. 23.

Hicks was stopped on Highway 101 in November by a California Highway Patrol officer who said the car Hicks was driving was weaving.

Not only was the car stolen, but it contained art work Hicks had done during his seven years in prison.

Hicks, who has an eight-page arrest record, reportedly was living in a halfway house for former inmates.

The district attorney's office in the pretrial conference objected to suspension of the sentence, but Gardiner held nothing would be accomplished by a trial and approved the agreement which won Hicks's plea of guilty.

Mountanos Files Counter Action

Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos yesterday filed a $1.5 million defamation suit against the former manager of the Marin Shakespeare Festival, who charged in a damage suit March 31 that the sheriff's son and other youths had beaten and robbed him.

Named as the defendant in the suit filed in Marin Superior Court is Ernest F. Simard, who is asking $175,000 in damages from eight teen-agers and their parents. He claimed the youths, including 16-year-old Marc Mountanos, beat him and robbed him of the festival's gate receipts Sept. 24.

But in the suit filed on behalf of the sheriff, his wife, Beverly, and Marc, San Francisco attorney Nathan Cohn said Marc was nursing a broken arm the night of the assault and "had been at home with his arm in a cast the entire day and had not left the premises."

Moreover, Mountanos said, Simard visited his home the night of the attack with two policemen and said at the time Marc was not involved in the attack, which followed a performance at Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael.

Therefore, the suit claims, Simard "did not have reasonable and probable cause for believing the truth of such allegation and averment."

Mountanos charged the intent of the Simard suit was "to defame plaintiff's reputation, to injure him in his business, trade and occupation and to bring him into public disgrace."

The sheriff is claiming $500,000 each in general and punitive damages for himself, his wife and son.

The suit maintains Marc was libeled and defamed by Simard's allegation that the youth "had a propensity to commit said violent acts" and further suffered damage to his reputation when Simard told people Marc had been involved in the attack.

The sheriff claims he and his wife "were injured, disgraced and defamed by Simard's charge that they "failed and/or refused to exercise reasonable and ordinary cae, discipline and control to correct said propensity (to violence)."

Simard's suit charges the eight youths camed "violently assaulted, struck, attempted to rob and in fact did rob" Simard. The money taken, estimated at $500 to $600, was recovered at the time of the robbery.

Three of the youths named in the suit, Christopher Wooton, Gary Lyons and Guy Dixon, were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of the strong-armed robbery, but police said at the time they believed six other teen-agers were involved.

Both the Shakespeare Festival and the Marin Music Chest, which used the outdoor theater areas on the Dominican College grounds, were plagued last summer with vandalism, arson and burglaries as well as such harassment as firecracker throwing.

Bike, Horse Trails Added In Novato

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended amending the Novato area general plan to adopt routes for bicycle and horse trails.

The planning staff said the current plan calls for hiking and cycling trails along natural areas, but has shortcomings: doesn't differentiate between types of trails, doesn't have defined standards for construction or a program for implementing a trail system.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

HERITAGE TREE ORDINANCE — Continued its public hearing on the proposed heritage tree ordinance, which would require a use permit to alter or remove heritage trees on private property, pending a report from city Atty. Clark Palmer.

PINHEIRO PROPERTY — Set April 24 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on pre-zoning the Pineiro ranch property, 47.12 acres west of Highway 101 and north of the city boundary, now agricultural, to planned commerical and planned residential. Plans are under way to develop a shopping center and apartments on the land.

OPEN SPACE — Set May 8 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on the proposal by "people for parks and open space" to establish a regional park district to acquire open space.

Mozart Opera Highlights To Be Given By Guild

The Fine Arts Guild of San Francisco will present highlights of Mozart's opera, "Cosi Fan Tutte," Sunday at 5 p.m. at Community Congregational Church of Tiburon.

The performance will be a shortened version of the opera in English, and the second half of the program will be favorite arias chosen by the audience.

Natasha Kimmel of Tiburon will be among the young Bay Area singers to perform. She has appeared as soloist in the Carmel Bach festival, with the Miami Opera Company, St. Louis Symphony, and recently played a leading role in the San Francisco production of "Grpheus in the Underworld."

Other singers in the cast are La Julia Hill, Georgia Prugh, William Coburn, Michael McGinley and Nicholas Massenkoff.

Following the program, wine and cheese will be served while the audience visits with the singers.

A donation will be accepted at the door in lieu of admission charge.

Pair Sought For Tam Valley Robbery

Sheriff's deputies are looking for two men who robbed a Tamalpais Valley housewife of $130 at gunpoint Friday.

Deputies said the men who had nylon stockings over their heads entered the home of Polla G. Chase at 541 Shasta Way at 11:30 a.m. and forced her to give them money.

Men Lose In Free Fish Bid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's elderly males have lost a tussle over men's liberation.

The issue arose when the Assembly Natural Resources and Conservation Committee was considering the expansion of a free fishing license program for low-income elderly persons.

As proposed, the bill would give the free licenses to any woman over 62 and any man over 65 years of age who earns less than $300 per month, compared with the current $140 limit.

During a committee meeting Monday, Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, suggested that the age for men should be reduced to 62 to avoid discrimination on the basis of sex.

At first Assemblyman Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, agreed and offered an amendment to his bill, but he withdrew it when a spokesman for the Fish and Game Department said the move would greatly increase the cost of the bill.

After the tussle over men's lib, the bill was passed without dissent and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Leader Picked For Death Penalty Drive

John Hawkes, assistant Sonoma County District Attorney, has been named chairman of the Sonoma County drive to gather petition signatures to put the death penalty question on the November ballot.

Hawkes has received support from the Sonoma County Pace Officers association on the project. Persons interested in circulating petitions, he said, should write to the association at Post Office Box 11219, Santa Rosa.

Parents Group Fails To Widen Committee

The Mill Valley School Board last night stuck by its method of selecting a principal for old Mill School, despite opposition by some parents who thought the selection committee should represent a wider section of the district.

The board told a small group of parents that a similarly-composed committee worked well in picking the new principal for Mill Valley Middle School, according to Carroll D. Killingsworth, director of business services.

The parents objected that all community representatives on the committee except one lived in the old Mill School section of the school district. Because the district has a practice of rotating principals between schools every few years, community representation on the committee should be diversified, the group said.

Killingsworth said the committee, which is still working to select a principal, is composed of eight school district staff members and eight members of the community, with six more to be chosen.

The board, also at last night's meeting, voted to notify the developer of Madera Del Presidio, a 539 unit development in Mill Valley, set aside some land for possible use as a school site, but said the district has no present plans for a school in the area.

The Mill Valley School Board Also:

SCHOOL FUNDING — Heard Killingsworth report that several legislative plans are being developed which would increase minimum state financial support for each child — possibly to as high as $700-$800 per child — though none of the plans would take effect for at least a year.

BELL LANE — Postponed deeding a small portion of Bell Lane in front of Tamalpais Valley School to the county for road maintenance.

ACCESS ROAD — Postponed until next meeting a decision on an agreement with the Tamalpais community services district for use of an access road.

INSURANCE CLAIM — Accepted and referred to its insurance carrier a claim for $50,000 in general and an undetermined amount of medidal damages for Laura Hayward, a student at Edna Maguire School struck in the head with a rock thrown by a student last November 5.

MIDDLE SCHOOL — Heard reports that cracks in the cement slab at the new school were caused by shrinkage and the repair job, a minor one, is the responsibility of the contractor, that the completion date for the school is May 30 and the building is now 94 per cent finished.

STAFFING — Were told by Killingsworth that teacher-pupil ratio has tentatively been set to remain the same next year as this? slightly higher than 25 to 1.

WORKSHOP — Set Thursday at 7:30 p.m. for a workshop of parents of children at Edna Maguire School to discuss likes and dislikes about the school program.

GOALS AND GUIDELINES — Accepted the goals proposed by a committee set up to review the district's purpose. The goals included providing primary academic subjects, flexible grouping and individualized instruction.

AUDIT — Hired the firm of Sleezer and Eckhoff to audit the district's books next year.

San Rafael School Board Meeting Set

The San Rafael Board of Education, meeting today at 7:30 p.m., will be presented the 1972-73 budget proposed by Supt. John F. Plank.

Progress reports are also planned on plans for interdisciplinary "schools within schools" at San Rafael High School and Pacific Crest High School. The original proposal, by San Rafael High School teacher Walter Belden, called for 90 to 100 students and four teachers working four hours daily.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

'Legalized' Bingo Plan Clears Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Despite objections by peace officers and district attorneys, legislation paving the way for legalization of nonprofit, charitable bingo games in California has cleared its final Assembly committee hurdle.

The proposed constitutional amendment, which would require approval by voters, and companion bill by Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, were sent to the Assembly floor Monday by the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The amendment was passed 6-0 and the bill 5-1.

Greene told the committee he had a list of 1,911 organizations that are currently playing bingo in the state, apparently in violation of the law but without prosecution.

He argued that his measure would legalize what is normal practice in the state.

Albert E. LeBas, representing the California Peace Officers and District Attorneys associations, said he realized there was a "double standard" in connection with bingo games.

But he said law officers do make arrests in connection with bingo games where a "hoodlum element" is involved. He said the groups were opposed to the legislation on grounds it would create "difficult if not impossible law enforcement problems."

The proposed amendment would permit cities and counties to authorize bingo games for charitable purposes. The bill would impose conditions on how the games were run.

The committee amended the bill to bar minors from participating in bingo games.

Greene said he might bring the measure up for Assembly consideration early next week.

TAX RELIEF

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has approved a proposed constitutional amendment allowing the state to provide direct property tax relief to homeowners based on their ability to pay the levy.

The measure by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, was sent to the Assembly floor Monday on a 5-0 vote by the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

TO PANEL

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Dr. Charles E. Brown of Los Angeles has been appointed to the state Health Care Commission by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

Brown, 47, a surgeon, is director of professional education at the Los Angeles County Martin Luther King Jr. General Hospital.

TRIAL COURTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state's trial court system would be revamped under three measures passed by the Assembly Judiciary Committee in narrow votes.

A constitutional amendment and two related bills authored by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, would merge the present Municipal, Justice and Superior courts into a state superior court system.

The bills passed the Judiciary Committee Monday on a 6-4 vote and were sent to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Judges testifying before the Judiciary Committee were split over the major changes.

Jurists in favor of Hayes' proposals argued that the dignity of the Municipal and Justice court judges would be upgraded under the bills. They also said the changes would result in increased efficiency of the court system.

But several other judges, notably from the Los Angeles area, said the measures would create "an administrative monstrosity," eliminate the present lower court training grounds and force superior court judges to hear cases below their stature.

SCHOOL FUNDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $155.9 million bond issue to construct new University of California Medical School and Health Science facilities has been approved by the Senate and forwarded to the Assembly.

The issue, proposed by Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, would appear on the November ballot. If the voters approved it, a second bond issue totaling $138.1 million would be submitted to the voters in 1976.

The Senate approved the measure Monday 30-0.

GUARD PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Senate has passed and sent to the governor a $2 million bill to pay for 405 extra prison guards and technicians hired in a crash program to stem violence.

The measure, sponsored by Gov. Ronald Reagan, was voted final legislative approval 31-0 Monday when the Senate passed the bill by Assemblyman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles.

Reagan last year authorized the hiring of the extra prison personnel, 318 of them guards, on an emergency basis. The Ketchum bill augments the current state budget.

CONSERVATION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposed constitutional amendment called "The Conservation Bill of Rights" has cleared its initial legislative hurdle.

The Assembly Committee on Natural Resources and Conservation Monday passed the measure without dissent and sent it to the Constitutional Amendments Committee. The measure, authored by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, declares that "conservation and protection of the natural resources and scenic beauty" are policies of the state. It also directs the legislature to adopt measures to carry out the conservation.

SAFE POTTERY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An Assembly committee has given a strong endorsement to consumer protection legislation banning by 1974 the manufacture of unsafe ceramic tableware which could cause lead poisoning.

Assemblyman David Pierson, D-Inglewood, said it is "not generally recognized that an attractive, brightly colored piece of pottery found in thousands of households can be a deadly source of lead poisoning."

The Assembly Health Committee Monday approved the bill on a 6-0 vote and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee.

The bill would make it unlawful after Jan. 1, 1974, to manufacture or import for sale in California glazed ceramic tableware unless a certificate of acceptability has been obtained from the state Department of Public Health.

Ornamental pottery would be required to have a warning baked in which would state: "Caution! Do not use for the preparation of or as a contained of food or drink."

A similar bill by Pierson died last year in a Senate committee.

RENT SUBSIDY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has approved by the minimum vote necessary for passage legislation establishing a state-financed rent subsidy program for low-income persons.

The bill by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was sent to the Senate Monday on a 41-10 vote.

The measure would make state funds available to local housing authorities which would lease private housing for eligible persons on a rent-subsidy basis.

Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, an opponent of the measure, complained that it held out "false hopes" because it did not contain any money for the program.

Drug Charges For Two After Accident

Two persons were arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on charges of possession of dangerous drugs.

Visiting Judge Joseph Weber set bail at $1,250 for Benjamin A. Chaney, 28, of Petaluma, and at $625 for Mary E. Burns, 22, of El Monte. They were scheduled to enter pleas tomorrow. They were arrested Saturday after a minor traffic accident in Petaluma.

To Review Plans

The Larkspur Planning Commission, meeting tonight at 8 o'clock, will review architectural plans for three apartment developments 16 units planned for 615 and 635 South Eliseo Drive, six-units planned at 40 Locust Street and nine units at 875 South Eliseo Drive.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Springtime's Universal Tonic Is Available To Everybody

Most of us look forward to spring. It is a period when nature reawakens with all of its beauty and exuberance. This is especially true in areas that have definite seasonal variations. It means the end of a long winter and the beginning of warmth and sunshine. To people in these locales, sring brings the same stimulus that sends animals out of hibernation and pushes crocuses through the earth. Spring is a tonic so universal, it must be more than psychological in origin.

THE BEST things in life still are free and the majority are close at hand. This is why simple pleasures and activities should be cultivated. Most of us can go outdoors on our lunch break and on weekends. As you walk along, be an observer. People are interesting; speculate on what they do, whether they are happy or sad or rich or poor. Now and then, "cross the tracks" and see how the other half lives. Many lessons can be learned though observation.

Every city, regardless of size, has trees and plants that compete with the concrete pavements. Plan a weekend trip into the forest and enjoy the spring flowers. These little fellows do not last long, but they live during a lovely season. How many spring flowers can you name?

BIRDS ARE everywhere, even in the city. I've seen swifts, gulls, hawks, woodpeckers, and creepers outside my window on the walls of the Tribune Tower. A few bats also have paid us a visit. A change of pace is therapeutic for anxieties, unpleasant thoughts, anger, and frustration. The mood also gets a lift. Walking is good for the muscles and circulatory system. To cover more distance, rent or buy a bicycle.

Acquire more of these simple hobbies; they can't be taxed or affected by inflation.

ALL EXERCISES ARE GOOD

J. V. writes: What exercises are best if the person wants to keep young looking?

REPLY

None in particular, because all forms of exercise keep us in trim, provided they are in keeping with our age. Other factors play a role in maintaining a youthful appearance. Among these are heredity, weight, posture, alertness, sleep, stress, diet, and habits. Over-exposure to the sun, for example, may leave the skin as wrinkled as a prune by age 40. Personal tragedy seems to age some people overnight, whereas others go down hill rapidly thru dissipation.

STOMACH ACID

A reader writes: Is it true that in stomach cancer there is no gastric juice?

REPLY

There is gastric juice, but no hydrochloric acid. Lack of this acid occurs also in other conditions, such as pernicious anemia, and in approximately 10 per cent of the healthy population.

FIRMING THE TUMMY

R. I. writes: What can be done to help lack of muscle tone of the abdominal wall?

REPLY

Muscle tissue is elastic and can be somewhat likened to rubber bands. When overstretched, muscles lose their tone and tend to sag. Exercise is most helpful.

U.S., Soviet, Others Renounce Germ War

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and 77 other countries yesterday signed a treaty renouncing the use of biological weapons.

President Nixon said it should be the first step toward eliminating the threat of war.

With Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin looking on, Nixon said in a ceremony at the State Department that not only should signers renounce force, but should not encourage other nations to use force against their neighbors.

Some observers felt Nixon's remarks were directed at the Soviet Union, which the administration has accused of encouraging the current North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

A total of 74 nations were represented in the International Conference Room at the State Department. The remaining six nations were represented at various other ceremonies in other world capitals.

Conspicuously absent, however, was France, which has also refused to sign the nuclear test ban treaty. China also was not present at any of the ceremonies, but it was uncertain whether China would eventually sign the treaty.

The agreement was signed for the United States by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Ambassador James F. Leonard.

In December, the United Nations General Assembly endorsed the treaty 110 to 0 with one abstention.

Following the ceremonly, Nixon said, "each nation of the world must renounce the use of force and aggression against other nations." He added that "every great power should recognize it has the responsibility not to encourage others in the use of force against their neighbors."

Dobrynin, who spoke prior to Nixon, called the convention "the first concrete step on the road to practical disarmament." He said Nixon's presence at the ceremony "shows wide support for this convention which mitigates the possibility of war."

The convention prohibits the development, production and stockpiling of biological and toxic weapons and provides for the destruction of existing stocks.

The biological weapons convention is the first international agreement since World War II to provide for the elimination of an existing class of weapons.

The pact covers both biological agents which could be used in germ warfare and toxins — or poisons —which can be produced through a biological or microbiological process. And the agreement calls on all parties who sign it to destroy whatever stockpiles of such weapons they now have and to pledge never to transfer them to other countries.

State Department officials said they were not sure how many nations would join in today's mass signing, but estimates ranged as high as 80.

The pact will be in addition to the 1925 Geneva Protocol which prohibited the use of poisonous gas or bacteriological weapons in warfare. There are 98 countries which have signed the 1925 pact, including China, the Warsaw Pact nations, Japan and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The United States never has agreed to the 1925 pact, but Nixon resubmitted it to the Senate in the summer of 1970. And on Nov. 25, 1969, Nixon renounced all methods of bacteriologecal warfare and the Pentagon began destroying its reserves of those weapons.

California Officially In Dry Year

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Water Resources Department yesterday officially classified 1972 as one of the driest years in California history and forecast that many major storage reservoirs will not fill.

The department reported, however, that although it will be tight, the major water projects "will satisfy their normal water commitments this year."

The department's important April bulletin on water conditions for the summer and fall months confirmed the essence of a forecast last month by Deputy Director John Teerink that California would squeak through without statewide water rationing.

"Based on the runoff records of the last 65 years, current forecasts rank as the eighth most dire for the Sacramento Valley," the bulletin said. "The San Joaquin Valley runoff forecasts for the April through July period ranks 1972 the fifth driest since 1900."

"This places 1972 just above the dry year of 1961," the report said.

"Reservoir storage is adequate in the major storage projects," it said. "However, with below normal inflows forecasted, many will not fill this year."

"Major water distribution systems such as the Colorado River Aqueduct, Central Valley Project and the State Water Project will satisfy all their normal water commitments this year," it concluded.

Measurements of the mountain snow pack revealed that the "early melt off is occurring and almost all snow courses have lost water during March. Many are already bare, especially in the southern Sierra. In the Tule and Kern River watersheds, the April 1 snow water content is the lowest in 42 years."

The department said that runoff forecasts now range from 89 per cent of normal for the Pit River in Northern California to 23 per cent normal for the Kern River in the San Joaquin Valley.

Bike Thieves, Meet The Rally Rack

By RALPH CHATOIAN

With the bicycle boom loudly thundering throughout the land, two Mill Valley men have come up with a way for people to keep the bikes away from thieves.

It's called a Rally Rack.

David A. Kesselman and Philip C. Lieb, partners of Rally Enterprises, have begun marketing the racks in the Bay Area. The rack itself can be bolted to cement, the bicycle then locked into the rack, both frame and wheels.

The two men come from corporate backgrounds. Kesselman was with Levi Strauss International, Crown Zellerbach, and studied at New York University graduate school of business administration. Lieb was with Computer Sciences Corporation, Hughes Aircraft and holds a master's degree in operations research from University of California, Berkeley. Each man is 31.

"WE BOTH just got tired of the corporate business," said Kesselman, "and wanted to get into our own business." Since both men were bicycle riders and realized the craze was sweeping the country, they decided to get into some kind of business involving bicycles.

Kesselman used a bike as a principal means of transportation during a trip in Europe and "I had a 21-pound bike and 15-pound chain to lock it with." Smaller chains can be snipped with bolt cutters, he explained.

THERE ARE a lot of bicycles roaming the land these days, and a lot of bicycle rustlers who look for those 10-speed beauties. According to the figures I've seen, there are 73 million American bike riders and manufacturers are forecasting U.S. sales of 10 million this year, a million more than last year.

And as sales soar, thefts rise just as drastically. In California, more than 400,000 bicycles were stolen last year. I have a nephew in Sacramento who actually brings his 10-speed bike into his house, to keep it away from thieves. Too many bikes have been stolen from garages and he's not taking any chances.

"We've shown the racks to police and they're all impressed with it," said Lieb.

THE RACKS weigh 30 pounds and although appearing simple enough in appearance, will make it very tough for the rustlers. Cost is $125, with sales expected at schools, shopping centers, apartment complexes, theaters and parks, plus private home use.

The rack works off a key, coin, or combination lock and employs a special alloy locking bar for the bicycle frame. The bike is slipped into the rack and then locked into place.

"We're getting an enthusiastic early response," said Kesselman, who added that the marketing is being confined to the Bay Area in the days of the product's infancy before they try to sell it across the nation. The Rally Racks are being manufactured in Palo Alto.

THE MEN have already begun national marketing of Rally Ski Bags, nylon-oxford covers to protect skis that are mounted on top of cars during trips to the snow.

Now they have hopes of national sales of their bicycle racks. Gentlemen, start your pedals.

Warriors Select Forwards

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors reached from North Carolina to Santa Barbara for their top two picks in the National Basketball Association.

After 16 teams had selected 44 players, the Warriors took 66 forward Bill Chamberlain of North Carolina in the third round Monday. They didn't have any selections in the first two rounds because of picking up Cyril Baptiste in the hardship draft last summer and trading their second round pick for Jim Barnett.

Chamberlain, who took a back seat to junior Robert McAdoo on the North Carolina squad last season, was described as very mobile. He averaged 13.5 points and six rebounds per game. Chamberlain also has been drafted by Carolina of the American Basketball Association.

John Tschogl, another 6-6 forward, was the Warriors pick in the fourth round. He was a mainstay for UC Santa Barbara last season.

In the fifth round, the Warriors dipped into the Pacific-8 Conference for 6-2 guard Charles Dudley of Washington. Golden State then drafted Henry Bacon of Louisville, Bill Franklin of Purdue, Johnny Burks of the University of San Francisco and Bill Duwe of California before passing on the 10th round.

Players Reject End Strike Bid; Baseball Could Suffer: Finley

Snag Over Game Pay Forfeitures

NEW YORK (UPI) —Negotiations between the major league clubowners and players appeared today to be stymied by a new issue which executive director Marvin Miller of the Players Association called "a terrible, terrible road block."

The issue was a stipulation by the clubowners that the players forfeit their pay for the days they struck while agreeing to make up the games postponed during the 11-day strike and play a 162-game schedule.

The stipulation was contained in an offer by John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the clubowners, "to use $400,000 of the gains now on deposit in the fund for additional pension benefits."

The offer was flatly rejected Monday night by Miller, appearing on the ABC network TV program Monday Night Sports. Miller said, "the owners are asking the players to work overtime for nothing ... I think it is incredible."

Asked whether the new issue could be resolved, Miller replied: "I don't see how it can. I do not see any early solution. This iron-clad provision that the players will work overtime for no pay is incredible."

National League President Charles Feeney, appearing on the same program moments after Miller made his statement, said, however, "we are very close in the pension area .. I hope this strike can be resolved tomorrow."

Gaherin made the pension fund offer late Monday after meeting with Miller and federal mediator J. Curtis Counts in Washington early in the morning. Optimism caused by a telephone call by President Nixon to Counts Saturday night, expressing hope for an early settlement, proved unfounded.

Gaherin followed up the announcement of the new offer with the statement, "the condition is that the players will not be paid for the days they have not played thus far this season.

"Further," Gaherin added, "that the clubs will try to make up most of the cancelled games so as to complete a 162-game schedule and the players will be expected to participate in that schedule within the framework of the basic agreement."

Miller and Ghaerin expressed gratitude for the intervention of Counts, with whom they met for two hours, but agreed that little progress in the talks developed from the meeting.

"I am very glad Mr. Counts has agreed to offer his help in the talks," said Miller. "But I can't say the talks moved us any closer to a settlement."

Gaherin added that he was "always hopeful" of ending any labor dispute but offered little

A's Boss Blames Owners, Players

NEW YORK (UPI) —Charles Finley, predicting that the baseball strike would come to an end today or tomorrow, nevertheless feels that the game could suffer ill effects for several years.

Explaining that his losses as owner of the Oakland Athletics already were nearing the quarter-million dollar mark, Finley said it may be five years before he'd know his total loss. He attributed this to possible reaction from fans and broadcast sponsors.

"I hope sports in general will wake up and realize the fans owe us nothing," Finley said. "As a matter of fact, the fans can get along quite well without us. Baseball has lost some prestige and I don't think it will encourage people to come swarming into the ballparks."

As for the strike, Finley said Monday night, "I expect we'll settle it tomorrow, but it could have been settled earlier if we had had a joint meeting."

Then, referring to the pension plan, which touched off the strike 11 days ago, Finley said: "The average fan is a working man. He sees players with only four years service in the major leagues drawing benefits at the age of 45. A man can enter the majors at age 20, retire at 30, work at another job and then be eligible for two pensions. Then, at 65, he'll also collect tax free social security.

"The fans see all of this and think the ballplayers are greedy. But they're not greedy and I hope the fans don't take it out on the players."

Finley said that "all parties are at fault" in the strike, and was quick to point out the owners' guilt.

"The players were asking for too much and the owners had been offering too little," Finley said. "The owners were not brought up to date on the pension plan before the strike, only after, and then only for 45 minutes."

The white-haired owner confessed, "I must admit I was one of the owners at the Chicago meeting that was adamant and standing pat. I was standing pat only because I had not presented with the facts before the meeting. Shortly thereafter I consulted with several top insurance actuaries in Chicago and also had two conversations with John Abel (a Philadelphia actuary). As a result, I realize that a fair compromise could be made."

Finley, an insurance executive for 30 years, said the true facts were shaded from the owners.

"John Abel presented a complete written report of the pension plan to the owners in Chicago last week," he said. "Forty-five minutes later the two league presidents picked them up and confiscated them.

MISS LONG SETS GOAL ON NBA

WHITTEN, Iowa (UPI — Denise Long, 21, the most prolific scorer in the history of Iowa High School Girls' basketball, said Monday she wants to enter the National Basketball Association's $15,000 one-on-one contest.

"I'm perfectly serious about entering," said Miss Long, who averaged 69 points per game during her senior year for Union-Whitten High School.

Kentucky Eliminated By ABA Nets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI)— Rookie John Roche scored 32 points and Billy Paultz held 7-foot star Artis Gilmore scoreless from the field in the fourth quarter Monday night as the New York Nets defeated the Kentucky Colonels 101-96 and clinched their American Basketball Association quarterfinal playoff series four games to two.

The Nets will open their semifinal playoff at Virginia Thursday night. The second game of the best-of-seven series also will beat Virginia Sat urday.

The Nets seemed on their way to an easy win as they stretched a 56-48 halftime lead to 64-53 early in the third quarter. However, Nets star Rick Barry picked up his fifth personal foul at that point and Kentucky managed to close within 80-76 going into the final quarter.

However, Roche's scoring and Paultz' defense kept the Nets in front the rest of the way. Roche tallied nine of his points in the final 12 minutes of play and Paultz managed to blank Gilmore.

UP IN ARMS — Kentucky's Lou Dampier and New York Net Billy Paultz prepared for a rebound during the sixth game of the American Basketball Association playoff series last night in Uniondale, N.Y. The host New Yorkers won the game, 101-96, and the series, four games to two.

Frazier Blasts Ali, Maps Plans

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Joe Frazier expects to defend his heavyweight boxing title at least two or three times more this year against promising new fighters —a move he contends sets him above Muhammad Ali, who is fighting "nothing but reruns."

Frazier's next challenger is Ron Stander, a burley former Council Bluffs, Iowa butcher who will seek the heavyweight crown May 25 in Nebraska's first title match in history.

Stander was training for the soon to be sellout fight in Boston under veteran Johnny Dunn when Frazier arrived in Omaha Monday for a quick tour prior to returning to his Philadelphia fight headquarters.

In addition to Stander, nicknamed the "Bluffs Butcher", Frazier said he expects "two or three" more fights this year, preferring to give promising newcomers to the ring a shot at the crown.

Frazier denied that Stander, who holds a 23-1-1 record, including 15 knockouts, will be a pushover.

BOSTON, NEW YORK

2 NHL Teams Seek Clincher

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Boston and New York need victories on home ice tonight to wrap up their respective quarterfinal series in the Stanley Cup playoffs and join the Chicago Black Hawks in the semis.

The Bruins overcame a 4-2 deficit Sunday night to edge the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 and the Rangers' after blowing a 4-2 lead, rallied for a 6-4 decision over the Montreal Canadiens.

This gave both Boston and New York 3-1 leads in their best-of-seven sets, and both clubs will have the advantage of home ice tonight in their bids to wrap it up.

Minnesota and St. Louis start all over, meanwhile, with their series deadlocked at two games each after the Blues won a pair of weekend games on their home ice. The fifth game tonight will be at Minnesota.

Chicago became the first team to gain the semifinals when it completed a four-game sweep of Pittsburgh with a 6-5 overtime victory against the Penguins Sunday night. The Black Hawks will meet the survivor of the New York-Montreal series in the next round.

Frank "King" Clancy, while taking a side jab at the Bruins, admitted that they were in mighty good position to wipe out his Toronto team tonight.

"It doesn't look as though the season will last much longer for us," said the 69-year-old substitute coach. But he then said the Bruins aren't "as good as they think they are ... They get lucky and I suppose the good teams always look lucky ... But I know they're not that good."

The Rangers were hurting and seemed demoralized Sunday night after allowing Montreal to tie the score at 4-4 early in the third period. Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert both were playing with injuries, Ron Stewart was in the dressing room with a rib injury suffered earlier in the game and Walt Tkaczuk was banished for being the third man in a fight between linemate Bill Fairbairn and Montreal's Marc Tardiff.

But Pete Stemkowski, the hero of last year's triple overtime victory over Chicago, then stole the puck from Canadien defenseman J.C. Tremblay and scored the goal then turned around the entire complexion of the game and the series.

"He's a real money player," Ranger Coach Emile Francis said in praise of Stemkowski. "He smells out those big goals."

Jacques Caron was the St. Louis goalie in both victories over the North Stars, allowing only three goals, and gave the Blues a tremendous lift.

But defenseman Barclay Plager, who recieved credit for Sunday's winning goal, expressed the problem still facing the Blues by saying, "We've still got to win one on their ice to win the series."

Baseball Change

Marin Catholic High School's baseball game with Terra Linda, originally scheduled for Saturday, April 22, has been changed to Friday, April 21, at 4 p.m. at Albert Park, Marin Catholic athletic director and baseball coach Gary Hughes announced yesterday.

Prep Of Week: Frey

By LEW CODDINGTON

The various Marin County Athletic League baseball coaches, distraught over a possible seven-team race, have enough problems already to give them more than their quota of sleepless nights.

So maybe nobody should tell them about Gene Frey and his extra pitch. They'll find out soon enough, anyway.

Frey, who pitches for Redwood High School, informed the world Saturday night that he has developed a slider. He struck out 12 San Marin Mustangs that evening and came within one out of pitching a no-hitter. His performance capped a week in which he pitched 14 innings and allowed no earned runs, and earned him Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors.

"The slider is my best pitch," said Frey. "I've had it for three days."

It's a grim thought for opposing batters. Without the slider, Frey last year compiled a 4-1 record as a sophomore and was named honorable mention all-league. With the pitch still in the tinkering stage, he pitched a seven-inning no-hitter against Hoover High of Fresno March

NCAA TALK:

Financial Aid For Athletes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— Legislation directed toward financial aid of college athletes can be expected at next January's National Collegiate Athletic Association Convention.

That position was reaffirmed Monday by NCAA executive director Walter Byers, who reported on the NCAA Council's meetings here.

The Council voted to continue its support of four areas of financial aid legislation and to sponsor legislation at the Chicago convention.

The four areas supported by the Council:

1. Aid based on financial need.
2. Limitation on financial aid by sports.
3. A candidates' declaration program, an extension of the current letter-of-intent.
4. Limitation of financial aid to one-year grants.

Athletic grants based on financial need is the one consideration that is certain to stir a storm of controversy. Many major college football coaches alraady are on record as being violently opposed to such a program.

The Council will meet again Aug. 16-18 at a site to be named later to consider the financial aid legislation once more.

The Council also approved what will be a substantial change in the machinery of the NCAA's enforcement program. If passed at the convention, the Committee on Infractions will become a judicial body rather than just a fact-finding body. The committee will be empowered to impose penalties, which now is one of the functions of the Council.

The Council proposed that the committee be increased from itu present three members to five.

The Council also took strides to extend its enforcement program into the realm of ethics. Byers said the NCAA had been "unaggressive" in the enforcement of ethical standards in the past. He said the Council's attitude was affected by several incidents during the past basketball season, including the Minnesota-Ohio State fiasco.

In the future, penalties from a private reprimand to a show-cause procedure may be enforced against coaches and athletes because of unethical displays. Byers said the extreme would be the suspension or dismissal of a coach and the loss of eligibility by an athlete.

Redwood In Golf Title Run

Redwood High School thrust itself into the thick of the Marin County Athletic League title race in golf yesterday by solidly trouncing defending champion Terra Linda, 206-220, in a season-opening match at the Meadow Club near Fairfax.

While that match was being played on the front nine, San Marin was annihilating Marin Catholic on the back nine, 214-270.

"I knew we'd play well, but we didn't expect to beat them that bad," said Redwood coach Bob Sargent after his troops stunned Terra Linda.

Jeb Harrison shot a two-over par 38 to take medalist honors for Redwood. Scott Huber and Steve Harris each shot 40 to give the Giants three men with scores below Terra Linda's best, a 41 by Greg Cudworth.

John Hayes and Joe Guth each shot 41 for San Marin, as did Colin Smith for Marin Catholic.

The results:

Redwood 206, Terra Linda 220 at Meadow Club

Redwood — Jeb Harrison (medalist) 38, Scott Huber 40, Steve Harris 40, Arnold Brooks 44, Blake Andros 44.

Terra Linda — Greg Cudworth 41, Rich Purdle 44, Kai Bergheer 44, Doug Talley 45, Larry Cartmill 46.

San Marin 214, Marin Catholic 270 at Meadow Club

Marin Sportsmen Will Miss 'Barse'

By AL GIDDINGS

Sad news for the local sportsmen of Marin County. Roy "Barse" Barsuglia, 51, of San Rafael who was well known to us all, became suddenly ill a few weeks ago. He had probably never been to a doctor in his life. He died last Friday. Barse, usually seen driving his big green hunting truck, will be missed by all of us. He was a good humored, quiet, very nice guy.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game today recommended 25 special anterless and either-sex deer hunts with 12,200 permits for the 1972-73 season.

"In all cases where we recommend hunts," said DFG director Ray Arnett, "the quotas could be taken without harm to the herds and are aimed at bringing the herds into closer balance with the habitat. Generally, the department has recommended hunts only where they are supported by the sportsmen concerned."

Arnett said that the DFG will greatly expand emphasis on habitat improvement favorable to deer and other wildlife through projects on state-owned ranges and cooperative efforts with federal and private landholders.

THE DFG ALSO recommended a rocky mountain elk hunt in Shasta and Siskiyou counties with 200 permits, and an antelope hunt in Modoc and Lassen Counties with 380 permits.

Last year the DFG proposed 25 special hunts with 11,575 permits. The California Fish and Game Commission, after conducting local hearings on proposed hunts, authorized 22 hunts with 11,150 permits. A total of 2,756 deer were reported taken by hunters.

The DFG said forage production on California deer ranges, except for the southern part of the state where growth was negligible because of the lack of rain, was normal to good last year.

However, the statement said, although many of the deer ranges have shown an annual increase in forage production, the long-ter trend is downward.

ACCORDING TO DFG Big Game Coordinator Wallace Macgregor, reduction in deer range continues because of urban development, subdivision, spraying of sagebrush, highway construction, conversion of wild lands for agriculture and reservoir construction.

"Throughout the state," Macgregor said, "large blocks of land are becoming less productive due to the maturation of browse plants which produce less nutritious and palatable forage."

In addition, because of improved fire suppression techniques, he said, second growth timber is now reaching maturity and crowding out browse plants.

All these factors have generally caused a reduction in both the quantity and quality of deer ranges in the state," Macgregor said.

IN ADDITION to DFG projects aimed at improving deer habitat, Macgregor pointed to the short-term range benefits that will be derived from some of the wildfires that burned about 380,000 acres of range in southern California during 1970.

Macgregor said the fires resulted in the opening of dense stands of overmature browse. The DFG provided emergency funds to help reseed burned areas in San Diego, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Monterey and Kern counties.

Guidet Barely Misses Record In Track Meet

Al Guidet of Petaluma, 53, missed equaling his United States 50-and-over age-group record for the 100-yard dash by one-tenth of a second Sunday in a senior men's track and field meet held at Tamalpais High School.

Guidet won his specialty in 11.2 seconds. There were two double winners in the meet — Jim Lingle won the 220 (24.2 seconds) and the 440 (55.4), while Chet Steele won the shot put (33 feet) and discus (113 feet).

Also victorious were Bob Glasgow in the under-50 100-yard dash (10.9), Dave Brown in the 880 (2:08.0), Dennis Teagarden in the mile (4:59.0), and Don Rose in the high jump (5-7¾).

Swimmers Return To Classes

The seven Marin County young swimmers who were competing last week in the National Amateur Athletic Union championships in Dallas, Tex., are back to normal in their classrooms, today, with memories of competing against the best.

Top performance, of course, came from Olympic hopeful Rick DeMont, 15-year-old sensation from Terra Linda. He placed third in the 1,650-yard freestyle and sixth in the 500 free events. He was the only swimmer in the Marin County contingent to place.

Following are the times for each of the Marin competitors:

Rick DeMont — 1,650 free, 15:36.0; 500 free, 4:34.5.

Denise Ham — 100 butterfly, 1:02.0; 200 butterfly, 2:13.8; 200 individual medley, 2:15.5; 200 breaststroke, 2:33.3.

Jo Hislop — 200 free, 1:57.4; 500 free, 5:16.1; 1,650 free, 18:07.

Cookie Arrighi — 100 back, 1:02.5.

and Claude Terry of Stanford—went in the third round. The Knicks drafted Truitt while Phoenix picked up Terry. Other third-round picks were Eric McWilliams of Long Beach (Houston) and USC's Ron Riley (Cincinnati).

Meanwhile, the National Basketball Association, taking advantage of one of the thinnest crops of college basketball talent in recent years, has set the stage for a real shootout with the rival American Basketball Association.

The NBA conducted its annual draft of college seniors Monday and shocked everyone by drafting two established ABA stars and another player who has already signed an ABA contract on its first round of selections.

The Buffalo Braves started the fireworks by choosing 6-foot- 9 forward Robert McAdoo of North Carolina as the No. 2 choice in the draft. This was done less than five minutes after NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy had notified all 17 teams that McAdoo had signed a contract with the Virginia Squires of the ABA.

The Chicago Bulls and the Milwaukee Bucks, however, pulled the real stunners of the first round when they respectively chose Ralph Simpson and Julius Erving, two of the ABA's superstars. Simpson plays for the Denver Rockets and Erving with the Virginia Squires.

LaRue Martin, a 6-10 center from Loyola of Chicago, turned out to be the No. 1 pick as expected. Martin was taken by the Portland Trail Blazers, who have problems at center.

The only other center taken in the first round was 6-10 Tom Riker of South Carolina, who was selected by the New York Knicks.

Redwood Pitcher Frey Works 'Slider' Into Game

27, only to lose on two hits in eight innings, 2-0.

"What stands out about Gene Frey is his attention to detail," said coach Al Endriss. "He is very careful about things like his grip on the ball, or his hip action. He can locate quickly the reasons why he can't get the ball over, on those occasions when he's having trouble.

"In addition, he has great natural gifts. He's a big kid, he's strong, and he can throw hard. I've had a lot of kids who have had gifts like that, who tried just to get by on their ability. But Frey is a worker. He has great desire."

At 6-foot-4 and 200 pounds, Frey is big, especially for a junior. His fast ball is hard ("when he's 'on' he can throw it by the majority of high-school batters," says Endriss) but its main asset is that "when it's moving, it's hard to hit," in Frey's words.

"Baseball is my sport — I play it the year round," says Gene. "The hardest thing to learn about pitching was developing the right form. I relied mainly on my fast ball before the slider."

GENE FREY
Talented pitcher

Frey played basketball in junior high and football as a freshman, but abandoned those sports for baseball. "I don't like the real hard contact sports," he said.

Frey would like to play professional baseball, but plans to go to college first. "I don't have any in mind yet. I'll wait and see if there are any baseball scholarship offers," he says.

He says he would major in English in college. "It's my favorite subject now," he says. "In junior high, this friend and I even tried to write a book." He stopped and smiled slightly. "We junked it about three-quarters of the way through."

Frey also flies control line model airplanes, and his ambitions soar in the field of aviation. "At one time I was thinking of enrolling in the Air Force Academy," he said. "Also, I might try to get a regular civilian pilot's license — my dad and I have discussed this."

Another possibility is that Frey will become a policeman. "Probably highway patrol," he said. "My dad is an ambulance driver and I've gotten to know a lot of police officers through him."

Frey already is a policeman, in a sense, as a member of the Marin Youth Umpires Association. "We get five dollars a game for doing Little League games," he said. "It's given me more respect for umpires and the pressures they face."

When Frey is on the mound, the pressures are minimal. The umps spend a good deal of their time simply counting to three and saying, "Out!"

Campaign To Block TV Game Blackouts Hits Los Angeles

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Miami attorney Ellis Rubin is seeking to spread his public campaign against television blackouts to Southern California.

Rubin appeared before a news conference here Monday to enlist support of his drive which began in Miami when he sought vainly to enjoin the National Football League from blacking out the Super Bowl there.

With Los Angeles scheduled to host the 1973 Super Bowl, Rubin said he was starting a movement against the game being blacked out.

hope that a settlement is imminent.

Miller, the 24 player representatives and their alternates, were scheduled to meet in New York today while Gaherin was scheduled to report back to the owners.

Daniel Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, insisted that retroactive pay to the players "will never happen" but Charles Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics, said he was in favor of paying.

"Retroactive pay will never happen," said Galbreath. "It's morally wrong. We will not justify it."

"Pay 'em," said Finley. "Were going to lose anyway you look at it. Both sides are going to lose. There's no way to go back and pickup those dates we lost but in order to get this thing settled we should pay them. Why split hairs?"

Finley estimated the strike has already cost him $250,000 and added, "the full cost to baseball probably won't be known for another five years because of possible reaction from fans and broadcast sponsors."

Petaluma Falls To Montgomery In League Track

Petaluma High School made up a rain-cancelled North Bay League track and field meet with Montgomery of Santa Rosa yesterday, but the Trojans could have used another rainout as they were beaten, 81-53.

The loss dropped the Trojans' NBL mark to 0-2 and left them 2-3 for the season.

THE KIENTZ FAMILY

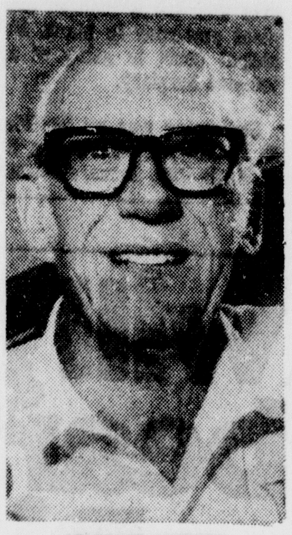
3rd-Generation Bakery —50th Year In Marin

The bakery that brought pre-sliced bread into Marin County homes for the first time, more than 40 years ago, is celebrating its 50th anniversary.

Kientz Pastry Shop at 625 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, has been in the same location and in the same family ownership for three generations since April 1, 1922, when the late Louis Kientz first set up shop.

It was called San Anselmo Bakery and was across the street from where Gunning's Hobbies is now located. In 1925 Kientz built the present structure.

In 1935, son August Kientz and his wife Alice took over the bakery under its present name, Kientz Pastry Shop. The store has had several face-liftings since then, but the name and location have remained unchanged.



AUGUST KIENTZ
Starts 51st Year

August was 15 when he first went to work in his father's bakery, and has worked continuously there for 50 years. At age 64 (he will be 65 in June), he still devotes full time to the business.

"We were the first retail bakery delivering house to house in the county," Kientz recalled. "And we were the first ones who slice bread in the area." Machine slicing of bread had started in Los Angeles and Sacramento, but had not been introduced in the Bay Area.

Kientz' father went to Sacramento to study the process, came back to Marin and on Feb. 14, 1931, proudly announced in the San Rafael Independent:

"Sliced bread now offered. New product of the San Anselmo Bakery, manufacturers of 'Marin Maid' bread. Ten cents a loaf."

Fifteen years ago, Richard Kientz, the third generation of the bakery family, joined his father in the business and is now president of the company.

Kientz Pastry is planning an open house and birthday cake on Saturday to celebrate the golden anniversary and the beginning of its second half-century in business.

Higher Rates Par For The Week

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Higher rates paid to savers and by borrowers characterized this past week, Crocker Bank said Friday in its money market review.

Short term rates continued to move higher and, in response, most banks raised the rates paid on certificates of deposit by roughly ¼ of 1 per cent. In addition most banks acknowledged the rising rates and the higher cost of funds by adopting a 5 per cent prime commercial loan rate.

Bond prices continued their downward drift, the likely result of spotty investor interest.

At week's end, Crocker Bank said, prices had stabilized so that corporates were down ½ to ¾ of a point, and municipal issues were down about 10 basis points.

Because calendars of new issues are not excessively large, the bank termed the current price markdown "overdone" and expects a rebound from these low prices.

Stock Exchanges Are Made Easier

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Four of the state's biggest banks and the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange have announced a move to simplify the processing of securities transactions.

Samuel B. Stewart, senior vice chairman of the Bank of America, and Thomas P. Phelan, PCSE president, said Monday the banks signed a memorandum of understanding to deposit stock certificates they hold into a West Coast depository facility.

The facility, they said, would be part of a national depository system to immobilize stock certificates.

The other banks are United California, Wells Fargo and Security Pacific National.

Stocks Turn Mixed With Active Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks turned to a mixed pattern during the first two hours today after being lower at the outset. Trading was fairly active.

Advancing issues led declines, 685 to 540, among the 1,601 crossing the tape. The two -hour volume amounted to more than 6,700,000 shares.

After surging to three-year highs last week, the market continues to reflect strength, according to many analysts. Some profit taking which set in Monday was to be expected, they said.

Some attributed Monday's softness to concern over the war in Vietnam. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said additional air and naval forces would be sent there. But the market's concern over such developments did not appear great.

In the Exchange, prices were slightly higher in fairly active trading. Phoenix Steel was the most active issue, up ¾ at 5 on 37,700 shares.

Great Western Income Rise In '72

LOS ANGELSE (BW) — Net income of Great Western Financial Corp. for the three months ended March 31, before extraordinary items, amounted to $7.91 million or 53 cents per share.

Comparable earnings in the first quarter of 1971 were $6.1 million, or 41 cents a share, company spokesmen said.

Bank Of California Income Dip

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California yesterday reported first quarter income before security losses of $861,000, or 29 cents per share, a 60 per cent decrease from $2.21 million, or 73 cents per share, earned in the first quarter of 1971.

Bank chairman Charles De Bretteville said net income after security losses for 1972's first uarter was $829,000 as compared with $2.19 million for the same period a year ago.

In his report De Bretteville attributed lower earnings to narrow margins imposed by falling loan rates and a still relatively high cost of funds, coupled with increases in operating costs.

"This has been the situation with most major banks this quarter and as a consequence many are expected to report, as we are, a decline for the period," De Bretteville said.

He also said 1971 was "a record year of expansion" and the cost impact of fourth quarter activity had been reflected in first quarter operating expenses during 1972.

"Despite these conditions the bank continues to enjoy good volumes with total deposits as of March 31 of $1.86 billion, an increase of 13 per cent from $1.64 billion in the first quarter of 1971," he said.

Loans and discounts were $1.34 billion, an increase of 27 per cent over the $1.05 billion reported a year ago.

Meat Company To Add Retail Butcher Shop In San Rafael

Colombo Meat Co., San Rafael meat wholesaler, will add a retail butcher shop that will be open to the public and sell meat wholesale to the Marin housewife.

Mario Colombo, who has been in the meat and poultry business for more than 25 years, hopes to have his butcher shop opened next month at 125 Verdi Street, next to Colombo Meat Co. at 127 Verdi Street.

"I've been thinking about this for a couple of years," said Colombo. "What difference does it make whether I sell wholesale to restaurants or to the housewives? It will be an awful break for the housewifes because they can come in and buy at wholesale prices."

A native of Marin County, Colombo started Mario's Fish and Poultry in 1947. He sold that and opened Colombo Meat Co. seven years ago.

Sonoma Gives Up Right To PG&E Parcel

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Sonoma County supervisors have relinquished their right to buy land owned by the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. at Bodega Head which may be acquired by the state for a park.

PG&E purchased the 269-acre site in 1960 and 1962 but has advised the State Parks and Recreation Department it is willing to sell since environmentalists have objected to its plans there for a nuclear power plant.

By a resolution, the supervisors gave up the right granted them in 1970 to first refusal of the right to purchase the land.

Both the commission and the legislature would have to approve the acquisition of the land.

Security Losses Reported By Bank

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — The Bank of California has reported first quarter income before security losses of $861,000, or 29 cents per share, a 60 per cent decrease from $2,212,000, or 73 cents per share, earned in the first quarter of 1971, according to bank chairman Charles De Bretteville. Net income after security losses for the first quarter of 1972 was $829,000 as compared with $2,190,000 for the same period a year ago.

Growth Is Accelerating For First National City

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please comment on First National City Corp. stock. I have a large capital gain and hesitate to sell. However the 3 per cent current yield is not satisfactory. — A.F.

A. Now operating as a bank holding company, NYSE-listed Citibank has moved up about 10 points since the first of the year. Higher than expected final quarter earnings were responsible in part for the strong market performance. A step-up in earnings growth from the five-year compound average of 7 per cent to a target of 15 per cent annually was surpassed in 1970 and 1971.

Consumer lending, foreign operations and nonbanking subsidiaries were important contributors to that achievement. With earnings in a strong uptrend it is safe to assume that dividend payments will be liberalized again this year.

If a larger return is vital you might be wise to sell a portion of your shares, banking proceeds for use in supplementing the modest dividend. Partial sale also would reduce the impact of the capital gains tax. Shares have above-average potential over the next 12 to 18 months and should be held otherwise.

Q. I am interested in Baird Atomic (OTC). What is your view on this speculative stock? — T.R.

A. Shares are attractive for individuals willing and able to assume risk. In the field of sophisticated "seeing" medical instruments, Baird is without peers. The autofluoroscope manufactured by Baird allows a physician to "see" an organ.

This scintillation camera device is linked to a computer which stores the diagnostic information gathered. An Imager unit capable of three-dimensional definition of organs also has been developed.

Another system recently brought out by Baird allows rapid inspection of luggage in instances of airplane bomb threats. Less glamorous "bread and butter' product lines have been in good demand.

In fiscal 1971 company made progress, pushing sales up 14 per cent and reducing its deficit to 24 cents a share. In the December quarter, first of the current fiscal year, a 5 cents a share profit was reported. Shares have attractive potential for risk accounts.

Good April Market For 1972 Seen

BABSON PARK, Mass. — "April 1951 was a good month for common stock investors, and looking back through Wall Street history, one finds precedent for a good April market again this year," reported Roger E. Spear, president of Spear and Staff, Inc., investment advisors.

"The trend over the past two decades reveals that in five out of six of the last election years, prices tended to average higher during April," he said. "This year looks like it should be no exception."

Spear credits the primary influence for the April spurt to anticipated first quarter reports.

For example, Spear said his research department has already reviewed five companies which are programmed on their COM-STAT service. "The average earnings gain over the first quarter of 1971 was 31.8 per cent," he said.

Voter Sampling Backs Added Taxes For Open Space Lands

According to a poll of 9,802 of Marin's 95,292 registered voters, there is willingness to pay additional taxes for purchase of open space in the county.

People for Parks and Open Space — a group pushing for a countywide regional park district — said that 73 per cent of the 9,802 persons who responded to its four-question survey favored such taxes.

Of those responding, 74.1 per cent were homeowners, the group said. Respondents were stopped in shopping centers throughout the county.

The four questions posed in the survey were:

"What use do you think should be made of the Marin ridgelands and undeveloped waterfront areas? (Pick one or more of the following — residential, park-open space, industrial-commercial, or no opinion.)

"Given the opportunity, would you vote for or against the creation of a regional district in Marin County to purchase land in the ridgelands and waterfront areas to be held as open space. (Possible answers — for, against, no opinion.)

"If such a district is created, it could increase the property taxes for a $35,000 house by $8.75 per year. Given this additional information, would you vote for or against the creation of such a district? (Answers — for, against, no opinion.)

"What maximum would you be willing to pay each year per family in taxes to support such a district? (Answers — nothing, $10, $20, $30, $40, $50, more, and no opinion.)

Pollsters also asked respondents' home towns, voting status and if they were homeowners.

"To make the survey most meaningful," the group said, "the information was programmed to assume anyone who felt residential or commercial uses were best suited to Marin's ridgelands and shoreline would be against a regional district to purchase open space.

"It was further assumed people with no opinions on the best use of the land would have no opinion on the creation of a district," they said.

In results, tabulated by Fair-Isaac and Co. of San Rafael, 84.6 per cent favored open space as the best use, 74.2 per cen said they would vote for a district to buy the land, and 64.9 per cent said they would pay the additional tax.

The group said of those willing to pay the taxes, 52.6 per cent were unwilling to pay much more than the anticipated 10-cent tax as a maximum, 12.7 per cent said they would pay up to $40 and 16.4 per cent said they would pay $50 or more. No opinion was voiced by 18.3 per cent.

A complete breakdown of the results of the poll by People for Parks and Open Space Produced these comparative figures:

Santa Rosa Man Killed On Highway

A 65-year-old Santa Rosa man was killed yesterday in a collision at 3:31 p.m. with a tractor-trailer truck on Highway 101, south of Railroad Avenue, Cotati.

Amos Henry Branstetter was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol said Branstetter was northbound in a pickup truck when a tractor trailer rig driven by Harry N. Holgersen, 31, of Eureka, attempted to pass him. Officers said the front of the trailer struck the rear of the pickup truck, spun out of control and pushed it up an embankment.

Charles Cowdrey, 63, of Graton, a passenger in the pickup truck was reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with head and face cuts, a broken left arm and a broken right leg.

Youth Injured In Shoreline Accident

A San Jose youth, hurt when his car ran off Shoreline Highway near the entrance to Marina Cove, was treated at Marin General Hospital for concussion, according to a hospital spokesman.

William R. Cornelius, 16, was trying to pass another car Sunday and ran off the road about 11:30 a.m., according to the California Highway Patrol.

Alan Waterman Dies Of Accident Injuries

Alan E. Waterman, 21, of Petaluma, who was injured in a motorcycle accident Sunday, died yesterday at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco.

Waterman, a Navy petty officer third class, suffered severe head injuries when he was thrown from his motorcycle on Petaluma Boulevard North near Gossage Avenue, Petaluma.

He was born in Reno, Nev. and came to California as a child. Waterman had lived in Petaluma for 15 years and was a graduate of Petaluma Senior High School and attended Santa Rosa Junior College.

Waterman had been in the Navy for two years and was stationed at Le Moore Naval Air Station near Fresno. He lived at 36 Greylawn Avenue.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Waterman and a brother, Dennis Waterman, all of Petaluma.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Robert Elton Yates of Walnut Creek has pleaded innocent to two counts of burglary. A preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court was set for April 25.

Yates was arrested after two articles taken in two burglaries in San Rafael March 2 were pawned at the San Rafael Loan Co.

The case of codefendant Mario E. Colacci was transferred to Juvenile Hall last month.

Three Switch Pleas To Guilty

Three men arrested Nov. 29 outside a Tamalpais Valley restaurant with nylon stockings over their heads changed their pleas yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to guilty of attempted burglary.

Sentencing was set for May 22 for Larry David Adams, 22, of Marin City, Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of San Francisco, and Keith James Jackson, 19, of San Rafael.

In exchange for the plea, charges of conspiring to steal lodged against all three, possessing stolen property against Adams, and possessing marijuana against Stringer and Jackson were dropped.

The three were arrested by sheriff's deputies who said the men were behind La Camembert restaurant shortly after midnight.
